Dear Sir: RE: LANGSTON HUGHES
INTERNAL SECURITY - J

(b)(7)(D)
(b)(7)(C)

On January 31, 1942 [redacted] Los Angeles office telephone [redacted] advised Special Agent [redacted] that LANGSTON HUGHES, internationally famous Negro poet, had attended a luncheon at the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo, Japan sometime in 1933 and at this luncheon HUGHES was the principal speaker. In his speech, HUGHES related to a predominantly Japanese audience the alleged ill-treatment of the negroes in this country. He predicted that there would one day come a war in which all the colored races, black, yellow, and red, would join in the subjugation of the whites. HUGHES stated that there was a natural bond between these colored races and that their opposition to the white race should be expressed in combat. (U)

The informant advised that she had recently heard HUGHES on a nation-wide broadcast from New York and that the above described expressions were recalled to her mind with the thought that possibly HUGHES is presently engaged in subversive activities. (U)

This information is furnished for whatever value it may possess. (U)

In his speech at the W. Federal Street branch of the YMCA, negro branch, subject praised the Soviet Union where he spent 18 months studying in Moscow.

He stated that there will be no racial discrimination in the United States if the people would follow the Russian example. Stated that he is a believer in t Russian Soviet form of government and thereby admitted being a Communist.

Hannah and Ben Blumenthal tried very hard to have subject go with them and other white communists for a visit at the Blumenthal home at 103 Brooklyn Ave. aft the meeting. Although he really wanted to go with the communists, he was committe to go with S. S. Booker, YMCA secretary, to his home at 310 W. Myrtle Ave. where a group of negro intellectuals consisting of Maynard Dickerson, Wm. Howard, Clarence Robinson, Rev. Gibson, Henry Pugett, Bertram Carlson and others, discussed racial affairs until about 1 A. M.

Subject left here for Cleveland, Ohio.

LANGSTON HUGHES (NEGRO)

COMMUNIST

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED EXCEPT WHERE SHOWN OTHERWISE

Youngstown, Ohio,

April 28, 1943.

This person is a well known negro poet who admits being a Communist. He was brought to Youngstown for a lecture tonight by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, assisted by the Communists.

The meeting was checked for attendance from 7:30 to 8:30 P. M. and it was noted that about 125 persons attended the meeting which was held at the West Federal Street (Negro) YMCA. It was noted that about every white communist leader attended, including Ben and Hannah Blumenthal, Mr. & Mrs. Johnjulio, Morris and Anna Been, Betty Sanic, Bud Earhart, the Turner family, Mary Scanlon, (cashier for the Robins Furniture Co.), Ruth Shulman, also such negroes as Nathaniel Lee, Bertram Carlson and wife, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. James, Attorneys Clarence Robinson, William Howard, Maynard Dickerson, Henry Fugett, Rev. Gibson, Underwood, Emerson, etc.

The affair attracted but little attention outside of the radical negro and white field as the negroes failed to respond in numbers because of the adverse publicity given the local meeting by press announcements stating that tickets were on sale at the Young Communist League office. The communists and negro radicals in the NAACP did not solicit such "free" advertising, but could not deny it because the YCL did have tickets on sale for the affair.

According to Confidential Informant [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, on January 13, 1943 at the HUGH BALZAC Dinner the speakers were ANNA M. ROSENBERG, Regional Director of the War Manpower Commission; ALLAN HAYWOOD, CIO Director of organizations; LANGSTON HUGHES, negro bard; JOSEPH CURRAN, President of National Maritime Union; COUNSELMAN A. CLAYTON POWELL, JR. and DOROTHY K. FUND of the Negro Labor Factory Committee.

LANGSTON HUGHES was one of the negroes who met with the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the United States on May 26,1938 in an attempt to draft the handling of the negro commssion at the 10th Annual convention of the Communist Party of theUnited States of America.

LANGSTON HUGHES is mentioned as a contributing editor to "LABOR DEFENSE" published monthly by the INTERNATIONAL LABOR DEFENSE, 8 E. 11th Street, New York City. The Red Network by ELIZABETH DILLING described LANGSTON HUGHES as a member of the National Council of Artists, Publishers and Musicians; a negro Communist leader in the League of Professional Groups for Foster and Ford; in 1932 a member of the negro delegation to Russia to study Communism; also in 1932 a member of the National Committee for the defense of political prisoners; a member of the Scotsborough Unity Defense Committee; a member of the staff of "NEW MASSES"; a sponsor of the San Francisco Workers School in 1933 and a member of the International Union. He lectured at University of North Carolina in 1932 and is presidentof League for Struggle for Negro Rights; member of the National Committee for the FRIENDS OF SOVIET UNION in 1934.

At Local Board No: 58, 138th Street and Broadway, it was discovered that subject's order number 11931. He originally registered at Local Board Number 25, Chicago,Illinois, being there on business at that time. His present address is c/o Mrs. FAY HARPER, 634 Mt. Nicholas Avenue, New York City. He described himself as self employed with annual income of approximately $1200. He listed his date of birth as February 1, 1902 at Joplin, Missouri. He stated he attended Columbia University in New York City one year and later attended Lincoln University in Pennsylvania for three and one-half years pursuing a liberal arts course in both institutions. On his registration form subject has written "I use this opportunity to regret as a citizen of the United States the dissolving of the brigade of the armed forces of the United States into white and negro units thereby making colored citizens the only group so singled out for Jim Crow treatment which seems to me contrary to the letter andspirit of the constitution and dangerous to the moral and well being of not only the colored citizens of this country but those of our darker allies as well". On December 21, 1942 the subject was classified 4-H because of his age.

On June 5, 1943 the Bureau of Criminal Identification and on June 8, 1943 the Credit Bureau of Greater New York were checked with negative results.

[redacted] Reference is made to the closing report of Special Agent [redacted] of your office dated August 9, 1943. It is noted that while reference is made to this subject's alleged membership in several Communist front organizations his Communist Party connections have not been fully developed, the principal information in that connection being secured from "The Red Network" by Elizabeth Dilling. The Bureau desires that this case be reopened and that further information be secured which would more definitely establish his Communist connections.

In further connection with this report the report in several instances fails to set forth in detail the source of the information. For example, the opening paragraph in the details lists the organizations with which he is said to have been connected. It is desired that his connections with these organizations be more specifically set forth in the report either by reference to the individual furnishing the information or the publication or leaflet from which it was taken.

It is further noted in the second paragraph of page two that Langston Hughes is said to have met with the Executive Committee of the Communist Party in 1938. It does not appear what the source was of this information.

For your further information concerning Hughes the Bureau has received from an unknown outside source in Youngstown, Ohio, three one-page reports concerning him. The first report, dated April 24, 1943, states Hughes is a Communist Party propagandist and that on April 25, 1943, he was scheduled to speak in Pittsburgh. The second report dated April 28, 1943 from this source stated that Hughes admits being a Communist and that he was brought to Youngstown for a lecture sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People assisted by the Communists. This source stated that at this lecture every white Communist leader in the Pittsburgh area attended. The third report, bearing the date April 29 stated that at the speech delivered in Pittsburgh Hughes praised the Soviet Union, where he spent 18 months studying in Moscow. Hughes was also said to have made the statement that no racial discrimination would exist in the United States if this country were to follow the Russian example and that he believed in the Soviet form of government.

It is desired that the foregoing information be incorporated in the next report submitted by your office.

Attention is also called to page two of your report in which it is stated that Elisabeth Dilling mentioned that Hughes was a member of a Negro delegation which visited Russia in 1932 to study Communism. The source from which the [redacted] had secured this poem wasn't indicated. Another poem written by the subject was also se[illegible] cured from the files of the [redacted] and had been secured from the "Daily Worker" of April 2, 19[illegible]. The poem is entitled: "One More S in the U.S.A.", by LANGSTON HUGHES, and is set out as follows: (6)(7)(D)

One More S in the U. S. A. Workers Song

by Langston Hughes
(On the occasion of the Eighth Convention of the C.P. U.S.A.)

Put one more S in the U.S.A.
To make it Soviet
One more S in the U.S.A.
Oh we'll live to see it yet

When the land belongs to the farmers
And the factories to the working men
The U.S.A. when we take control
Willbe the U.S.S.A. then.

Now across the water in Russia
They have a big U.S.S.R.
The Fatherland of the Soviet
But that is mighty far
From New York, or Texas, or California, too
So listen, fellow workers,
This is what we have to do

Put one more S in the U.S.A.
(Repeat Chorus)

But we can't win out by just talking
So let us take things in our own hands
Then down and away with the bosses sway
Hail Communistic land
And shout out, fellow workers,
Our new slogan to the sky:

Put one more S in the U.S.A.(etc)

But we can't join hands strong together
So long as whites are lynching black
So black and white in one union fight
And get on the right track,
By Texas, or Georgia, or Alabama led
Come together, fellow workers,
Black and white can all be red:

Put one more S(etc)

Oh the bankers they all are planning
For another great big war
To make them rich from the workers dead,
That's all that war is for.
So if you don't want to see bullets holding sway
Then come on, all you workers,
And join our fight today:

Also discovered in the file of the [redacted] was another clipping from the "Daily Worker" of September 9, 1937, which contained a photograph of the subject and an article to the effect that the Negro poet was to broadcast during the following week from Madrid, Spain, where he had remained after attending the International Writers Congress which convened there several weeks before.

Confidential Informant T-1 on September 19, 1941, provided, among other publications of the International Workers Order, a collection of poems entitled: "A New Song" by LANGSTON HUGHES. This pamphlet contains an introduction by MICHAEL GOLD, Frontispiece by JOE JONES and seventeen poems which had been copyrighted by the subject in 1938. Some of the titles in this collection are:

"Little America Buy America Again."
"Justice".
"Chant For Tom Mooney."
"Chant For May Day."
" Ballads of Lenin."
"Song of Spain"
"Open Letter to the South."
"Negro Ghetto"and"The Lynching Song."

All of these poems make reference to the injustice of the wage earner's lot and in most of them there is also a reference to the workers taking over the Park Avenue section or in short, all the desirable aspects of the living of the well-to-do. This publication is being maintained in File No. 100-2936 in the New York Field Division.

the great grandson of Peter the Great. Subject speaks of the outstanding place of Pushkin in the literature of all time. The theme of the article, however, is the complete acceptance of this person of colored blood by the Russian masses. The article is written in the present tense and described the author's contacts with other negro people who have either been born in Moscow or have worked there for years. He comments on the fact that negroes have mingled so completely in the life of Moscow that he has been unable to find several colored people of outstanding reputations whom he was anxious to meet. He concludes this article with a poem by a Moscow poet, JULIAN ANISSIMOV, called "Kinship":

"The blood of Pushkin
Unites
The Russian and the Negro
In heart
Tomorrow
We will unite anew
In the International."

This article is date-lined Moscow, 1933.

The CHICAGO DEFENDER of September 4, 1943, carried an article by the Subject. He stated that many people were writing to him, asking what to do now about the racial situation in America. Subject stated that he felt that every adult negro able to work or fight ought to join an organization for the betterment of negroes and one which is trying to break down discrimination against negroes. He pointed out that all should join the INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE PRESERVATION OF COLORED PEOPLE and the URBAN LEAGUE.

As to the MARCH ON WASHINGTON MOVEMENT, he stated that he was a member of it, but that he has two things against it: first, that it does not admit white people; second, that its leader, A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, is always attacking Russia.

Subject stated that: "Russia is the only country in the whole world that will not tolerate racial discrimination and it is the only country where the poor man has an equal break. As to the white people in America, there are so many here, that I think we have to learn to work with them and they with us." Subject stated, however, that "by being a member of the MARCH ON WASHINGTON, I felt that maybe I could persuade

THE MOVEMENT to admit white people and to get Mr. RANDOLPH to lay off of our Soviet Union."

(6)(7)(D) [redacted] In a report dated November 27, 1943, Confidential Informant whose identity is known to the Bureau, provided the following:

"LANGSTON was among the first Negro intellectuals that joined the Party. He has never been known generally, not even in the Party circle, as a member of the Party. He was known to such persons as JAMES W. FORD, SAMUEL PATTERSON, HARRY HAYWOOD, OTTO HALL, LOUISE THOMPSON, B. D. AMIS, TIMOTHY HOLMES and others in the top circles.

"Being an outstanding Negro poet, his name in united front movements carried prestige and weight. He wore the badge of liberal or progressive. The Party exploited this to the utmost in the Scottsboro Case, the American League Against War and Fascism, National Negro Congressand other united front movements. His name was used to draw other Negro intellectuals and professionals into these movements, and with considerable success.

"Langston has always been strictly a racialist evinced in all his poetical works. He came into the Party on the basis of its program on the Negro question. Shortly after Russia's entrance into the War, he, like ANGELO HERNDON, felt that the Party was abandoning the struggle for Negro rights. Up and until Browder's release from the Federal Penitentiary, this view was prevalent. The major responsibility for this was placed on the shoulders of JAMES W. FORD.

"Since then LANGSTON has not been so keen on the Party. His pen first, last, and always is for the rights of his people. He has not been expelled, neither has any public issue been made of it. He is spoken of as a 'progressive poet'. His name in the last year has been conspicious by its absence from united front movements, organised and led by the Party. He has not participated in any united front movements here in my knowledge for over a year."

A review of periodicals and other literature in the files of the New York Field Division reflected that Subject is a member of the following front organizations:

INSPECTOR HARBO: The last report submitted in this case is a report (b)(7)(C) dated February 19, 1944 by Special Agent [redacted] (b)(7)(C) in which a lead is set out to continue to check and report further Communist activities. Routing slips were sent to Special Agent [redacted] by the supervisor on July 12th and August 4th. The case was reassigned to Special Agent [redacted] on August 31, 1944. Inasmuch as there was no specific investigation to be conducted after the submission of the above-mentioned report, the case should have been placed in a pending inactive status, instead of being carried as assigned and delinquent for most of the time since the report was submitted. Inasmuch as 6 months have elapsed since the submission of the last report, it is now time for further check into the activities of the subject. In line with Bureau instructions, an effort should be made to procure a handwriting specimen of the subject. It is noted that there is a photograph of the subject in the file. Copies should be furnished to the Bureau with the next report.

SAC E.E.Conroy

DETAILS: The subject of this case is carried as a key figure in the New York Field Division.

"The Big Sea", published by A. A. KNOPF, in 1940, is an autobiography of LANGSTON HUGHES, and is summarized as follows:

HUGHES was born February 1, 1902 at Joplin, Missouri. His early youth was spent in Lawrence, Kansas. In 1916, he moved to Cleveland with his mother, where he remained until he had completed his high school education at Central High. In 1920, he visited his father, who was living in Mexico, and stayed with him for approximately a year. In September of 19. he enrolled at Columbia University in New York, where he completed a one year course. During this same year, he found time to attend the Rand School in New York under the guidance of LUDWIG LEWISOHN and HEYWOOD BROUN.

At the end of the school year, he went to sea, and from that time until 1926, he drifted about in various countries of Europe, including Italy, France, and Spain. He had begun to write poetry prior to his going to sea. As a result of his talent in this field, he was given a scholarship to attend Lincoln University in Pennsylvania. He began his studies at this school in 1926, and completed his course there in three years.

A review of the files of the New York Field Division was made, and the following information was reflected:

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that subject first became active in the Workers Movement and interested in social conditions in 1930; that he had visited Russia in 1933; and that he was a correspondent in Madrid, Spain, during the Spanish Civil War.

Confidential Informant T-2 advised that one SONYA GROLL, with the alias JUNE CROLL, a white person, married LANGSTON HUGHES sometime in 1932, and they had a child.

In the Daily Worker, edition dated September 1, 1933, on page 5, the subject is stated to have written an article entitled "Moscow and Me", in which he describes his trip to Moscow for the purpose of filming a picture "Black and White". He stated that he admired the Soviet system for its non race prejudice, and he stated that all places were open to him as he possessed credentials of the INTERNATIONAL UNION OF REVOLUTIONARY WRITERS.

In the Call to the Second United States Congress Against War and Fascism on September 28, 1934 at Chicago, Illinois, it was reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was on the NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF THE AMERICAN LEAGUE AGAINST WAR AND FASCISM.

The February, 1937 issue of the "Labor Defender" reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was a Contributing Editor of this magazine, which is published by the INTERNATIONAL LABOR DEFENSE, 8 East 11th Street, New York City.

In the Daily Worker, published March 29, 1937, on page 4, he wrote that the participation of Negroes in the Spanish War on the side of the Loyalist Government shows that the Negroes are growing in international consciousness. This article also reflected that he is a member of the AMERICAN COMMITTEE FOR TECHNICAL AID TO SPAIN.

An article in the Daily Worker, dated September 7, 1937, reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES, "the Negro poet", made a broadcast from Madrid, and that several weeks before he had attended the INTERNATIONAL WRITERS CONGRESS at Madrid, Spain.

According to the Daily Worker of January 22, 1938, on page 2, the subject was interviewed on his return from Spain after spending six months there. It is reported that HUGHES told of the heroic work of the many Negroes from the United States in Spain's fight against General Franco, and that he was convinced of a Loyalist victory.

An article in the Daily Worker, dated April 28, 1938, reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was one of 150 prominent American artists, writers, and composers, who issued a statement in support of the verdicts of the recent Moscow Trials of the Trotskyite-Bukharinite Traitors.

The 1938 International Workers Order Convention proceedings reflect that EMANUEL LEVIN, National Education Work Director, distributed ten thousand copies of the collected poems of LANGSTON HUGHES.

In the Daily Worker, dated August 14, 1939, it was reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was one of 400 leading figures in education who relase a manifesto denying the fantastic falsehood that the U.S.S.R. and the Totalitarian States are basically alike.

The Daily Worker issue of September 3, 1940 reflected a list of officers elected by the EMERGENCY PEACE MOBILIZATION COMMITTEE Convention held September 2, 1940, in which LANGSTON HUGHES is carried as a member.

In the "New Leader", dated November 11, 1940, an article appeared which read as follows:

> "Two new fronts have been added by the Comrades to the long and tiring list of networks sworn by the Comintern through the professions. One is the Lawyers Committee to Keep the United States Out of War. The other is the Negro Playwrights, sponsored by Stalin stooges, PAUL ROBESON, RICHARD WRIGHT, HELEN JEPSON, BEN DAVIS, LANGSTON HUGHES, and all the lads."

In an article published in the Daily Worker, dated April 5, 1941, it was reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was one of more than one hundred leading American writers who signed the Call of the Fourth Congress of the LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WRITERS to be held June 6-8, 1941.

Confidential Informant A, whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised the plenary session, of the COMMUNIST PARTY, U.S.A., was held in New York City from June 28, 1941 to June 29, 1941, and that among the persons attending was JUNE CROLL (formerly SONYA CROLL), wife of LANGSTON HUGHES, Negro poet.

Confidential Informant T-2 advised in October, 1941, that LANGSTON HUGHES is on the Editorial Council of the SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY PUBLICATIONS, INC., 114 East 32nd Street, New York City.

[redacted] (6)(7)

Confidential Informant T-3, in a report dated January 7, 1942, advised that LANGSTON HUGHES was one of those listed as being instructors and a guest lecturer at the SCHOOL FOR DEMOCRACY, 13 Astor Place, New York City.

An article appearing in the Daily Worker dated September 22, 1942, page 7, column 3, reflected that HUGHES was one of 500 American writers who signed a Second Front Call in a letter to the President.

Confidential Informant [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that as of November 27, 1942, LANGSTON HUGHES was on the Editorial Board of the "Common Ground", a magazine published by the COMMON COUNCIL FOR AMERICAN UNITY, 222 Fourth Avenue, New York City. b(7)(D)

In an article in the Daily Worker dated December 23, 1942, page 7, column 7, it was reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES headed a list of writers who will lecture at the SCHOOL FOR DEMOCRACY during the winter term beginning January 4, 1943, and that he will speak on the life and culture of the Negro people.

Confidential National Defesne Informant [redacted] reported b(7)(D) that LANGSTON HUGHES was a speaker at a meeting held at the Martin Beck Theater on February 14, 1943, "Night of the Americas", to further cultural ties between Latin America and the United States. This meeting was put on by the COUNCIL FOR PAN AMERICAN DEMOCRACY.

[redacted] b(7)(D) (C)

In the Daily Worker, dated May 19, 1943, page 7, column 2, the following information was related:

> LANGSTON HUGHES' drama, "For this we fight", will be presented at Madison Square Garden June 7th in connection with a Negro Freedom Rally. Concluding a lecture tour, which took him to several midwestern universities and Army camps during the winter, including a government radio broadcast from Toronto, the poet will speak May 26th at the Tom Paine Forum in Philadelphia.

In an article appearing in the Daily Worker, dated May 24, 1943, page 1, column 5, it was reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was one of 220 prominent Americans who addressed an open letter to the President urging an immediate severence of diplomatic relations with Finland, and a declaration of war.

Confidential Informant T-9 reported a conference between BEN DAVIS and GIL GREEN, which took place on May 20, 1943. BEN DAVIS complained of the lack of cooperation of the Daily Worker in publicizing a meeting (probably the Negro Freedom Rally in which LANGSTON HUGHES presents his drama "For this to Night"). GREEN wanted to know if the Daily Worker was getting enough material, and DAVIS replied that they were getting more than they could use. GREEN is reported to have said that there should be some real material on the cultural aspects on ROBESON, on what the LANGSTON HUGHES thing is, and, of course, the main thing is the political importance of the meeting.

In an article occurring in the Daily Worker dated September 16, 1943, it was reflected that a meeting of writers was held under the auspices of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP for the purpose of a nation-wide collection of books to restore the libraries of the Soviet Union. LANGSTON HUGHES is noted as being on the committee.

Confidential Informant A, whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that LANGSTON HUGHES sponsored and attended a Citizens Emergency Conference for International Unity at Hunter College, Park Avenue and 69th Street, New York City, on September 25, 1943, and that one of the panel discussions was devoted to the problem of discrimination in the Armed Forces.

An article appearing in the Daily Worker dated October 1, 1943, page 8, column 6, reflected that the I.C. has called a Cultural Conference for Sunday, October 10, 1943, at Malin Studios, 135 West 134th Street, New York, to deal with the problems of the drama, music, dance, and instrumental groups working in the field of folk art, and that LANGSTON HUGHES will make the main speech on folk art and the war.

Confidential Informant A, whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that on October 10, 1943, LANGSTON HUGHES made the keynote speech of the Cultural Conference held by the New York District of the IPO.

An advertisement appearing in the New York Times dated December 22, 1943, reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was a signer of a declaration put forth by the Reichstag Fire Trial Anniversary Committee, which was an advertisement commemorating "The fire that has been burning for ten years". Many other well known Communists were joint signers.

An article appearing in the Daily Worker issue dated January 30, 1944, page 3, column 4, reflected that Earl BROWDER, LANGSTON HUGHES, and others will speak and pay tribute to the memory of ART YOUNG, Editor of NEW MASSES, on January 27, 1944 at Manhattan Center.

An article appearing in "The People's Voice", dated February 19, 1944, reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES participated in a radio debate on the race question on America's Town Meeting of the Air. The article further reflected that HUGHES advocated an over-all Federal program protecting the rights of minorities and that he stated that Democracy does not lose by sharing its privileges, but that it loses by denying them.

Confidential Informant T-4 advised that LANGSTON HUGHES was one of the National Sponsors of the AMERICAN YOUTH FOR DEMOCRACY as of February 16, 1944.

An article appearing in the "People's Voice", dated March 18, 1944 reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES made a spring cross-country tour following his recent appearance on the Town Meeting of the Air, and that he read his poems to the men of Fort Reiley as a guest of the 18th and Madison USO Clubs, Junction City, Kansas. His campus programs included the University of West Virginia, the University of Kansas, Wiley College, San Houston College, and Prairie View State College in Texas.

Confidential Informant T-3 advised in a report dated June 7, 1944 that LANGSTON HUGHES was affiliated with the FRIENDS OF THE SOVIET UNION, and in this report he is listed as a COMMUNIST PARTY member.

In an article appearing in the Daily Worker dated July 8, 1944, page 8, column 3, it was reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was one of the seven poets who met in a discussion group at the Jefferson School of Social Science, 575 Sixth Avenue.

An undated pamphlet entitled "National Committee for People's Rights", 100 Fifth Avenue, New York City, listed LANGSTON HUGHES as being a member.

Confidential Informant T-5 advised that his records reflected that the subject still resided at 634 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York. It reflected further that HUGHES was a newspaper reporter for the AFRO AMERICAN at Baltimore in 1938 and 1939, and that he was in Los Angeles, California, during the period 1939 to 1940, where he was the author of an RKO film "Way Down South", and where he was a dramatist at the Federal Theater, Los Angeles. It further reflected that in January, 1941, he had a temporary address at the Good Shepherd Community Center, 5520 South Parkway, Chicago, Illinois.

A check of the mail box at 634 St. Nicholas Avenue reflected that the name of HARPER and HUGHES appeared on the mail box of apartment 1-D. 6)(7)(D)

[redacted] of the apartment house located at 634 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York, was contacted under a suitable pretext. He advised that the subject's aunt, TOY HARPER, resides in apartment 1-D, and that LANGSTON HUGHES receives his mail there. [redacted] also related that HUGHES 6)(7)(D)
has a studio somewhere in the 400 or 500 block on East 141st Street. [redacted] advised that his son, [redacted] had formerly worked for the subject in doing odd jobs in the studio and running errands for him. (b)(7)(D) [redacted] was telephonically contacted, and he advised that LANGSTON HUGHES had given up his studio on West 141st Street approximately a year ago. [redacted] (b)(7)(D)

[redacted] He now is of the opinion that HUGHES is living at 634 St. Nicholas Avenue, and he will advise the writer if this is true.

Confidential Informant [redacted] (b)(7)(D) whose identity is known to the Bureau, was contacted for any information concerning the activities of LANGSTON HUGHES, and he made the following report:

LANGSTON HUGHES has spoken for years to various COMMUNIST PARTY gatherings. He is used more as a front, generally contacted through the IWO, and usually through LOUISE THOMPSON, and WILLIAM PATTERSON, both former National Committee members of the IWO and COMMUNIST PARTY. They are husband and wife, now living in Chicago. He is generally near LOUISE THOMPSON. Was sent to Spain by Party during Civil War period. He believed HUGHES to be in Chicago, and that he was a writer on the Chicago Defender.. He described HUGHES as being forty-two years of age, 5'8" tall, medium build, brown eyes, having a mustache and marital status - unknown.

A more recent picture of LANGSTON HUGHES appearing in the Daily Worker dated October 1, 1943, page 8, column 6, was obtained, and a copy of this picture is being submitted as an enclosure with this report.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

The purpose of this letter is to obtain from your organization, if it is available, information or an opinion regarding the Negro poet, Mr. Langston Hughes. The circumstances are these--I have engaged him to speak to the students of Central High School, November 14. Monday, October 23, there appeared an article in the New York Sun by George L. Sokolsky stating that Mr. Hughes belonged to twelve organizations which Attorney-General Biddle declared to be subversive and communist, and that these organizations are once "which the Department of Justice, for its particular purposes accepted as communist or communist dominated."

I should like to know, if it is not out of place to release the information, whether or not this is the truth. I should also like to know whether or not the Federal Bureau of Investigating as any evidence that Mr. Hughes has at any time been engaged in activities subversive to the United States Government. My only interest in the matter is to safeguard the pupils [redacted] (b)(7)(C) and any information or advice that you may give me regarding the propriety of Mr. Hughes talking to a typical student body that is not concerned with the Negro problem will be deeply appreciated.

Passport No. 256358 was issued to JAMES LANGSTON HUGHES on February 20, 1936, for a contemplated trip of one year's duration to Spain and general European travel for residence and study under a Guggenheim Fellowship. He intended leaving New York March 7, 1936, via the SS CHAMPLAIN. In his application the subject stated that he had had the following foreign residence:-

Russia, July 1932 to June, 1933.
Mexico, December, 1934 to June, 1935.

There is contained in the files of the State Department a letter from the Afro-American at Baltimore, Maryland, dated July 8, 1937, requesting assistance of the State Department to enable HUGHES to go to Spain from France as a correspondent for the Afro-American. A dispatch from the American Consulate at Valencia, Spain dated July 8, 1937, advised that the subject was a delegate to the Second International Congress of Writers organized by the Anti-Facist Intellectuals for the Defense of Culture. This passport was renewed on July 9, 1938 for un-specified travel. However, he did state at that time that he intended leaving New York July 13, 1938 via the SS NORMANDY. Prior to this the subject was issued passport No. 352769 on March 25, 1931, for travel to the West Indies and South America and was renewed at Riga, Latvia, on March 11, 1933, and passport No. 63271 dated July 8, 1920, for travel to Mexico.

In his passport application he stated that he was born in Joplin, Missouri, on February 1, 1902; that his father was JAMES NATHANIEL HUGHES, born in Charlestown, Indiana, and now deceased. Subject gave his permanent residence as being 212 South Pleasant Street, Oberlin, Ohio, and his legal residence as being c/o A. A. KNOPF, 730 5th Avenue, New York City, New York.

interviewed. The result of this investigation is being set out herein. (U)

The official organ of the International Union of Revolutionary Writers, "International Literature" listed LANGSTON HUGHES as an American author, member of its staff in 1933 along with UPTON SINCLAIR, MICHAEL GOLD, JOHN DOS PASSOS, THEODORE DREISER and others. (U)

Source A has informed that LANGSTON HUGHES is a Negro poet, a radical, although probably not a member of the Communist Party. Source further informed that he was a contributor to "New Masses" in 1933 and supported the National Committee to Aid Victims of German Fascism in 1934 and that he was a member of the School Advisory Committee of the San Francisco Workers School in 1934; that he spent the summer of 1933 in the U.S.S.R.; that he was a member of the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners in 1934; that he was also a member of the National Committee, American League Against War and Fascism in 1934. (U)

b(7)(D) [redacted] Los Angeles, advised the Los Angeles office that LANGSTON HUGHES, internationally famous Negro poet, had attended a luncheon at the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo, Japan in 1933 and at this luncheon HUGHES was the principal speaker. [redacted] stated b(7)(D) that HUGHES related to a predominately Japanese audience the alleged ill treatment of the Negroes in this country. She stated that he predicted that some day a war would result in which all of the colored races, black, yellow and red, would join in the subjugation of the white race. She informed that HUGHES stated that there was a natural bond between these colored races and that their opposition to the white race should be expressed in combat. (U)

In 1934 LANGSTON HUGHES was the president of the "League For Struggle For Negro Rights", according to information appearing in the report of the Committee on Un-American Activities of the 75th Congress in 1938. This report also stated that the poems of LANGSTON HUGHES were read by DOROTHY GRAY. It also stated that "HUGHES is a Communist leader and writer". (U)

Source B informed that LANGSTON HUGHES is listed as a sponsor of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade along with the following: UPTON SINCLAIR, DONALD OGDEN STEWART, MARTHA DODD, LOUIS FISCHER, LILLIAN HELLMAN and others who generally sponsor such organizations. (U)

The "National Republic" for February, 1935 lists LANGSTON HUGHES (Negro) as one of the individuals who signed the call for the first Writers' Congress. His name appears along with the following: (U)

EARL BROWDER
ERSKINE CALDWELL
MALCOLM COWLEY
THEODORE DREISER
GUY ENDORE
JAMES T. FARRELL
MICHAEL GOLD
CLARENCE HATHAWAY
GRANVILLE HICKS

JOSEPH NORTH
M. J. OLGIN
SAM ORNITZ
ISADORE SCHNEIDER
GEORGE SKLAR
JOHN L. SPIVAK
LINCOLN STEFFENS
ALEX TRACHTENBERG
ELLA MAE WINTER

(u)

Several of those named are nationally known members of the Communist Party. Others have written much Communist material. (u)

LANGSTON HUGHES was listed as one of the seven vice-presidents of the League of American Writers elected at the Second National Congress at New York City June 4, 1937 as is shown in a prospectus on record of the proceedings issued by the League of American Writers. (u)

LANGSTON HUGHES is listed as a contributor to "Fighting Words", a book edited by DONALD OGDEN STEWART. (u)

The January, 1936 issue of "New Theatre", the official publication of the New Theatre League, which number was the anniversary number celebrating the second anniversary of the paper, on page 40 states the following: "We are proud that among those who have associated themselves with us in the creation of the New Theatre are: (u)

LANGSTON HUGHES
CLIFFORD ODETS
ALBERT MALTZ
GEORGE SKLAR
ARCHIBALD MacLEISH
JOHN HOWARD LAWSON
HAROLD CLURMAN and others.

(u)

Source C has informed that ODETS, LAWSON, MALTZ and HUGHES are members of the Communist Party and have been very active in the Communist movement for a number of years. (u)

The stationery of the American Peace Mobilization lists LANGSTON HUGHES as a member of the National Council of that organization. (u)

The stationery of the League of American Writers in 1940 listed LANGSTON HUGHES, Los Angeles, California as a director of the League of American Writers, Hollywood Chapter. The other directors at that time were listed as DONALD OGDEN STEWART, UPTON SINCLAIR, JOHN STEINBECK. (U)

GENE HAGBERG on June 7, 1940 informed the Los Angeles office that LANGSTON HUGHES was a writer and was associated with the Hollywood Branch of the League of American writers. (U)

Source C has informed that LANGSTON HUGHES is a Negro writer: that he comes to Los Angeles on certain occasions and also to Carmel, California where he associates with the so-called "intellectual group" of the Communist Party and that he has long been considered a Communist and identified with the Communist movement. (U)

LANGSTON HUGHES is listed as a member of the National Council of the American Peace Mobilization on literature sent out by that organization in January, 1941. LANGSTON HUGHES was elected to the National Council of the American Peace Mobilization, according to Confidential Informant [redacted] of the Cincinnati office, Cincinnati, Ohio. (U) 6/2/43

The Los Angeles Times for January 24, 1941 stated: "The League of American Writers, a New York Corporation, dedicated to the advancement of peace and democracy as against Fascism and reaction, informed the Secretary of State that CHARLES A. PAGE of Hollywood, California hadbeen designated its California agent". It also stated that the following individuals are the California directors of the group: (U)

DONALD OGDEN STEWART
Carmel, California

LANGSTON HUGHES
Los Angeles, California

UPTON SINCLAIR
Pasadena, California

JOHN STEINBECK
Los Gatos, California

(U)

The magazine "Soviet Russia Today" in 1941 shows that the editing management of this paper was in the hands of JESSICA SMITH, editor; and THEODORE BAYER, managing editor, with the full-time assistance of ISADORE SCHNEIDER. (U)

54

The editorial council consisted of DOROTHY BREWSTER, ROBERT W. DUNN, THYRA EDWARDS, A. A. HELLER, LANGSTON HUGHES, DR. JOHN A. KINGSBURY, CORLISS LAMONT, GEORGE MARSHALL, ISOBEL WALKER SOULE and MAXWELL S. STEWART. (U)

Source D reported that the February 12, 1943 issued of the "People's World" ran a news item on page three, column 5, stating that "This patriotic meeting of members of the Communist Party and friends" would launch the "National Party building campaign February 12th to May, 1943"; that CARL WINTER and PETTIS PERRY would speak; that MARY TROY would give dramatic readings of "The Blood Donor" and LANGSTON HUGHES' "Black Mother"; that 25¢ admission including tax, would be charged. (U)

The Labor Herald for September 1, 1944 under the heading "McWILLIAMS Joins P.A.C. Campaign", stated in part " CAREY McWILLIAMS, former California Commissioner of Immigration and Housing, and now secretary of the Sleepy Lagoon Defense Committee, last week added his name to the growing list of prominent Americans on the National Citizens Political Action Committee. McWILLIAMS' name was announced concurrently with those of Captain HUGH MULZAC, LANGSTON HUGHES and Rev. S. L. CORROTHERS." (U)

"Captain MULZAC has commanded the S.S. Booker T. Washington since its launching more than two years ago. He is the first Negro Naval Captain and has a record of 40 years' service in the Merchant Marine. (U)

"HUGHES is considered one of the most prolific of Negro writers; he is a poet, novelist, short story writer, playwright and newspaper columnist." (U)

"Rev. CORROTHERS is President of the National Non-Partisan Colored Ministers Association". (U)

"GOOD-BYE CHRIST"

"Listen, Christ,
You did all right in your day, I reckon -
But that day's gone now.
They ghosted you up a swell story too,
Called it Bible -
But it's dead now.
The popes and the preachers've
Made too much money from it.
They've sold you to too many

(U)

"Kings, generals, robbers and killers -
Even to the Czar and the Cossacks,
Even to Rockefeller's church,
Even to the Saturday Evening Post.
You ain't no good no more.
They've pawned you
Till you've done wore out.

"Good-bye,
Christ Jesus Lord God Jehova,
Beat it on away from here now.
Make way for a new guy with no religion at all -
A real guy named
Marx Communist Lenin Peasant Stalin
Worker ME -

"I said, ME!

"Go ahead on now,
You're geeting in the way of things, Lord.
And please take Saint Ghandi with you
when you go,
And Saint Pope Pius,
And Saint Aimee McPherson
And big black Saint Becton
Of the Consecrated Dime.
And step on the gas, Christ!
The world is mine from now on -
Move!
Don't be so slow about movin'!
And nobody's gonna sell ME
To a king, or a general,
Or a millionaire."

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that JAMES LANGSTON HUGHES lives at 634 St. Nicholas Ave., New York, when he is in New York. He stated, however, that the greater portion of the subject's time is spent on tours throughout the country. Subject left New York in the latter part of September for the west coast and returned to New York on or about November 21, 1944. The informant further advised that HUGHES is planning another tour and that he seldom remains in New York for more than a month at a time. Since his return to New York from the west coast HUGHES has made a trip to Boston. The informant further advised that the subject lectures before schools and colleges. (U)

Informant stated that the subject writes articles for the following newspapers: "Pittsburgh Courier", Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, "Amsterdam News", New York, "Peoples Voice", New York, and the "Chicago News", Chicago, Illinois. (U)

Confidential Informant T-2 made the records of his office available which reflected the following information: (U)

The subject's lecture agent is WILLIAM STAMPS, 500 5th Ave., New York City. The subject's literary agent is MAXIM LIEBER, 439 5th Ave. (U)

The subject in January and February of 1941 was confined to the Peninsula Community Hospital, Carmel by the Sea, California. (U)

The records also reflected the subject lived at the following address from February, 1941 to November 14, 1941: Hollow Hill Farms, Carmel Valley, Monterey, California. (U)

On November 14, 1941, the subject advised the informant that he was going to Chicago and the following would be his address: c/o ARNA BONTEMPS, 703 East 50th Place, Chicago, Illinois. (U)

Dies Committee reports were reviewed and the following information was reflected: (U)

J. B. MATTHEWS, Director of Research for the Dies Committee, stated that: (U)

"A number of individuals are members of the Communist Party of public record. LANGSTON HUGHES, for example, has run for office on the Communist Party ticket." (U)

Volume 1 page 379:

"LANGSTON HUGHES was one of the leaders of the League of Professional Groups which was founded in 1932 in time to throw its support to the Communist Party ticket and the headquarters of the League was at 35 East 12th St., headquarters of the Communist Party." (U)

63

Volume 1 page 547:

LANGSTON HUGHES is listed as a member of the Federation of Revolutionary Writers in 1932, and was listed as being an officer in the Workers Cultural Federation. (U)

Volume 1 page 624:

LANGSTON HUGHES was president of the National Negro Conference in 1934, which organization is directing the Communist movement among negroes in the United States. (U)

Volume 2 page 1585:

LANGSTON HUGHES was a speaker at the Third American Congress against War and Fascism held in Cleveland, Ohio, January 3, 4, and 5, 1936. (U)

Volume 2 page 1594:

LANGSTON HUGHES was admitted to the National Executive Board of the American Congress Against War and Fascism in 1936. (U)

Volume 6 page 2177:

J. B. MATTHEWS testifying before the Dies Committee stated that in the first issue of a magazine entitled "Fight", a Communist magazine, LANGSTON HUGHES was the writer of an article. J. B. MATTHEWS also advised the Committee that HUGHES was a well-known Communist. (U)

Volume 7 Page 4928

ALEXANDER WICHTENBERG testifying before the Dies Committee, stated that LANGSTON HUGHES was on the Advisory Council of the Book Union, 381 4th Ave., which is the same address as that of the International Publishers. (U)

Volume 1 page 375:

LANGSTON HUGHES was signer of a letter addressed to STALIN in April, 1936, which read in part: (U)

"The measures taken by the Soviet Union to preserve and extend its claims and its strength, find echoes here, where we are staking the future of the American people on the preservation of progressive democracy and the unification of our efforts to prevent fascists from strangling the rights of the people. American liberals must not permit their outlook on these questions be confused nor allow recognition of the beliefs of the Soviet in the international fight for democracy against fascism to be destroyed. We call upon them to support the efforts of the Soviet Union to free itself from insidious internal dangers." (U)

Volume 1 page 569:

LANGSTON HUGHES is listed as being on the National Committee of the Medical Bureau to Aid Spanish Democracy, which organization is a branch of the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy. (U)

Volume 13 page 7729.
LANGSTON HUGHES' name appeared on the letterhead of the Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade as a sponsor. (U)

Appendix 5 page 1680.
LANGSTON HUGHES was one of 400 individuals who signed an open letter appearing in the September, 1939 issue of "Soviet Russia Today" which called for greater unity for anti-fascist forces and strength of the front against aggression through a closer cooperation with the Soviet Union. "Our object is to point out the real purpose behind all these attempts to bracket the Soviet Union with the fascist states and to make it clear that Soviet and fascist policies are diametrically opposed." (U)

Appendix 5 page 1681:
Subject is listed as being on the editorial council of "Soviet Russia Today" in the issue of May, 1940. (U)

The files of the New York "World Telegram" were reviewed and the following information was reflected: (U)

The issue of this paper dated August 15, 193[illegible], reflected that the subject was speaker at Columbia University at which time he stated that he had been arrested in Cuba because he had protested the seizure of his property. (U)

An article appearing in issue of June 3, 1932, reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was lecturing through the south and west on literary subjects and had also delivered a number of speeches on behalf of the Scottsboro Boys. (U)

The July 25, 1933 issue reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES had engaged passage on the TAIGO MARU from Yokohama for San Francisco after six hours of questioning by the Tokio police. The police suspected HUGHES of communicating with the Jap Communist movement. This was not proved but police suggested HUGHES leave immediately. He arrived in Tokio, Sunday from Shanghai after recently visiting Russia. Eleven Jap visitors of HUGHES were questioned as they were suspected of being Communists, but later were released. (U)

The June 4, 1936, issue reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES was the winner of New Theatre League prize for a one act play entitled "Angelo Herndon Jones" on an anti-fascist theme. (U)

An item appeared in the paper dated October 17, 1938, reflecting that STEVE ADLER, St. Paul consulting engineer, testified before the House Committee investigating un-American activities. He stated that the Communist influence at the Minnesota State University is shown in that the "Marxists Club got LANGSTON HUGHES, a Communist of the first order, to make a speech there." (U)

The "Daily Worker" issue of January 30, 1944, page three, column four, reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES is scheduled to speak in tribute to ART YOUNG, editor of "New Masses" until his death, and all prominent Communists are scheduled to speak. (U)

Literature and pamphlets available in this office reflect that the subject was sponsor of the Artists League of America in 1944 and that he was the sponsor of the New York League of American Skipperst Plan Action against the Evils of Discrimination. (U)

The "Daily Worker" issue of July 8, 1944, column eight, page three, reflected that he was scheduled to attend a Sunday evening party on July 9, 1944, at the Jefferson School of Social Science, to discuss the subject "Seven Poets in Search of an Answer." (U)

The "Daily Worker" issue of September 21, 1944, page twelve, column 1, reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES sponsored and attended a dinner given to FERDINAND SMITH, secretary of the National Maritime Union, at the Hotel Commodore. Many prominent Communists were in attendance including EARL BROWDER and JAMES W. FORD. (U)

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS: [redacted] Limited information obtainable regarding subject's activities while in Carmel Valley, California, area in 1941. Hollow-Hills Farm, where subject stayed, owned by NOEL SULLIVAN who is reputed to entertain there all types of persons, and is characterized as "a negro lover", with very liberal views. Subject in Peninsula Community Hospital for 10 days beginning January 14, 1941 as a medical patient. Credit and criminal checks negative. Office indices check indicates no new information not previously reported. (U)

REFERENCE: Report of Special Agent [redacted] dated 1-8-45 at New York. (U)

DETAILS: AT CARMEL, CALIFORNIA

Source T-1 advised that Hollow-Hills Farm is owned by NOEL SULLIVAN, a well known musician, who spends most of his time at the farm "entertaining all kinds of persons". Further, SULLIVAN is reported to be "a negro lover" with very liberal views, but it was not known if he was interested in Communism. T-1 had no further information regarding the subject. (U)

Source T-2 advised he had never heard of the subject. However, he confirmed the information given by Source T-1. SULLIVAN receives mail through P. O. Box Q, Carmel, and through the Jamesburg Route out of Monterey, California. (U)

Source T-3 advised that he had never heard of the subject. However, he stated that SULLIVAN has lived in the Carmel Valley for eight years and is known as a very devout Catholic; however, he entertains people, regardless of race or creed, at his farm. (U)

Source T-4 advised that NOEL SULLIVAN is in his mind a loyal citizen, but one who entertains very liberal views and entertains persons at his farm, regardless of their race or creed. He stated that SULLIVAN is a devout Catholic who is very interested in assisting the church and is possibly a person who could without his own knowledge entertain persons of very radical beliefs. (U)

Source T-4 also stated he had met the subject, as LANGSTON HUGHES, when he visited NOEL SULLIVAN in 1941 and that he considered HUGHES very radical because of his writings. However, he characterized HUGHES as being a person whose writings appeared radical because he was writing for the negro race and therefore always wrote on the defensive. (U)

Source T-4 stated he has known SULLIVAN for eight or ten years and does not question his loyalty to the country. Further, he has never heard anything in connection with SULLIVAN which would indicate that he, himself, was inclined towards Communism. (U)

Source T-5 stated he had no information regarding the subject. However, he knew that NOEL SULLIVAN inherited a good deal of money from his father (who left close to a quarter of a million dollars to the Catholic Church at Carmel), and also money from his uncle, JAMES D. PHALEN, former United States Senator from California. He characterized SULLIVAN as an eccentric Bohemian liberal who has entertained numerous famous negroes at his farm, one of whom was Marian Anderson. (U)

Source T-5 stated that SULLIVAN could without his own knowledge become involved with radicals or persons interested in Communism, but that SULLIVAN himself is loyal to the United States. (U)

The Police Department records at Monterey and Carmel, California, were checked for subject's name with negative results. The records of the Peninsula Credit Exchange were checked for subject's name with negative results. (U)

The records of the Peninsula Community Hospital at Carmel reflect that subject, as LANGSTON HUGHES, was a patient at the hospital for approximately ten days beginning January 14, 1941, and his doctor was RUSSELL WILLIAMS who is presently overseas in the United States Army. His records indicated that he had listed his nearest friend as NOEL SULLIVAN. (U)

Due to the nature of the information obtained regarding NOEL SULLIVAN, it is not deemed advisable to interview him regarding the activities of the subject. (U)

The following persons were contacted for possible information regarding the subject with negative results: (U)

Common Council for American Unity at 222 Fourth Avenue, New York City, in an effort to widen group understanding. (U)

It is to be noted that during October, November, and December of 1944, the subject allegedly spent one day in each of twenty five schools giving speeches and reading poetry to the various classes. (U)

This article further stated that in most schools his visit climaxed or was integrated with various projects of study — poetry, discussions of race relations and the extension of democracy, local problems such as housing, the history of the Reconstruction, et cetera. It is also noted that his tour began in mid-October, with a week spent in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, at the express invitation of this Board of Education, which allegedly was attempting to institute a new program of bettering inter-cultural and interracial understanding. It is to be noted further that several New Jersey schools were included in the tour subsequent to that by the subject, at which he gave speeches. (U)

The article concludes stating that it was the hope of the Common Council to send the subject to many schools during the year of 1945, and that during the latter part of January, it was expected that he would go on a lecture tour through the Middle West and the South. (U)

An article appearing in the "Daily Worker" issue of January 29, 1945, page 11, column 2, reflected that the subject was one of the judges for the $150 cultural award which was sponsored by the Lincoln Steffens Lodge 500 of the IWO, as a part of the celebration of Negro History Week, February 11 through the 18th, 1945. This purse was to be presented to a young Negro whose work was considered to be an outstanding contribution to American culture, and the presentation was to be made at the Lodge's annual dance on February 3, 1945, at Manhattan Center, New York City. (U)

In the Pittsburgh Courier dated May 1, 1943, an article was written entitled "UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH GROUP HEARS LANGSTON HUGHES." This article stated that the subject spoke before a class of the School of Applied Social Science in the Group Work studio on Wednesday at the Cathedral of Learning at the University of Pittsburgh, where he gave a sociological explanation of his various works to remove the stigma of the color touch. During this speech, he read several of his poems and following the speech, the subject was the honored guest at a dinner of the Loendi Club, R. MAURICE MOSS, executive secretary of the Urban League sponsoring the poet's appearance in Pittsburgh. (U)

The May 20, 1944, issue of the Pittsburgh Courier carried an article which was captioned "LANGSTON HUGHES CLOSES MUSIC WEEK PROGRAM AT 'Y'." Under this caption, it was reflected that LANGSTON HUGHES, a poet and author, closed a successful music week program at the Centre Avenue YMCA, Thursday May 11. The theme of this program was "Music for Fellowship." It was noted further that the February 10, 1945, issue of the Pittsburgh Courier carried a photograph of the subject, indicating that he was the most popular living negro poet, novelist, playwright, columnist, and contributor to leading national magazines. It further stated that he had won the HARMON AWARD for literature in 1931. (U)

The "Daily Worker" issue of March 6, 1945, page 11, column 2, carried an article captioned "ASCH RECORDS POETRY OF LANGSTON HUGHES." This article reflected that an album of the poems written by LANGSTON HUGHES was being released by ASCH RECORDINGS. It is noted that these recordings were to include several varieties of blues, lyrical verse, work ballads, epic poems and rhymes. Among these recorded poems are: "Harlem Sweeties," "Little Lyric Wake," "Merry-go-Round," "Klu Klux Klan," "Good Morning Stalingrad," "Worry Blues," "In Time of Silver Rain," and a number of additional previously published poems. (U)

It is to be noted that at a dinner given by the Spanish Refugee Appeal of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee that the subject was listed on the dinner invitation for the date of March 22, 1945, as one of the sponsors of that particular occasion. It is to be noted also that the subject was listed as Contributing Editor to "SPOTLIGHT", the former American Youth for Democracy publication which was discontinued around May 1945. It is to be noted from the literature distributed that the subject was a guest lecturer at the George Washington-Carver School. (U)

[redacted] (b)(1)

(U)

Confidential informant [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that a meeting of the Negro Freedom Rally was held at Madison Square Garden, New York City, June 25, 1945, and that a pageant was presented entitled "Carry on America, Victory Is What You Make It." It is to be noted that the subject, along with NORMAN CORWIN and HOWARD FAST, Communists, wrote the aforementioned pageant. (U) (b)(7)(D)

78

Confidential informant T-3 advised on October 30, 1945, that the subject traveled throughout the country a great deal, but that he was presently in the City of New York at that time and was residing with his Aunt TUY HARPER at 634 St. Nicholas Avenue, Apartment 1-D, New York City. (U)

In view of the fact that the subject's Communist activities do not seem to be of sufficient importance to warrant further investigation, this matter is being closed upon the authority of the Special Agent in Charge. (U)

(6)(7)(C)

By reference from the Director's Office, I took a call from [redacted] Extension [redacted] Capitol, who stated the Senator is interested in obtaining any information we might have on Hughes, who he stated is apparently a Negro poet, if it is not too confidential. I advised [redacted] that according to a long-established rule of the Department we cannot give out information in our files. However, I told [redacted] I would check our files and if they contain any information which is not strictly confidential, that is, if the information comes from sources to which he can be referred, that we would be glad to furnish him this. I told [redacted] I would call him back.

RECORDED 100-15134-25

After checking the file on Hughes, I called [redacted] back and advised him that the Dies Committee has considerable information on Hughes, according to our information, one item being to the effect that subject ran for office on the Communist Party ticket at one time. Another item [redacted] was a clipping from the Daily Worker on May 16, 1945, page 11, which stated that subject has recorded an album of poems to be released by the Asch Recordings, one of which is entitled "Good Morning, Stalingrad." I advised [redacted] that, of course, we are restricted from giving out any confidential information but the above items are matters of public record and he might check the Dies reports for any further information. [redacted] stated that subject had made a speech in Montclair, New Jersey, which was very Communist in nature and it was sponsored by a group of people who knew nothing of his background.

Dear Sir:

SUBJECT: Langston Hughes

A short time ago a certain individual, one Langston Hughes by name, a negro poet and lecturer (so-called by our daily newspapers), whose doubtful claim to fame seems to be that he wrote the lyrics to a suggestive musical show called "Street Scene" which is now playing on Broadway in New York, addressed the YWCA in the Egyptian Building here in Richmond. From the nature of his remarks, as quoted by the papers, he either appears to be a Communist or is a fellow-traveler riding along in some other radical organization with communistic backing awaiting the opportune moment to come out in the open with it.

Since we are pledged to ~~fxxxxxxxx~~ battle communism in every shape and form it would be greatly appreciated if you could give all information you can on this negro Langston Hughes, as it appears to us, from his remarks, that he must be communistic.

Also give us, the leanings of Virginius Dabney, Richmond editor of the Times-Dispatch here, and oblige, as at times his editorials seem to appear quite radical.

Respectfully,

"HATE CHRIST"

Is the Slogan of the Communists

One of the most notorious propagandists for the lovers of Stalin is Langston Hughes, a Negro poet. This Negro move in the circles of the high-toned (?) whites. He has conferred with and addressed groups to whom Eleanor Roosevelt has spoken and with whom she has cooperated. He moves in the circles of mongrelizers and race mixers. He has been paid large fees for addressing many tax-supported and state-owned universities and colleges. The following poem is one of his most popular among his Red followers:

This hymn of hate is designed to persuade the simple Christian, whether he be black or white, to throw down Christ, to say goodbye to Christ, and embrace Marx, Lenin and Stalin.

LANGSTON HUGHES
Notorious Negro Stalin lover who wrote the revolutionary song "Goodbye Christ."

GOODBYE CHRIST

Listen, Christ,
You did all right in your day, I reckon—
But that day's gone now.
They ghosted you up a swell story, too.
Called it the Bible—
But it's dead now.
The popes and the preachers 've
Made too much money from it.
They've sold you to too many
Kings, generals, robbers, and killers—
Even to the Tzar and the Cossacks,
Even to Rockefeller's Church,
Even to the Saturday Evening Post.
You ain't no good no more.
They've pawned you
Till you've done worn out.
Goodbye,
Christ Jesus Lord God Jehovah,
Beat it on away from here now.
Make way for a new guy with no religion at all—
A real guy named
Marx Communist Lenin Peasant Stalin Worker ME—
I said, ME!
Go ahead on now,
You're getting in the way of things, Lord,
And please take Saint Ghandi with you when you go,
And Saint Pope Pius,
And Saint Aimee McPherson,
And big black Saint Becton
Of the Consecrated Dime.
And step on the gas, Christ!
Move!
Don't be so slow about movin'!
The world is mine from now on—
And nobody's gonna sell ME
To a king, or a general,
Or a millionaire.

10 Million White People to be Driven From Their Homes to Make Room for Black Communist Soviet-American Negro Communists Now Being Trained In Moscow to Run Black Area, thus Driving out the Whites and Enslaving their own Fellow Negroes.

On the opposite side of this sheet is an exact copy of a map taken out of the secret files of the Communist Party. The blacked-in area represents what the Communists hope some day (if they can promote a bloody revolution) will be the Negro Communist Soviet. It represents approximately 120,000 square miles. About 10 million white people will have to be driven out of their homes. Among the leading cities that will be turned over completely to the Negroes will be Charleston, Atlanta, Shreveport, New Orleans, Savannah, as well as many others. The land which now belongs to the whites will be confiscated and turned over to the Red bureaucrats for control.

This plan was advocated within the past year by the Communist Negro member of the New York City Council, Benjamin J. Davis, Jr. Shortly before the war this plan was discussed in detail by Josef Stalin in an address before Lenin University where 2,000 American Communists are being trained now to run the United States. As late as February 10, 1947, a copy of a textbook, now being used in the Russian Army, was exhibited before the Congressional Committee for the Investigation of Un-American Activities. The title of the military textbook is How to Bomb And Sabotage the U.S.A.

It is to be observed that a border zone has been left adjacent to the blacked-in area. This border zone is to be populated by both black and white. Of course, all segregation will be outlawed and the white people as well as the blacks in this border zone will be under black rule.

The revolutionary conspirators believe that the moment we have a period of unemployment, a general strike can be called, thus paralyzing telephone lines, railroads, electric power systems, and major factories. Trained revolutionists will immediately slaughter leadership and seize control. This would seem fantastic were it not for the fact that the Red flag now dominates most of Asia and most of Europe.

THIS MAP WAS REPUBLISHED AND EXHIBITED BY COMMUNIST LEADERS AS LATE AS JANUARY 1947.

Langston Hughes

5/5/47

Pursuant to your request there is set out below available information from our files concerning Langston Hughes, Negro poet and author. (U)

Hughes was born February 1, 1902, at Joplin, Missouri. His early youth was spent in Lawrence, Kansas. In 1916, he moved to Cleveland with his mother, where he remained until he completed high school. He visited his father in Mexico in 1920, staying approximately one year. He completed a one-year's course at Columbia University in New York in 1921, and also attended the Rand School in New York under the guidance of Ludwig Lewisohn and Heywood Broun. (U)

At the end of the school year he went to sea and until 1926 drifted about in various countries of Europe, including Italy, France, and Spain. He had begun to write poetry prior to his going to sea and as a result of this talent he was given a scholarship to Lincoln University in Pennsylvania. He enrolled in this school in 1926 and completed his course in three years. (U)

The New York Office has received information that Hughes first became active in the Workers Movement and interested in social conditions in 1930; that he visited Russia in 1933; and that he was a correspondent in Madrid, Spain, during the Spanish Civil War. (U)

According to information received by the New York Office, Hughes married one Sonya Croll, with the alias June Croll, a white person, in 1932, and they had one child. (U)

The September 1, 1933, issue of the Daily Worker contains an article written by Hughes in which he describes his trip to Moscow for the purpose of filming a picture "Black and White." He stated that he admired the Soviet system for its non race prejudice and that all places were open to him as he possessed credentials of the International Union of Revolutionary Writers." (U)

In the Call to the Second United States Congress Against War and Fascism on September 28, 1934 at Chicago, Illinois, it was reflected that Langston Hughes was on the National Committee of the American League Against War and Fascism. (U)

The Daily Worker, dated September 7, 1937, contained an article reflecting that Hughes made a broadcast from Madrid, and that he had attended the International Writers Congress at Madrid, Spain. (U)

In an interview on his return from Spain, Hughes is reported to have told of the heroic work of the many Negroes from the United States in Spain's fight against General Franco, and that he was convinced of a Loyalist victory. (Daily Worker, January 22, 1938) (U)

The Daily Worker on April 28, 1938, reported that Hughes was one of 150 prominent American artists, writers, and composers who issued a statement in support of the verdicts of the Moscow Trials of the Trotskyite-Bukharinite Traitors. (U)

The 1938 International Workers Order Convention proceedings reflect that Emanuel Levin, National Education Work Director, distributed 10,000 copies of the collected poems of Hughes. (U)

The August 14, 1939, issue of the Daily Worker reflected that Hughes was one of 400 who released a manifesto denying the fantastic falsehood that the U.S.S.R. and the Totalitarian States are basically alike. (U)

According to information received by the New York Office, Langston Hughes was a member of the Emergency Peace Mobilization Committee in 1940; a member of the League of American Writers in 1941; member of the Editorial Council of the Soviet Russia Today Publications, Inc., in 1941; lecturer at the School for Democracy in 1942; signer of a Second Front Call in the form of a letter to the President in 1942; on the Editorial Board of the magazine, "Common Ground," published by the Common Council for American Unity, 222 Fourth Avenue, New York City, in 1942; speaker at a meeting held by the Council for Pan American Democracy, held in 1943; and author of a drama, "For This We Fight," which was presented at a Negro Freedom Rally at Madison Square Garden in 1943. In 1943, Hughes served on a committee of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship to collect books to restore the libraries of the Soviet Union. In 1944, Hughes was one of the National Sponsors of the American Youth for Democracy. (100-15139-13) (U)

Reports of the Dies Committee reflect that at one time Hughes ran for office on the Communist Party ticket; that Hughes was a leader of the League of Professional Groups in 1932; and that he was an officer in the Workers Cultural Federation in 1932. The Dies Committee report also reflects that Hughes was president of the National Negro Conference in 1934, which organization is directing the Communist movement among negroes in the United States. (U)

The July 25, 1933, issue of the New York World Telegram reflected that Hughes was requested to leave Japan after being questioned by Tokio police for six hours. He was suspected of communicating with Japanese Communists. (U)

The September 21, 1944, issue of the Daily Worker reflected that Hughes sponsored a dinner given to Ferdinand Smith, secretary of the National Maritime Union, at which many prominent Communists were in attendance, including Earl Browder. (U)

Information received January 8, 1945, by the New York Office reflects that Hughes lives at 634 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York, when he is in New York. The greater portion of his time is spent on tours throughout the country and lecturing before schools and colleges. At that time Hughes wrote for the Pittsburgh Courier, the Amsterdam News in New York, Peoples Voice, New York and the Chicago News. (100-15139-20) (U)

Information received by the New York Office on December 9, 1946, reflects that Hughes' occupation continues to be that of poet, novelist, playwright and columnist. (100-15139-27) (U)

With reference to the poem "Goodbye Christ," reportedly written by Hughes, our files indicate that the Los Angeles Office in February of 1941, received photostatic copies of a circular containing this poem and stating that it was written by Hughes. (100-15139-1)(U)

The Director of Intelligence for the War Department in Chicago, on April 27, 1943, furnished a copy of the poem, "Goodbye Christ," and attributed authorship to Hughes. (100-15139-5)(U)

According to information received from our Chicago Office in December, 1944, the poem "Goodbye Christ," written by Hughes, appeared in the December 21, 1940 issue of the Saturday Evening Post. (U)

The poem "Goodbye Christ" is set out below:

"Listen, Christ,
You did all right in your day, I reckon -
But that day's gone now.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

The Springfield Urban League is planning to spearhead a drive to present Langston Hughes, the noted Negro Poet, in a public lecture here. We would like to have clarified from your office whether or not you have him catalogued as a communist. I know him personally and I strongly feel he is not one. A word from your office will greatly help us to determine whether or not we should present him, as you know we have to be careful as to who we present these days.

Your prompt reply to this letter will be greatly appreciated.

FREEDOM TRAIN

by Langston Hughes

I read in the papers about the
Freedom Train.
I heard on the radio about the
Freedom Train.
I seen folks talkin' about the
Freedom Train.
Lord, I been a-waitin' for the
Freedom Train!

Down South in Dixie only train I see's
Got a Jim Crow car set aside for me.
I hope there ain't no Jim Crow on the Freedom Train,
No back door entrance to the Freedom Train,
No signs FOR COLORED on the Freedom Train,
No WHITE FOLKS ONLY on the Freedom Train.

I'm gonna check up on this
Freedom Train.

Who's the engineer on the Freedom Train?
Can a coal black man drive the Freedom Train?
Or am I still a porter on the Freedom Train?
Is there ballot boxes on the Freedom Train?
Do colored folks vote on the Freedom Train?
When it stops in Mississippi will it be made plain
Everybody's got a right to board the Freedom Train?

Somebody tell me about this
Freedom Train!

The Birmingham station's marked COLORED and WHITE.
The white folks go left, the colored go right—
They even got a segregated lane.
Is that the way to get aboard the Freedom Train?

I got to know about this
Freedom Train!

If my children ask me, Daddy, please explain
Why there's Jim Crow stations for the Freedom Train,
What shall I tell my children? . . . You tell me—
'Cause freedom ain't freedom when a man ain't free.

But maybe they explains it on the
Freedom Train.

When that train goes steamin' through South Caroline,
Will them Greenville lynchers pay it any mind?
Or will that twelve-man jury what let 'em loose,
Turn their heads and spit tobacco juice?

Wonder will they spit on the
Freedom Train?

When my old mother in Atlanta, 83 and black,
Gets in line to see the Freedom,
Will some white man yell, Get back!
A Negro's got no business on the Freedom Track!

Mister, I thought it were the
Freedom Train!

Her grandson's name was Jimmy. He died at Anzio.
He died for real. It warn't no show.
The freedom that they carryin' on this Freedom Train,
Is it for real—or just a show again?

Jimmy wants to know about this
Freedom Train.

Will his Freedom Train come zoomin' down the track,
Gleamin' in the sunlight for white and black?
Not stoppin' at no stations marked COLORED nor WHITE,
Just stoppin' in the fields in the broad daylight,
Stoppin' in the country in the wide open air
Where there never was no Jim Crow signs nowhere,
No Welcomin' Committees, nor politicians of note,
No Mayors and such for which colored can't vote,
And nary a sign of a color line—
For the Freedom Train will be yours and mine!

Then maybe from their graves in Anzio
The GI's who fought will say, We wanted it so!
Black men and white will say, Ain't it fine?
At home they got a train that's yours and mine!

Then I'll shout, Glory for the
Freedom Train!
I'll holler, Blow your whistle,
Freedom Train!
Thank God-A-Mighty! Here's the
Freedom Train!
Get on board our Freedom Train!

THIS fall, specially built railroad cars, each painted white, with a gold American eagle in the center flanked by blue and red stripes, will start out on a year's run. It is called the Freedom Train, and will carry some precious heirlooms—100 original documents basic to US democracy. It will cross the land four times, visit more than 300 cities. The sponsors have said they will by-pass any town which plans segregation on the train carrying, among other documents, the Emancipation Proclamation. Langston Hughes, 44-year-old Negro poet and novelist, was inspired by the idea to write the poem which appears here. But he remains skeptical about what the local citizenry in the deep South may do to the Freedom Train. "Checkin' on the Freedom Train," adapted from a Negro spiritual, expresses the hope of the riders of the Jim Crow cars that this will be a different kind of train. Like most literature voicing the spontaneous longings of the Negro, it is easy to sing. A moving musical version will be published by W. C. Handy, the man who wrote "The St. Louis Blues."

TO : DIRECTOR, FBI

DATE: FEBRUARY 11, 1948

SECURITY MATTER - C

(6)(7)(C)

This is to advise that this office is in receipt of information from [redacted] of the local post of the Amvets and [redacted] of the Inter-Veterans Council comprising eighteen veterans' organizations in Springfield, to the effect that the organizations which he represents are in receipt of information to the effect that LANGSTON HUGHES is believed to be a member of the Communist Party. He explained that LANGSTON HUGHES, who is a nationally known poet and author of the poem, "The Freedom Train," has been invited to speak in Springfield at the Centennial Building, a state-owned building, on March 11, 1948, by the Urban League and various other local organizations whose alleged purpose is to promote harmony between the races. No comment was made, but he was encouraged to make his own investigation. (U)

(6)(7)(C)

On February 10, 1948, the [redacted] and [redacted] (colored) called at the Springfield Office, at which time they made inquiry concerning LANGSTON HUGHES. They explained that they were partially responsible for the coming appearance of LANGSTON HUGHES in Springfield and that they did not desire to sponsor a member of the Communist Party. Accordingly, they desired information from this Bureau as to whether or not this man was a member of the Communist Party. (U)

They were advised politely but firmly that this office could give out no information concerning any individual or organization whether under investigation or not. (U)

(6)(7)(C)

Inasmuch as [redacted] has indicated that some elements of the veterans' organizations are determined to oppose the appearance of LANGSTON HUGHES in Springfield, it is possible that the appearance of LANGSTON HUGHES will be attended by some violence and possible racial incident. (U)

The painting of LANGSTON HUGHES by HIRAM JACKSON, a local negro artist, is on public display in the Springfield Public Library next to an inflammatory painting entitled, "White Supremacy." (U)

Accordingly, the matter is being called to the attention of the Bureau with the request that this office be authorized to call the attention of the Springfield Police Department and Illinois State Police to this matter. (U)

Dear Sir:

I wish to thank you for the reply to my telegram in regard to Langston Hughes.

(6)(7)(C) I feel that I should explain my connection in this matter. I am the [redacted] of a committee appointed by the Inter-Veterans Council which is composed of representatives of the eighteen Veterans organizations in this city to obtain proof that this Langston Hughes is an active Communist. We know that he has been, but in order to try to obtain a cancellation of his lecture we need black and white statements.

We are sure the Ministers Alliance, Council of Churches, Business Men's Club, Y. M. C. A. and other civic groups will remove their names from the sponsors list if we can show them proof of this man's affiliation.

This situation is rather precarious since the Interracial relations here have been strained from time to time. However, two members of my committee are colored and are definitely anxious to obtain a cancellation to this lecture.

Several prominent citizens have asked the Veterans to take a stand on this matter and we feel that we definitely wish to do so, but we want to do it in a sensible way and that is by talking the sponsors into cancelling this lecture.

I have written Mr. Parnell Thomas and also Senator Scott Lucas in hopes of obtaining the desired information.

If you can supply me with any additional information, I will be ever grateful for same and I am sure the Veterans of this city will feel likewise.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

May I inquire about a letter purporting to come either from you or your organization concerning a negro, Langston Hughes, written to some local representative of the American Legion?

From several different sources including a very well balanced minister, it has been reported to me that this letter said substantially, that the F.B.I. would give out no information concerning whether Mr. Hughes is or is not a Communist but that one could read for himself the poem "Good Bye Christ", all or part of which was quoted in the letter. Moreover, that either you or your organization as the writer of the letter, is being used as authority to prove that Mr. Hughes is a Communist.

My interest in this is two fold:

1- The reputation of the F.B.I. I have always held the F.B.I. in the highest regard, something that I cannot say for some other governmental organizations. We certainly need some judicial fact finding organization like the F.B.I., that is interested in truth not a smear campaign. Therefore it is hard for me to believe that you (or your organization) has written such a letter which refuses to give facts but which makes it possible to use your good name to label him a Communist.

The poem itself is not evidence. I read recently an article by him in which he interprets this poem. Though written in the first person (as poets so often do) it does not, he claims, express his own conviction but is a representation of what those on the extreme left are thinking. I myself greatly dislike the poem but if the interpretation is what he claims it to be, then it is not evidence that he is a Communist.

2- The facts concerning Langston Hughes. I had nothing to do with bringing him to Springfield. Indeed I had never heard of him until after announcement had been made of his coming. Since then both sides have come to me with their evidence. The negroes and some of their white friends have shown me the evidence of the Un-American Committee that he is a Communist. Frankly I do not put too much credence in this Committee for they have smeared some of my friends who are no more Communist than you are. So if you have any facts you can release about Langston Hughes, I certainly would like to have them. If he is a Communist I want nothing to do with him; if he is being martyred through hysteria, I will champion his cause.

(b)(7)(C) This is important to me. [redacted] I want facts if I can get them, for I cannot afford to be a coward or to go off half cocked.

Best wishes to you in the great work you are doing.

Cordially,

(b)(7)(C) [redacted]

WE SEE BY THE PAPERS

OUBLE SPRINGS, ALA.: Winston County went Republican as in 1940, though all other Alabama counties voted Democratic by majorities of as much as 75 to 1. This county has gone Democratic only once since the Civil War—in 1932, when family strife split the Republicans and gave the county to Roosevelt, 1006 to Winston is known as the Free State, having, on July 4, 1861, formally seceded from the Confederacy by popular vote. It furnished five companies of infantry to the Union army. In 1864, when the Confederacy enforced the draft and carried off a local youth to jail in Jasper, a posse of Winston stormed Jasper, freed the prisoner and burned the jail.

CINCINNATI: For more than sixty years this city has owned outright a 338-mile-long, double-tracked, main-line railroad from here to Chattanooga. Then the Louisville & Nashville was completed soon after the Civil War, the loss of river traffic from Cincinnati to Louisville so alarmed this city that it voted bonds to build a competing line, totaling $18,300,000 before the road was opened in 1877. Once familiarly known as the Queen & Crescent route, the line has been operated since 1881 under lease by what now is the Southern Railway System. This company pays Cincinnati a yearly rental of $1,050,000 plus 2 per cent of the net profits. Some $14,000,000 in bonds still is outstanding. Excess of rental over interest up to 1940 has been [illegible], $20,300,000. Kentucky now is trying to collect income tax from Cincinnati on these rentals since 1936.

FORT DIX, N. J.: When a federalized National Guard regiment gave a show here just before the election, Harold Duchin, a company cook, wrote and directed the production and himself impersonated Hitler and President Roosevelt. The show was a satire on Army life, with digs at all, from the recruits to the brass hats. The latter, including the commanding general of the 44th Division, attended and laughed uproariously. In the take-off on the President, Duchin portrayed him as promising "two porks to every pot" and "two stoves in every tent." Duchin was a hero for three days, then quietly was confined to quarters pending an investigation. After two days under arrest, he was brought before an examining board, questioned briefly, then released. It is commonly understood here that Washington, reading newspaper accounts of the show, demanded that the offenders be disciplined.

TACOMA: Clark H. Eldridge, chief engineer of the $6,400,000 Tacoma Narrows Bridge, which collapsed four months after it was opened, blames the RFC and the PWA, which supplied the money. "We had a tried-and-true conventional bridge design," he said, "but we were told that we couldn't have the money without using plans furnished by an Eastern firm of engineers." This design, Eldridge said, was an adaptation of the design of the Whitestone Suspension Bridge, New York City, which has displayed in a lesser degree the same characteristic motion under wind pressure which wrecked the Narrows bridge.

SCRANTON, PA.: In the week before election, the WPA announced that the total cash of [illegible] all workers retaining in local service and those added and more to farmers employed by the projects in Lackawanna County. Dear [redacted] (b)(7)(C) (U)

I wish to acknowledge your communication of February 20, 1948, and I am at a loss to understand your references to the FBI and Langston Hughes. (U)

I did receive a letter from [redacted] (b)(7)(C) (U) [redacted] of the Springfield Urban League, who requested to be advised whether or not I would catalogue Mr. Hughes as a Communist. I informed [redacted] of the confidential character of the files of the FBI and specifically stated, "I am sure you will draw no inference whatsoever from my inability to comply with your request." This is the general tenor of replies to requests for information of this nature. (U)

I, of course, am familiar with Mr. Hughes' poem "Goodbye Christ." In fact, I referred to it in an address which I prepared for delivery before a conference of Methodist ministers in Evanston, Illinois last winter, a copy of which I am enclosing. In this connection, I am also enclosing a photostatic copy of a page from the December 21, 1940 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, which reproduces an announcement of a luncheon wherein Mr. Hughes would speak and quotes the poem. You will observe that Mr. Hughes is referred to as a member of the American section of Moscow's "International Union of Revolutionary Writers." (U)

I very well appreciate your position and while I would like to be of assistance, nevertheless, in view of the confidential character of our files, it would not be possible for me to elaborate any further on this matter. (U)

If you can give me any information on Langston Hughes, I should like to have it. We, of course, try to maintain the highest degree of freedom of speech on our campus but we do not want anyone who is billed as a post spreading Communistic propaganda. If you can give us any information for our guidance, we would appreciate it and should like to have it as early as possible.

Thanking you, I am

Langston Hughes, a notorious Negro with some 82 Communist affiliations, has been particularly active in Negro Communist activities. He was originally active in the (Communist) Workers' Cultural Federation in 1930, the New Theater League, and the Southern New Theater School. He has contributed to the Communist publications New Masses, Soviet Russia Today, Labor Defender, Champion, and The Anvil. He was active in Spanish Red Ranks during the Communist revolution in that country, and he is a member of its Red Army reserve, the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, a section of the International Brigade. He has been prominent in Communist-fronts, some of the better known ones are, the American Peace Mobilization (see The Show Up - issue No. 4), Conference on Pan-American Democracy, League of Struggle for Negro Rights, League of American Writers, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Book Union, and the American Student Union. One of his poems, a favorite with Communists, is called "Put Just One More "S" in USA" (Soviet) (page 109-testimony of Walter S. Dear Mr. Hoover:

Thank you very much for your letter of February 26th and a copy of the address before the Methodist ministers at Garrett.

On the middle of page six is an introductory paragraph to the poem "Goodbye Christ." Does this paragraph mean that Langston Hughes ran for "public office on the ticket of the Communist party"? If you know this to be true then of course that settles the matter. Langston Hughes at least has been a Communist.

However the whole matter is very strange. I have read a personal letter from him and also a magazine article by him in which he denies ever having been a Communist. (He could hardly do this if he has run for office on a Communist ticket which certainly is a matter of public record.) And he also insists that this poem is not an expression of his own view but as a poetic mechanism describes what a Communist thinks.

Again more power to you and the truly judgicious matters in the very important work committed to your care.

Sincerely,

Dear

In Mr. Hoover's absence from the city your letter of June 1st enclosing a communication from Langston Hughes has been called to my attention. This exchange of correspondence is somewhat mystifying to me since it appears that you have questioned the propriety of quoting the poem, "Goodbye Christ," by Langston Hughes in Mr. Hoover's lecture, "Secularism - A Breeder of Crime," which I had the privilege of presenting for him at the Conference of Methodist Ministers in Evanston, Illinois, on November 26, 1947. Frankly, it would appear to me that had there been any question about the propriety of using this poem, certainly Mr. Hoover should have been consulted. While I have not checked into the law on the subject, nevertheless, it seems to me that this poem is in the public domain and is a matter of public record. As a matter of fact, it is recorded in full in the printed hearings of the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, 75th Congress, 3rd Session, Volume II, page 1368. Likewise it appeared on a poster advertising Langston Hughes' appearance at a Book and Author Luncheon at Vista Del Arroyo Hotel, Pasadena, California, on November 15, 1940. This poster was reprinted in the December 21, 1940, issue of The Saturday Evening Post. A photostatic copy of page 54 of this issue of The Saturday Evening Post is enclosed.

Volume 14 of the printed hearings of the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, 77th Congress, 1st Session, page 8474, carries the testimony of Mr. J. B. Matthews as follows: "A number of these individuals are members of the Communist Party of public record:

Langston Hughes, for example, has run for office on the Communist Party ticket."

Langston Hughes' explanation that in this poem he characterizes the extreme right as seen by the extreme left is an insult to the intelligence of anyone who can read. If there ever was a blasphemous utterance, it is this poem, and while I note that he now declines to grant permission to reprint the poem, it certainly would appear that he had not withdrawn it from circulation at the time it was used to advertise the above-mentioned luncheon that he was to address.

Before making any recommendations to Mr. Hoover, I would like to know exactly what question has been raised about the use of the poem. It is a matter of public record and it would appear to be in the public domain. I frankly do not like the idea of vacillating in a case such as this and I am inclined to recommend and to urge that the Director withdraw the entire lecture from publication if the poem is deleted therefrom. However, before doing this I wanted the additional information.

Sincerely yours,

On tour,
May 24,
1943.

810 Broadway,
Nashville, Tennessee.

My dear

Your letter of May 13 just reaches me as I am completing a cross-country lecture tour, having been away from New York since early March.

My answer to your request is that I do not grant permission for the use of the poem, Goodbye Christ in the book being published by the Abingdon Cokesbury Press.

The Gerald L. K. Smith forces, the Klan, and other anti-Negro groups have, in recent years, usually on unsigned mimeographed sheets and entirely without permission distributed this poem as representative of my thoughts and work, often mutilated and cut, or combined with portions of other poems out of context. The poem was written about twenty years ago, is not in any of my own books, and because it was widely misunderstood when it first appeared---irony and satire being difficult to use in poetry, it seems---I withdrew the poem from circulation. The persons who have put it into circulation again are hardly up to any good purpose, being the most anti-Negro, anti-labor, and anti-Jewish groups in our America. I would hate to see the Commission on Ministerial Training of the Methodist Church helping them to continue their misrepresentation with no reference to the hundreds of other poems I have written, a number of them as in the FEET O' JESUS section of my book, THE DREAM KEEPER, being of a religious nature---clearly so in contrast to the irony of the poem GOODBYE CHRIST which is, to mind, most sympathetic to the symbol of good which certainly the very forces now distributing the poem are helping to drive from the minds of men.

Rushing for a train, I regret this hasty answer.

Sincerely yours,

Langston Hughes

CONCERNING "GOODBYE, CHRIST"

by

Langston Hughes

In the early days of the American depression, I wrote a poem called, GOODBYE, CHRIST, which later appeared in the NEGRO WORKER. Ever so often, since its appearance, I have been termed on occasion a Communist, or an Atheist, usually by the most reactionary and un-Christian-like groups in America, namely the America First group, the Gerald L. K. Smith organizations, and during the 1944 presidential campaign, by various anti-Roosevelt papers like the NEW YORK DAILY MIRROR and the NEW YORK SUN. The organizations which have attacked me through this poem are, for the most part, the most anti-Negro, anti-Jewish, and anti-labor groups in our country. They could, therefore, hardly be called Christian, or be characterized as acting in behalf of Christ whose teachings they certainly do not honor.

I am not a member of the Communist Party now and have never been a member of the Communist Party.

I am not now an atheist and have never been an atheist, although I must say that I do not believe in an anti-Jewish, anti-Negro, anti-Labor God. On page 55 of the DREAM KEEPER I write:

MA LORD

Ma Lord ain't no stuck-up man,
Ma Lord, he ain't proud.
When he goes a-walkin'
He gives me his hand.
"You ma friend," he 'lowed.

Ma Lord knowed what it was to work.
He knowed how to pray.
Ma Lord's life was trouble, too,
Trouble ever day.

Ma Lord ain't no stuck-up man.
He's a friend o' mine.
When He went to heaben,
His soul on fire,
He tole me I was gwine.
He said, "Sho you'll come wid Me
An' be ma friend through eternity."

In GOODBYE, CHRIST, I characterize the extreme right as seen by the extreme left who, at the moment when I wrote it, seemed to be mutually bidding Christ goodbye, just as during World War II they seemed to be together in praying for success at arms, trouble having brought out the religion in their souls in spite of a difference in ideologies.

I have written many poems characterizing many different kinds of people and expressing many varied ideas, some seriously, some satirically, some ironically. For instance, in my book of poems, SHAKESPEARE IN HARLEM, there is a poem called KU KLUX in which a Klansman speaks. But I am not a Klansman. In THE WEARY BLUES there is a poem called MOTHER TO SON in which an aged mother speaks. But I am not an aged mother. In SHAKESPEARE IN HARLEM there is a poem called WIDOW WOMAN in which a woman laments the loss of her husband. But I am not myself a widow-woman, although I use the pronoun "I" to characterize the woman, and it is my poem.

Mr. Archibald MacLeish before the senators said, "One of the occupational hazzards of writing poetry is running the risk of being misunderstood."

America's greatest and most democratic book of poems, Walt Whitman's LEAVES OF GRASS, has on occasion in some American communities in the past been banned on the grounds of obscenity.

Certainly my poem, GOODBYE, CHRIST, is no reflection on Christ, but rather a reflection on those who use or misuse Christ for material reasons. I have, personally, the greatest respect for sincere religionists, but none whatsoever for professional racketeers in religion, nor for those who use religion as an anti-labor, anti-semetic, anti-Negro, anti-democratic weapon for thwarting the progress of the common men.

The Un-American Committee, George Sokolsky, and Henry J. Taylor have stated that I have belonged to many subversive organizations. I am curious to know what they are. I am also curious to know why, if that be true, the FBI has not locked me up.

I have in the past belonged to the JOHN REED CLUB, the AMERICAN LEAGUE AGAINST WAR AND FASCISM, and the LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WRITERS, none of which are now in existence. But many other American writers have belonged to one or all of these organizations, including such distinguished persons as Ernest Hemingway, Dorothy Parker, Vincent Sheean, and the late Heywood Broun. I was never aware that any of these organizations were subversive. And they certainly had the merit of not being anti-Negro, which is less than can be said about the committee which has termed such venerable and conservative Negro leaders as Mary McLeod Bethune and William Pickens dangerous reds.

In many poems, stories, and articles --- from the short story, ONE FRIDAY MORNING in AN ANTHOLOGY OF AMERICAN NEGRO LITERATURE (Modern Library) to FREEDOM'S PLOW (Musetto Publishers,) a radio poem written for Mr. Paul Muni to deliver for the National Urban League, I have stated what is my own attitude toward America and American democracy.

My speeches have often been recorded in shorthand, on records and on wire in various parts of our country and abroad by persons wishing to keep on record my public utterances ---- for reasons of their own, I reckon. But no one who has heard me speak has ever come back with the accusation of subversion. My verbal and written words are available for any who wish to consider them.

I concede to anyone the right to read me nor not, as he may choose, to publish me or not, to invite me to speak or not, as desired. I also feel (and especially since one of the Four Freedoms is Freedom of Speech) that I have the right to oppose in speech or writing those who would make of democracy or religion a reactionary, evil, and harmful mask for anti-Negro, anti-labor, anti-semitic, and anti-American activities.

I would like to see an America where people of any race, color, or creed may live on a plane of cultural and material well-being, cooperating together unhindered by sectarian, racial, or factional prejudices and harmful intolerances that do nobody any good.

Far and above the fact that Langston Hughes is the poet laureate of the Negro race in America, he is also a literary figure of sufficient stature to overlap any racial border. His work is known to have largely been concerned with depicting Negro life in America and one of his main interests is the encouragement of literary ability among colored writers and the development of American Negro literature.

Mr. Hughes began to write while still in high school in Cleveland from which he was graduated in 1920. A year later his first poem to be published in a nationally known magazine, The Crisis, was called "The Negro Speaks of Rivers." In 1925 he received the First Prize for Poetry from the magazine, Opportunity, for his "The Weary Blues," which became the title-poem of his first book published shortly thereafter. In the same year Vachel Lindsay focused national attention on Langston Hughes when he read three of the young Negro's poems at a Washington hotel, where Mr. Hughes was then employed as a busboy.

DOUBLE SPRINGS, ALA.: Winston County went Republican as usual in 1940, though all other Alabama counties voted Democratic by pluralities of as much as 75 to 1. This county has gone Democratic only once since the Civil War—in 1932, when party strife split the Republicans and gave the county to Roosevelt, 1006 to 1006. Winston is known as the Free State, having, on July 4, 1861, formally seceded from the Confederacy by popular vote. It furnished five companies of infantry to the Union Army. In 1864, when the Confederacy enforced the draft and carried off a local youth to jail in Jasper, a posse from Winston stormed Jasper, freed the prisoner and burned the jail.

CINCINNATI: For more than sixty years this city has owned outright a 338-mile-long, double-tracked, mainline railroad from here to Chattanooga. When the Louisville & Nashville was opened soon after the Civil War, the shift of river traffic from Cincinnati to Louisville so alarmed this city that it voted bonds to build a competing line, spending $18,000,000 before the road was opened in 1877. Once familiarly known as the Queen & Crescent route, the line has been operated since 1881 under lease by what now is the Southern Railway System. This company pays Cincinnati a yearly rental of $1,698,000 plus 2 per cent of the net profits. Bonds $14,000,000 in bonds still is outstanding. Excess of rental over interest up to 1940 has been nearly $30,000,000. Kentucky now is trying to collect income tax from Cincinnati on these rentals since 1936.

Dear [redacted] (b)(7)(C)

I wish to acknowledge your communication of June 29th along with that of your [redacted] (b)(7)(C) under date of June 24th with enclosure. I am frank to say the communication which your assistant enclosed from [redacted] (b)(7)(C) is nothing short of amazing. The handling of Mr. Hoover's lecture exceeds anything I have ever heard of and if ever a public official was insulted it was Mr. Hoover by the action which was taken by you people in questioning a statement in his speech and then communicating with a character like Langston Hughes with a view of securing permission for Mr. Hoover to quote his poem. As a matter of fact, there is no record of Hughes' poem "Goodbye Christ" in the Copyright Section of the Library of Congress. (U)

I am enclosing a photostatic copy of page 124 of the July issue of Reader's Digest which you may have missed. It quotes a few lines from Langston Hughes' poem and I am informed by one of the Senior Editors of Reader's Digest that they did not get permission from Langston Hughes to quote his poem in Reader's Digest. (U)

The thing that frankly infuriates me is the thought that the Abingdon-Cokesbury Press and you would take it upon yourselves to communicate with an individual like Langston Hughes without at least giving Mr. Hoover the courtesy of saying whether he would agree to having his lecture edited in this manner. Were it not too late I would urge the Director most vigorously to withdraw the lecture. What is particularly heart-rending to me as a Methodist is to observe one of the great bodies of the church performing in such an amateurish manner. I think that the quicker everybody in the Methodist Church awakens to the true mission of the church and stops palliating people like Langston Hughes our church will become more militant and more effective. Hughes' explanation as to why he wrote this poem is an insult to intelligence and certainly I could not stomach his mouthings. While we are on the subject, it likewise seems to me that the Methodist Church has no right to be giving a forum to officials of the Communist Party to spread their hateful lies and deceitful propaganda when they are anti-Christ, anti-God, anti-church and anti-religion (U)

I have no doubt that once the book of lectures comes out some question will be raised on the deletion that was made in Mr. Hoover's lecture without his permission inasmuch as we have already sent out several hundred copies of this lecture ourselves. Should any questions be raised, I for one would be in favor of a straightforward statement of exactly what happened, knowing full well that it would not inure to the credit of the editor of the Abingdon-Cokesbury Press or yourself. (U)

Very truly yours, 94316

Dear Mr. Nichols:

(b)(7)(C) [redacted] Unfortunately, it arrived during his extended absence from the city.

Realizing the importance of your communication and its possible effect on the publication of SECULARISM AND THE CHRISTIAN FAITH, I conferred with the Abingdon-Cokesbury Press, the publishers of the book. Attached is a copy of a letter they have written (b)(7)(C) [redacted] which sets forth the facts and is an effort to clarify the matter. I trust it may throw light on the problem.

(b)(7)(C) [redacted] will be in the office next week. You may expect an early reply from him.

With good wishes, I am

(b)(7)(c) Dear [redacted]

Thank you for letting me see the letter of June 16 from Mr. Louis B. Nichols of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in regard to the chapter by J. Edgar Hoover in CHRISTIAN FAITH AND SECULARISM. 94313

As you will recall, the poem "Goodbye Christ" by Langston Hughes was cut out of this chapter entirely at our insistence. Our reason for doing so was to avoid risk of infringing upon a copyright. It has been our regular practice to insist that all authors furnish us with written permission of the copyright owners covering copyright material they have quoted in their text. If through our own investigation we have been unable to satisfy ourselves with regard to the copyright status of material, we have insisted that evidence be furnished us that it is in the public domain, and in the absence of such evidence have frequently deleted passages from our books. It was entirely on this basis that the Hughes poem was deleted from Mr. Hoover's chapter; we paid no attention to the meaning of the selection in making our decision, and would have done the same thing if the poem had been, for example, the words of a hymn or a lyric about the beauties of nature.

It is unfortunate that we did not get in touch with Mr. Hoover when we first struck the difficulty involved in this poem, as we would have done if our contract had been directly with him. However, under the circumstances we endeavored to discover the source of the poem--since Mr. Hoover had neglected to give any source information --and meanwhile sent the copy on to the typesetter. It was not until some days later, after we already had proofs, that we were able to locate the source of the poem and discovered that Langston Hughes was the author. Since Hughes has had quite a bit of literary work published by established publishers and therefore presumably knows something about copyright and would probably be inclined to be careful to protect his writings and oppose any infringement of his copyrights, there seemed every reason to consider this poem likely to be copyright and to fear some sort of action by the copyright owner in case we should infringe copyright.

As soon as we discovered the authorship of the poem, we informed you and asked that you write immediately to the author to request his permission if he should be owner of the copyright, or the name and address of the copyright owner in case he should have assigned it to some publisher. This was the natural procedure to follow, since you you had been obtaining such permissions for other quotations in the book. It is my recollection that you wrote a letter to Hughes right away and dispatched it by air mail in the hope of getting a reply before our scheduled date for approving final proofs for the press, which by that time was only a week or ten days off. We then held the proofs as long as we could, although everything else had been cleared several days earlier, and then after we had waited as long as possible, telephoned your office and, learning that no reply had been received as yet, deleted the poem and the comment about it and sent the proofs back to the printing plant with our O.K. for press as quickly as corrections marked could be made.

The reply from Hughes arrived several days later, as I recollect, and therefore had no bearing on our action in deleting the poem --which had been deleted because we did not have copyright clearance and not because of anything Hughes had to say about it. If Hughes had given his permission instead of refusing it, it would have made no difference to us, since it was then too late to put the poem back into the book.

I might add that, if any of us had wished to delete the poem on account of its content, we should most certainly have done so at an earlier stage, since we were put to quite a bit of trouble and expense to readjust the paging in order to take care of such a last-minute change.

Sincerely yours,

(b)(7)(c) Dear [redacted]

You recall that last summer you spoke to me in Mr. Hoover's absence about the Annual Conference on Ministerial Training at Garrett Institute, Evanston, Illinois, at which time Mr. Hoover accepted an invitation to deliver a lecture. As you know, Mr. Hoover prepared a lecture but found it impossible to deliver it personally and, accordingly, I was designated to present his lecture to the group. (U)

The lecture was scheduled to be published and we were shocked to receive a letter from [redacted] (b)(7)(c) on June 1st enclosing a communication from Langston Hughes denying permission to the Abingdon-Cokesbury Press to reprint his poem, "Goodbye Christ." In this connection I am enclosing a copy of a personal letter I sent to [redacted] in the Director's absence. I am also enclosing an exchange of correspondence with [redacted] and his [redacted] (b)(7)(c) dated June 24 and June 29 together with a copy of my reply of today. (U)

I thought you should know of this situation. I have never heard of a public official of Mr. Hoover's stature being treated so shabbily and, frankly, I think that the action of the Abingdon-Cokesbury Press and [redacted] (b)(7)(c) is nothing short of being an insult. This whole situation hurts me doubly because, after all, this is an official body of my own church. (U)

With best wishes and kind regards, (U)

Sincerely yours,

SUBJECT: LANGSTON HUGHES
SECURITY MATTER - C
(Bureau file #100-15139)

(U)

Reference is made to Bureau letter dated July 12, 1948, captioned as above, in which this office was requested to ascertain from the files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, when and where LANGSTON HUGHES ran for office on the Communist Party ticket. It is to be noted that on page 8474, Volume 14 of the report of the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, 77th Congress, Dr. J. B. MATTHEWS, then Research Director for the Committee, stated that HUGHES "has run for office on the Communist Party ticket". (U)

Although the files of the HCUA are voluminous in regard to LANGSTON HUGHES, identifying the original source, there is no further record as to when and where he ran on the Communist Party ticket. No exhibit was offered where MATTHEWS testified. It is known that Dr. MATTHEWS maintains a large personal file on Communist activities and may therefore be in a position to state from his records when and where HUGHES ran for office on the Communist Party ticket. (U)

Unless a good reason exists to the contrary, the New York Office is requested to interview J. B. MATTHEWS, 311 West 56th Street, New York 19, New York, for the desired information. (U)

This case is therefore being RUC'd to the New York Office. (U)

(U)

Reference is made to Bureau letter to New York dated August 19, 1948. (U)

Dr. JOSEPH B. MATTHEWS, 311 West 56th Street, New York City, was interviewed as requested and after a thorough review of his files advised that he had no evidence there to substantiate his remark that the subject had been a candidate on a Communist Party ticket. He said that it was his belief that the information came from the "Daily Worker" sometime in the Fall of 1936. A careful review of issues of the "Daily Worker" during that period in the years 1935-1938 did not reflect any mention of HUGHES as a Communist Party Candidate. (U)

Confidential Informant [redacted] (b)(7)(D) advised that as a member of the New York State Committee, Communist Party he recalled that LANGSTON HUGHES was suggested as a Candidate on the Party Election ticket in 1936 and again in 1938. Confidential Informant [redacted] said that on both occasions the (b)(7)(D) National Committee of the Communist Party discussed the suggestions of the State Committee and both times vetoed the idea, claiming that HUGHES was more valuable to the Party interests in his capacity as a writer and lecturer. The informant added that he had no doubt as to the subject's membership in the Communist Party. (U)

RE: JAMES LANGSTON HUGHES, wa
New York File 100-25776 (U)

Dear Sir:

A review of the files at the Bureau in connection with this subject has revealed that a report has not been received from your office concerning the subject since the report of Special Agent [redacted] (67)(C) dated ~~12-9-46~~ at ~~New York~~ (U)

While it is realized that existing instructions do not require that a report be submitted periodically on Security Index card subjects unless the subject is also a top functionary, it is felt that in view of the tense international situation at the present time, a new report should be submitted setting forth the extent of the subject's present activities in connection with the Communist Party and related groups in order that the Bureau will be in possession of current information concerning each one of those subjects who are considered a threat to the internal security. (U)

In submitting the report, the Bureau desires that you incorporate in summary form the information contained in your files not previously reported. Information of substantive nature only should be set forth and repetitious material should be avoided. Where a description of the subject has not been reported, that, too, should be included in the report and also placed on the reverse side of the Security Index card in accordance with the instructions outlined in SAC Letter No. 57, Series 1948, dated April 10, 1948. (U)

In the event the subject's current address is not the same as that which appears on the Security Index card, you should correct the Security Index card and forward Form FD-119 to the Bureau in order that the Security Index card at the Bureau can be corrected. (U)

In order that the Security Index will contain only the names of those individuals who can be considered to be a threat to the internal security of this country, the Bureau desires that you carefullly appraise this case and if it appears that the subject, based on his present position and activities or past position and activities, cannot be considered such as threat, then in addition to submitting the report you should recommend that the Security Index card be cancelled. (U)

This matter should receive your immediate attention.

Very truly yours,

J. Edgar Hoover

An examination of the Bureau records reflects that on Page 8474, Volume 14 of the report of the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, 77th Congress, Dr. J. B. Matthews, Research Director for the Committee in his testimony stated that Langston Hughes "has run for office on the Communist Party ticket." (U)

A further examination of the Bureau files reflects that this information has been quoted in Bureau reports, but there is no indication that any attempt has been made to verify the information. For that reason, you are requested to contact the appropriate official of the Committee on Un-American Activities for the purpose of ascertaining when and where Hughes was a candidate for public office on the Communist Party ticket. The records of Local Board number 58, 138th Street and Broadway, New York City, reflected that the subject, a negro, was born on February 1, 1902 at Joplin, Missouri, and is a citizen of the United States.(U)

The May 15, 1946 issue of the "Daily Worker" carried an article entitled "Yugoslav Medical Aid Campaign Opens Today." The article reflected that a three-day tag drive for Yugoslav relief would be opened with a noon-day rally on the steps of the sub-treasury building. Among the names of persons listed as endorsing the campaign was "JAMES LANGSTON HUGHES, negro poet and author." (U)

The November 9, 1946 issue of the "Daily Worker" carried an article entitled "2000 Notables Attend USSR Celebration." Under this caption it was reflected that a reception was held at the Soviet Embassy, Washington, D.C. in celebration of the 29th anniversary of the October Revolution. Listed among the guests was "LANGSTON HUGHES, negro poet." (U)

The January 28, 1947 issue of the "Daily Worker" carried an article entitled "An Impressive Musical Drama of Tenement Life." Under this caption, it was stated that LANGSTON HUGHES, whose picture was also carried, wrote the lyrics to "Street Scene" a play written by ELINOR RICE.(U)

The February 11, 1947 issue of the "Daily Worker" carried an article entitled "First 'Mainstream' Off the Press." Under this caption, it was stated that "Mainstream" a literary quarterly which "invites the participation of both Marxists and non-Marxists progressive writers," was going on sale. Among the list of contributors was "LANGSTON HUGHES, the great negro poet." (U)

The April 7, 1947 issue of the "Daily Worker" carried an article entitled "Langston Hughes Has a New Book." Under this caption, it was stated that LANGSTON HUGHES would have a new book of poems, "Fields of Wonder" published by ALFRED A. KNOPH.(U)

[redacted] (b)(1)

The September 27, 1947 issue of the "Daily Worker" carried an article (U)

entitled "Writing Out Loud Session Features Langston Hughes." Under this caption, it was stated that the subject's poem, "Chicago, South Side " would be presented. It was further stated that this affair was produced by the Literature Chapter of the Cultural Division of the National Negro Congress. (U)

The April 12, 1948 issue of the "Post" and "Home News" carried an article entitled "Rescind Invitation to Negro Poet." Under this caption, it was stated that a scheduled appearance of the subject at Vallejo, California, on April 13, 1948, had been cancelled by the Vallejo Council for Civic Unity on the grounds of "unpleasant notoriety connected with the rumor that he is a Communist." (U)

On December 3, 1948, Confidential Informant [redacted] (b)(7)(D) advised that he recalled that in 1936 and again in 1938 LANGSTON HUGHES was suggested as a candidate on the Party Election ticket. The same informant said that on both occasions the National Committee of the Communist Party discussed the suggestions of the State Committee and both times vetoed the idea, claiming that HUGHES was more valuable to the Party interests in his capacity as a writer and lecturer. The informant added that he had no doubt as to the subject's membership in the Communist Party. (U)

The September 13, 1947, issue of the "Pittsburgh Courier" carried an article entitled "Prominent Names on House List." The article stated that the House Committee on Un-American Activities had released a list of prominent negro leaders saying that they were "Communists" or "Communist sympathizers" as sponsors of the Civil Rights Congress. The list included the name of the subject. (U)

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that at the 4th Session of the National Committee plenum of the Communist Party, United States of America, attended by seventy Communist Party officials from all over the United States and held at New York City February 4, 1948, WILLIAM L. PATTERSON of Illinois, in urging the Party not to abandon the negro press, stated that columnists such as LANGSTON HUGHES, who advocate and advance the 3rd party, were available. (U)

A memo dated June 7, 1947, concerning Communist Party activities in the New York area which was furnished by an unknown outside source, advised that the subject was one of a "few well-known, highbrow intellectual Reds who were backing DON WEST, a Communist preacher in Georgia." (U)

Confidential Informant T-2 furnished a booklet entitled "Ella Reeve Bloor - 85th Anniversary" which was distributed June 20, 1947, at a (U)

banquet held in honor of mother BLOOR which contained the name of LANGSTON HUGHES as one of its sponsors. (U) (b)(7)(D)

Confidential Informant [redacted] furnished a letterhead, dated March 26, 1947, of the American Society for Cultural Relations with Italy. On the reverse side of this stationery, under the heading of "Friends of Italian Democracy" was a list of names which included the name of the subject. The same informant on September 4, 1947, furnished a booklet entitled "Manual on Peace Education" issued by the Junior Section, International Workers Order, 80 5th Avenue, New York City, which carried a poem entitled "The Black Soldier" which was written by the subject. (U)

The July - September, 1948 issue of the "Trends and Tides" Milford, New Jersey, carried an article entitled "Are You a Communist" written by the subject in which he explains that racial equality has succeeded in Communist Soviet. (U)

Confidential Informant T-3 advised that a group of persons had received invitations to attend the Congress of Intellectuals For Peace to be held in Warsaw, Poland, August 25 to 28, 1948. Among the list of persons who were to receive invitations was the name of the subject. (U)

Confidential Informant T-4 advised that she attended a meeting of the National Council of Arts, Science and Professions held at Ridgely Hall, Baltimore, Maryland, May 2, 1948. She furnished a leaflet which set forth the officers of the organization. This leaflet included the name of the subject as a member-at-large. (U)

[redacted] (b)(1) (U)

The January 28, 1946, issue of the "Daily Worker" carried an article on page eight column four entitled "Writers Pledge Strike Support." Under this caption, it was stated that fifty outstanding writers, in a statement released by the Literature Division of the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Science and Professions, had signed a pledge in support of strikes by organized labor. DATE: October 21, 1949

FROM : SAC, CHICAGO

SUBJECT: JAMES LANGSTON HUGHES, wa.
Langston Hughes
SECURITY MATTER - C
(Bureau File 100-15139) (U)

Reference is made to New York letter to the Director dated August 5, 1949 concerning the captioned subject. (U)

(6)(7)(D) [redacted] International House, 1404 E. 59th Street, Chicago, Illinois, advised SA [redacted] on (6)(7)(C) September 23, 1949 that JAMES LANGSTON HUGHES had resided in the International House from March 28, 1949 until June 10, 1949, at which time he returned to New York City and left a forwarding address of 20 East 127th Street, New York City, New York. (U)

(6)(7)(D) [redacted] further advised that during the subject's stay in the International House, she learned through periodic conversations with him that he was employed as a visiting lecturer on poetry at the Laboratory School, which is the University High School of the University of Chicago. She advised that she understood that, though he was primarily occupied with teaching poetry in the University High School, he also gave several lectures on poetry before University groups, but she could not be more specific concerning these particular groups. She stated that she also understood that he had been employed from March until June by the University of Chicago on a temporary basis and that he received approximately $400 for this work. (U)

She stated that during HUGHES' stay at the International House, his conduct was exemplary and in his conversations with her he had never indicated in any way that he believed in anything that would be inimicable to the United States Government. She advised that her records reflected that HUGHES was born on February 2, 1902 in Joplin, Missouri. (U)

A review of the indices of the Chicago Division reflects the following information concerning the captioned subject which is not already in the possession of the New York Division: (U)

(6)(7)(D) [redacted] advised on September 20, 1948 that a farewell reception was held for WILLIAM L. PATTERSON, national committee member of the Communist Party, under the auspices of the Civil Rights Congress at Curtis Hall, 410 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, on September 19, 1948. They advised that (U)

PAUL ROBESON, GIL GREEN, Chairman of the Communist Party in Illinois, ELEANOR BAILIND, Secretary of the Civil Rights Congress in Illinois, and LANGSTON HUGHES, colored sympathizer, poet, and speaker, all eulogized PATTERSON for his great work in the Communist Party. HUGHES spoke briefly at this farewell reception and in his talk he ridiculed the Freedom Train, then in Chicago, and stated, "How can it be a Freedom Train when colored people are discriminated against and have to use the rear door in order to view the false documents of the freedom they haven't got." (U) b(7)(D)

For reporting purposes, the [redacted] should be given a suitable temporary symbol and described as being an agency that collects security information in the Chicago area. (U)

The April 10, 1949 edition of "The Worker" on Page 13, Column 3, carried an article entitled, "LANGSTON HUGHES to Speak April 11-12," date lined at Chicago, Illinois. This article stated that LANGSTON HUGHES, noted author and poet, would speak at a forum at the Monumental Baptist Church, Oakwood and Langley Streets, Chicago, on Monday and Tuesday, April 11 and 12, 1949. The article does not reveal the nature of this forum or other participants. (U)

The March 1, 1948 edition of the "Chicago Daily Tribune" reflects an article entitled, "Red-Tinged Poet to Speak at Winnetka Private School." This article, in summary, stated that LANGSTON HUGHES, negro poet who has been a contributor to Communist sponsored publications and who is a member of the Communist front organizations, was scheduled to recite his poetry before the student body of the exclusive North Shore Country Day School, Winnetka, Illinois. This article states that the head master of this school stated that he had had no advanced knowledge of HUGHES' background and was not aware of any of his alleged Communist affiliations. (U)

TO : Director, FBI

DATE: August 8, 1950

FROM : SAC, New York

SUBJECT: RE: JAMES LAWSTON [redacted]; (LOUIS BUDENZ 460)
SECURITY MATTER - C

LOUIS F. BUDENZ, formerly managing editor of the "Daily Worker" and a Communist Party functionary until he broke with the Party in October, 1945 has been interviewed during the past few months concerning the concealed Communists whom he knew. The person named above as the subject of this case, was one of those individuals whom BUDENZ described as a concealed Communist. BUDENZ describes a concealed Communist as one who does not hold himself out as a Communist and who would deny membership in the Party.

BUDENZ advised SA [redacted] (b)(7)(C) on June 30, 1950, of all he knew concerning the subject that he felt was pertinent, and he dictated this information to a stenographer of this office, who was present during the interview.

He used, in order to bring out all he knew about the subject, the following set of questions. He considered all questions in connection with this subject. Where he did not comment on some particular question as to the activity of the subject, then it is because he had no knowledge. If he recalled anything about the subject as a result of these questions he dictated what he knew. The questions are as follows:

1. Identify individual
   a. If observed a description and other identifying data;
   b. If not seen, enough descriptive data about individual to positively identify him or her;
   c. Any aliases

2. Narrate how he knows individual as a Communist
   a. If seen at a closed meeting, get date, place and persons present at meeting;
   b. If told officially that individual was a Communist, who said it, what were the circumstances, and who was present;
   c. Relate all occasions when he met or heard of individual as Communist.

3. Documents
   a. Did individual ever write anything that might be considered Communist literature.
      1. For "Daily Worker", "New Masses", "Political Affairs", any any front publications or other publications.

6. Is individual still active or sympathetic toward Party.

7. Can you recall any trips abroad particularly to Russia and the approximate date of the trips? Can you recall the nature of the trips.

8. Did you ever hear that he had attended any of the training schools in Russia?

9. Did this subject appear to have entree to the Russian Consulate or did he receive special consideration and attention from known Russian Agents or Communist Officials in U.S.?

10. Is the subject working for the U.S. Government or is he affiliated in any way in Confidential Government work at this time?

11. Did this individual have military training, Abraham Lincoln Brigade, U.S. Army, other service?

12. Was this individual employed in vital industry?

13. Do you know any other members of his family who are Communists?

14. Do you know of any other activity on the part of the individual which would indicate that the individual is a concealed Communist?

Additional questions were asked as a result of his answers to the above questions in order to fully develop his information.

Letter to Director
NY 100-25776

Attached is a blind memorandum dictated by LOUIS F. BUDENZ and containing all the pertinent information concerning the subject which BUDENZ could presently recollect.

The original of each memo has been reviewed by Mr. BUDENZ and he has made any necessary corrections and he has signed the original. The signed original of each memo is being retained in the confidential informant file of LOUIS F. BUDENZ, NY file 62-6988.

(U)

Since the individuals such as the subject of this case are, according to BUDENZ, concealed Communists and since they are, in most instances, persons of some prominence, it is suggested that if the information appearing in the attached blind memo is reported, then Mr. BUDENZ should be given a temporary confidential informant symbol.

For the information of the Bureau the subject is one of the 400 concealed Communists whom BUDENZ stated he knew. The names of these concealed Communists were sent to the Bureau in the case captioned "Communist Party, USA, Internal Security - C".

LANGSTON HUGHES

Negro poet.

Shortly after I entered the Party, in the late 1930's, I was advised officially through JAMES W. FORD and through meetings of the Politburo that LANGSTON HUGHES was a member of the Communist Party. This was reinforced by HUGHES being played up in the "Daily Worker," through references to his works and interviews and the like.

All through the 1940's, when I was Managing Editor of the "Daily Worker," repeated reports officially given to me by the Politburo and specifically EUGENE DENNIS and JACK STACHEL, along with BENJAMIN DAVIS, JR., were to the effect that HUGHES continued to be a loyal adherent of the Communist Party. During the HITLER—STALIN Pact, when on the commission to examine the attitude of intellectuals and artists to the Communist Party, I learned of HUGHES' deep devotion to the Communist Party, this being given to me by ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and V. J. JEROME. Subsequently, I followed the Party line wherever it led. The official report from JACK STACHEL that HUGHES was an adherent of the Party continued up to the time I left the organization in 1945.

THE RICHARD SORGE CASE (U)
ESPIONAGE - R

Attached for the New York Office is one photostatic copy of each of consecutive exhibits 33 and 34 which were furnished to the Bureau by G-2, November 22, 1950. Page 33 of exhibit 33 was missing from the copy furnished the Bureau by G-2. The Bureau has requested G-2 to supply the missing page and when received it will be made available to your office.

For the information of all offices G-2 has now advised that copies of exhibits 1 to 32 inclusive have already been made available to the House Un-American Activities Committee. G-2 is also considering making available exhibits 33 and 34 to the Committee.

While the Sorge Case is primarily a G-2 matter the names of many U. S. citizens appear throughout the G-2 exhibits. It is the Bureau's responsibility to identify these individuals, to ascertain if they are in the United States and, if so, to conduct such investigation as may be appropriate in each individual instance.

The Bureau has received from G-2 copies of all exhibits mentioned above except 29, 30 and 32. Copies of all available exhibits have been furnished to the New York Office by the Bureau. G-2 has been requested to furnish exhibits 29, 30 and 32 and when received they will be forwarded to the New York Office. The New York Office as office of origin has the responsibility of carefully reviewing all exhibits and instituting any necessary action with respect to any U. S. citizens involved. In order that there will be no misunderstanding of the responsibility of the New York Office in this matter the Bureau expects that steps will be taken to identify and determine the present whereabouts of each individual mentioned in the G-2 exhibits where it is alleged that the individual is a U. S. citizen or an "American."

The mention of the name of a U. S. citizen in the Sorge exhibits does not necessarily indicate involvement in the Sorge espionage case. The allegations or activities cited may range from the mere expression of Communist sympathy to an allegation of espionage. Accordingly, in opening any new cases the character and title thereof should be governed by the individual circumstances. In cases of individuals alleged to have been members of the Sorge ring the title and character should be as follows:

[redacted] Outside scope

d/s 6(7)(c)

[redacted] Also, lesser allegations should be carried as John Doe, Security Matter - C.

The New York Office should complete its review of the G-2 exhibits as soon as possible and after instituting the necessary initial action in each case should advise the Bureau that this review has been completed and that appropriate action has been instituted with relation to each U. S. citizen involved.

The office covering the current residence of any individual may be designated as office of origin and New York may furnish available information to that office in the form of a RUC report. Where the whereabouts of the individual is not known or in instances where from the data in the G-2 exhibits the last known whereabouts is China, New York should consider itself office of origin until the subject's whereabouts is ascertained. A logical initial step in these cases would, of course, be the examination of State Department passport records for identifying information.

Exhibit 34 contains information on 35 U. S. citizens. Under each name is a series of notations and adjacent to each entry the source of the information is cited. The source SMP indicates that the information was obtained by G-2 from the records of the Shanghai Municipal Police (French and British Divisions). The source CE followed by a number is a reference to a previous consecutive exhibit. Other sources refer to G-2 files. Bureau files reflect that 23 of the 35 persons listed in exhibit 34 are the subjects of various case files. These cases are listed below and a copy of this communication is being designated for each office of origin. Photostatic copies of each page relating to a particular subject is also attached for the office of origin.

In each of the above listed cases the office of origin will have the responsibility of comparing the data from exhibit 34 with information already in file. If the case is in a closed status and the information in exhibit 34 is determined to be new information, consideration should be given to the advisability of reopening the case if the material logically warrants such action.

In the event that the material in exhibit 34 cites a previous C-2 exhibit as a source and the previous material is not available in your file, the New York Office should be requested to supply the previous information. If the only source cited is a reference to C-2 files and you feel that additional details are necessary, you should request the Bureau to obtain the additional information from C-2.

In all cases careful consideration should be given to the advisability of recommending a security index card in instances where the subject is not already on the Security Index list. It is not desired that these recommendations be automatically submitted merely because the subject is mentioned in the G-2 exhibits, but it is felt that in view of the present importance of the Chinese Communist situation that each case should be reconsidered in the light of changed international developments.

Reference is made to your letter dated December 29, 1950, which transmitted to this Bureau a copy of consecutive Exhibit 32 prepared by your Far Eastern Command. A review of this exhibit discloses that 63 individuals mentioned therein are described as U.S. citizens or "Americans," and are, therefore, of interest to this Bureau. Some of these individuals already are, or have been, the subjects of investigation by this Bureau. In other instances this Bureau has received no previous information warranting investigation.

Since Exhibit 32 is primarily an index and description of information available in the headquarters of the Far Eastern Command, it is not possible to make any comparison of the information available with that already in our possession, nor is it possible to evaluate the information available on persons not previously investigated by this Bureau until the complete data on each individual is furnished to us.

INITIALS ON ORIGINAL

It has been noted that photostatic copies of all G-2 documents mentioned in Exhibit 32 are available at the headquarters of the Far Eastern Command. Accordingly, it is requested that complete data on each individual of interest to this Bureau be made available to us as soon as possible. It is appreciated that this request will entail considerable work on the part of your organization and for that reason the 63 individuals of interest to us are listed below in five groups indicative of the priority of our interest. In each instance the name appearing in consecutive Exhibit 32 is listed and adjacent thereto appears the FBI case title, character and file number where available. It would greatly facilitate the handling of your information by this Bureau if a separate reply is made on each individual utilizing the FBI case title, character and file number as your caption in each instance.

It is further noted that many of the G-2 documents are voluminous whereas only a small portion of the entire document may relate to a particular individual. In making your replies it is requested that only the portion of your document relating to the individual be furnished. To illustrate this limitation, G-2's document 31 contains 122 SVF file cards. In your reply on [redacted] it is desired that only the SVF card on [redacted] be furnished from G-2 document 31. Similarly, G-2 document 25 lists arrivals and departures of numerous individuals on Soviet vessels. In your reply on [redacted] it is suggested that the data on [redacted] be excerpted from G-2 document 25 in lieu of furnishing the entire document. (b)(7)(C) (b)(3)(C)

The individuals of interest to this Bureau are listed below. The appearance of an asterisk preceding a name denotes that all possible identifying data is also desired to facilitate our identification of the individual. (U)

Confidential Informant T-1, of known reliability, advised on January 24, 1951 that the subject was residing at 20 East 127th Street, New York City. (U)

Confidential Informant T-2, of unknown reliability, but who was in a position to know of the registrations at International House, Chicago, Illinois, advised that the subject had resided at International House, Chicago, Illinois, from March 28, 1949 until June 10, 1949, at which time he left for his residence at 20 East 127th Street, New York City. (U)

Employment

T-2 advised that while the subject resided at the above mentioned International House, he learned through conversations with the subject that the subject was employed as a visiting lecturer on poetry at the Laboratory School which is the University High School of the University of Chicago. T-2 stated that he understood that although the subject was primarily occupied with teaching poetry at the University High School, he also gave several lectures before University groups. (U)

T-2 advised that he could not be specific regarding the groups before whom the subject gave lectures. T-2 also stated that it was his understanding that the subject had been employed from March until June, 1949 by the University of Chicago on a temporary basis, and that he received approximately $400.00 for this work. (U)

T-1 advised on January 24, 1951 that the subject was active as a Negro poet, lecturer, and author, having just completed a book entitled, "Simple Speaks His Mind." (U)

Communist Party Activities

On September 20, 1948, Confidential Informant T-3, of known reliability, an agency that collects security information in the Chicago area, advised that a farewell reception was held for WILLIAM L. PATTERSON, National Committee member of the Communist Party, under the auspices of the Civil Rights Congress at Curtis Hall, 410 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinios, on September 19, 1948. (U)

178

T-1 stated that PAUL ROBESON, GIL GREEN, Chairman of the Communist Party in Illinois; ELEANOR SALKIND, Secretary of the Civil Rights Congress in Illinois, and LANGSTON HUGHES, all eulogized PATTERSON for his great work in the Communist Party. (U)

According to Confidential Informant T-3, of known reliability, HUGHES spoke briefly at this farewell reception, and in his talk he ridiculed the Freedom Train then in Chicago and stated: (U)

"How can it be a Freedom Train when colored people are discriminated against and have to use the rear door in order to view the false documents of the freedom they haven't got."

It is to be noted that Confidential Informant T-4, of known reliability, stated that the above-mentioned PAUL ROBESON was a member of the Communist Party under the name of JOHN THOMAS. (U)

It is also to be noted that the above-mentioned Civil Rights Congress has been declared by the Attorney General as an organization coming within the purview of Executive Order 9835. (U)

The March 1, 1948 issue of the "Chicago Daily Tribune" reflected an article entitled, "Red Tinged Poet to Speak at Winnetka Private School." This article, in summary, stated that LANGSTON HUGHES, Negro poet, who has been a contributor to Communist sponsored publications, and who is a member of Communist front organizations, was scheduled to recite his poetry before the student body of the exclusive North Shore Country Day School, Winnetka, Illinois. (U)

This article stated that the headmaster of this school stated that he had had no advance knowledge of HUGHES' background and was not aware of any of his alleged Communist affiliations. (U)

The "Daily Worker" dated May 3, 1950, page eleven, column two, reflects a review of a book written by the subject entitled, "Simple Speaks His Mind". This article is entitled, "Langston Hughes 'Simple' Speaks for Harlem." (U)

This article stated that LANGSTON HUGHES, in this book, "has uncovered the unspoken conscience of America's largest Negro ghetto. Simple Is Harlem, fretting in the white folks' wrongs, humorously scaping the dead end of utter frustration, militantly poised for the ght out of which will be won an America which will be America to ALL lack and white alike." (U)

On June 30, 1950, Confidential Informant T-5, of known reliability, advised that in the late nineteen thirties he was officially advised by [redacted] that LANGSTON HUGHES was a member of the Communist Party. T-5 also advised that through the nineteen forties he was advised by [redacted] that LANGSTON HUGHES continued to be a loyal adherent of the Communist Party. T-5 also advised that during the Hitler-Stalin Pact, he learned of the subject's deep devotion to the Communist Party from [redacted] T-5 further advised that he was informed by [redacted] as late as 1945 that LANGSTON HUGHES was an adherent to the Communist Party. (U)

(7)(D)

It should be noted that Confidential Informant T-6, of known reliability, has advised that the [redacted] JAMES W. FORD, a former United States Vice Presidential candidate on the Communist Party ticket, is Chairman of the Bedford Stuyvesant section of the Communist Party. (U)

It should also be noted that Confidential Informant T-7, of known reliability, advised on September 8, 1947 that the [redacted] ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG was a member of the National Review Commission of the Communist Party, USA. (U)

It is also to be noted that the [redacted] EUGENE DENNIS, JACK STACHEL and BENJAMIN DAVIS, JR., are all members of the National Board of the Communist Party, USA. (U)

The "Daily Worker" dated October 26, 1950, page five, column two, reflected an article entitled, "Langston Hughes Joins DuBois Group". This article stated that LANGSTON HUGHES was "the second honorary co-chairman of the Citizens Non-Partisan Committee to Elect Dr. DuBois". (U)

It is to be noted that the above-mentioned Dr. DuBOIS was the American Labor Party candidate in 1950 for United States Senator from the State of New York. (U)

It is also to be noted that T-5 advised that Dr. WILLIAM E. B. DuBOIS was a member of the Communist Party. (U)

On November 21, 1950 [redacted]

(7)(D)

(U)

[redacted] furnished the New York Office with copies of a telegram he had received from the subject, and also a telegram he received from one [redacted] (U)

It is to be noted that on September 27, 1947, Confidential Informant T-8, of known reliability, identified the above-mentioned [redacted] as a Communist Party member. (U)

It is to be noted that the 1948 report of the California Committee on Un-American Activities, page 192, describes the Voice of Freedom Committee as a Communist front "whose function is the support of commentators who have received the acclaim of the Communist press ...." (U)

The telegram sent by the subject to [redacted] is quoted below in full: (U)

"Station WINS Crosley Broadcasting Corp 28 West 44 St-

"Among the various inaccuracies which I heard today on a playback of your Saturday night or Sunday morning broadcast was a statement to the effect I have been a professed card holding member of the Communist Party for some twenty years. In the interest of truth and fair play I would appreciate a correction of this misstatement on your program since I have never been a member of the Communist Party am not a member of the Communist Party and have no intention of becoming a member of the Communist Party all which has previously been stated in my published work and public lectures and is general knowledge among those who have followed my work or know me personally-

Langston Hughes"

A letterhead of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, Incorporated, 114 East 32nd Street, New York City, dated November 10, 1948, reflected the subject to be a sponsor of that organization. (U)

A letterhead dated July 6, 1949 of the above-mentioned organization also revealed the subject to be a sponsor of that organization. (U)

It is to be noted that the above-mentioned National Council of American Soviet Friendship has been declared by the Attorney General as an organization coming within the purview of Executive Order 9835. (U)

On May 27, 1949, Confidential Informant T-9, of known reliability, furnished information reflecting that on March 11, 1949 JEAN KARSAY, in behalf of the Executive Committee of the American Labor Party, had invited the subject to be the speaker at a forum held on March 27, 1949. (U)

It is to be noted that the above-mentioned American Labor Party was cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities on March 29, 1944. (U)

On April 17, 1946, Confidential Informant T-10, of known reliability, advised that LANGSTON HUGHES was a sponsor of the Congress on Civil Rights held on April 27, 28, 1946 at Detroit, Michigan, which was sponsored by the Civil Rights Congress. (U)

On April 18, 1949, Confidential Informant T-11, of known reliability, furnished information reflecting that the subject was a featured entertainer at a "Crystal Ball Revue and Dance", held on April 22, 1949, under the auspices of the Civil Rights Congress. (U)

T-11 advised that it had been advertised that the proceeds of the above affair were to go to the Civil Rights Congress Committee to Free the Trenton Six. (U)

It is to be noted that the Civil Rights Congress and its affiliates have been declared by the U.S. Attorney General as an organization coming within the purview of Executive Order 9835. (U)

T-9 advised that LANGSTON HUGHES was a sponsor of the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace held at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York City, on March 25-27, 1949, under the auspices of the National Council of Arts, Sciences and Professions. (U)

Confidential Informant T-12, of known reliability, advised that LANGSTON HUGHES was elected a member-at-large of the National Council of Arts, Sciences and Professions by the organizing committee of that organization at a meeting held in Chicago on January 16,17, 1948. (U)

It is to be noted that the California Committee on Un-American Activities, Partial Report, California Senate Journal, page 698, dated March 23, 1949, reflects that the above-mentioned National Council of Arts Sciences and Professions is "one of the most important Communist front organizations in the country". (U)

It is to be noted that Confidential Informant T-21, of known reliability, advised, that in his opinion, the above-mentioned Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace, held in New York City on March 25-27, 1949, was a follow-up on the World Congress of Intellectuals held in Wroclaw, Poland, in August, 1948, and that these conferences were part of a world-wide Communist inspired "peace" propaganda campaign. (U)

Confidential Informant T-14, of known reliability, advised on September 4, 1947, that LANGSTON HUGHES was a sponsor of the American Committee for Yugoslav Relief, Incorporated. (U)

It is to be noted that the above-mentioned American Committee for Yugoslav Relief, Incorporated, has been cited by the Attorney General as an organization coming within the purview of Executive Order 9835. (U)

The "Daily Compass", dated May 18, 1949 carried an article entitled, "Legion Brands 128 Notables 'Untouchable'". (U)

This article reflected a list of 128 writers, lecturers, etc., which had been issued by the American Legion's Americanism Division and labeled by that division as persons "whose past activities make them unsuitable or inappropriate for legion sponsorship". (U)

It was noted that the name LANGSTON HUGHES was included in the above list. (U)

The "New York World Telegram" dated June 9, 1949, carried an article which stated that the 1949 report of the California Un-American Activities Committee had listed hundreds of persons as Communist appeasers or followers. Among those listed as followers of the Communist line was the name LANGSTON HUGHES. (U)

The "Daily Worker" dated May 26, 1950, page ten, column four, reported that LANGSTON HUGHES was to be a sponsor of a "peace festival" which was to be held on May 28, 1950, at Camden, New Jersey. This article reflected that the speakers were to be HOWARD FAST and ELLA REEVE BLOOR. (U)

It is to be noted that Confidential Informant T-22, of known reliability, stated on February 21, 1947, that the above mentioned HOWARD FAST was a member of the National Cultural Committee of the Communist Party. (U)

It is to be noted that the above-mentioned ELLA REEVE BLOOR is mentioned in the "Daily Worker" issue of July 1, 1947, in an article which states that ELLA REEVE BLOOR "is the first lady of the Communist Party and an outstanding Communist woman". (U)

The "Daily Worker" dated September 21, 1950, page four, column four, carried an article entitled, "One Thousand Notables From 44 States Ask Truman Veto." This article stated that a group of persons had wired President TRUMAN urging him "to veto the McCARRAN Police State Bill". (U)

It was noted that the name LANGSTON HUGHES appeared with those of the above group of persons.(U)

It should be noted that the "Daily Worker" is an East Coast Communist newspaper.(U)

WARD M. DAWSON, R. Politician from Mason Co. spoke to House Oct. 26, 1959

"A Real Guy?

"To the Editor of the Daily Mail:

"Pres. John W. Davis has announced that Langston Hughes will appear at West Virginia State College, February 21. He did not announce that Langston Hughes had been a writer for the "Daily Worker," U. S. Communist newspaper, nor that he wrote the following:

"Goodbye, Jesus Christ, Lord God, Jehovah,
"Beat it away from here!"
"Make way for a new guy with no religion at all—
"A real guy named Marx, Communist, Lenin peasant."

The avowed purpose of the Russian Communists is the overthrow of all other governments, including the U. S. A., and the confiscation of private property and the churches.

Marxism rejects the concept of moral law. Truth, Justice, honor, belief in God, self-respect and conscience are antagonistic to Marxism.

I now wish to say, Mr. Speaker, upon calling the president of this college this morning, I am advised that Mr. Langston Hughes did not appear at the college last night.

The bill (H. B. No. 210) was then ordered to engrossment and third reading.

House Bill No. 85—"A Bill to amend and reenact section five and sections five-(one) to section five-(fifty-four), inclusive, article one, chapter seven of the code of West Virginia, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, as amended and reenacted by chapter fourteen, acts of the Legislature, regular session, one thousand nine hundred forty-one, and as further amended by chapter twenty-two, acts of the Legislature, regular session, one thousand nine hundred forty-three, and as further amended by chapter thirty-three, acts of the Legislature, regular session, one thousand nine hundred forty-five, and as further amended by chapter forty-five, acts of the Legislature, regular session, one thousand nine hundred forty-seven, and as last amended and reenacted by chapter twenty-seven, acts of the Legislature, regular session, one thousand nine hundred forty-nine, relating to compensation of county commissioners for services other than services in court,"

On second reading, coming up in regular order, was on motion of Mr. Rairden, laid over one day.

Com. Sub. for House Bill No. 130—"A Bill to amend and reenact, section five-sections five-(one) to five-(fifty-five), inclusive, article seven, chapter seven of the code of West Virginia, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, as last amended by for everybody to remember is that we are up against the most sinister, diabolical conspiracy in the history of the world to destroy the constitution of the United States and the American way of life; destroy the opportunity which has made us great, and substitute by the combination of outside force, internal fifth column activities of force and deception. A slave state—if you please, Mr. Speaker, in which a government, prefcrable a world government, which would dominate and control everybody in everything. It is unimportant whether this is called a liberal or progressive government, a welfare state, socialism, fascism or communist system; they all end up at the goal post and that is spelled Dictator.

A school text book was taught in the schools of West Virginia a short time ago, which came to the attention, first, of the writer of a newspaper in the eastern part of this state. In his column, this writer brought out certain passages in the book, which he considered Un-American. Later, a former member of this House read passages from the book to the members of the 1947 session to which I was a member. The book showed the picture of whom? George Washington? Abraham Lincoln? Thomas Jefferson? No. Joe Stalin. That caused little alarm over the State.

However, the writer of that paper continued to call attention of the readers to this book. He proceeded until the facts came to the attention of the Congressional Un-American Activities Committee, for the District of Columbia, in which the book was also used as a text. They started an investigation immediately, and summoned the author of the book before the committee. They declared certain statements Un-American, and the author of the book agreed to remove them, as well as the picture of Joe Stalin, which was the only individual picture in the book. It was then allowed to continue as a text in the District of Columbia.

Another thing has come to my attention—and to me it is an ominous thing—it has caused me some concern for the teachers of my State and the children they teach.

I have the greatest confidence in the teachers of my State. They are loyal Americans, entrusted with the most important jobs of all professions. It is in their defense that I am now taking your valuable time. But as loyal as they are, the teachers of this State can be exposed to the subtle workings of a wild ism that is creeping into our institutions.

The cause of that concern is from a letter published in "The Charleston Daily Mail", Sunday morning, February 4th. To me the poem and the letter, which I now read with your permission, Mr. Speaker, is a challenge to our Republic and its religion:

TO : Supervisors in the Security Division

DATE: May 11, 1951

FROM : Mr. A. H. Belmont

SUBJECT: JAMES LANGSTON HUGHES
SECURITY MATTER - C

The Bureau has received information from the Intelligence Division of the Army concerning the activity of a number of individuals in the Far East under the caption of "Richard Sorge." It was alleged that some of the individuals mentioned were directly connected with the Sorge spy ring. Information concerning other persons named, which had been obtained from the files of the Shanghai Municipal Police, alleged only Communist activity on their part in the Far East.

ACTION:

(1) It will be the complete responsibility of the individual supervisor handling this investigation to make sure that all necessary action in this case has been taken and that the Bureau's responsibility relative to the investigation of this individual has been fully discharged.

(2) In order to accomplish the above, it will be necessary for the supervisor to completely review the case file to make certain that the following action has been taken:

(a) That the allegations from the Far Eastern Command (primarily Shanghai Municipal Police data) are incorporated in the case file.

(b) That all logical investigation concerning these allegations has been, or is being, currently conducted.

(c) That the data received from the Far Eastern Command and all other pertinent information developed in this case has been disseminated to the Department and other interested government agencies.

(d) In many cases it will be noted that the Far Eastern Command has not furnished the Bureau full information from their Tokyo files and that by letter dated February 10, 1951 the Bureau requested G-2 to obtain all data and furnish the same to the Bureau.

(e) In order that the desired information can be correlated, each supervisor receiving a copy of this memorandum should prepare a memorandum utilizing the caption of the individual case and containing the following information.

(1) Date and place of birth.

(2) Citizenship.

(3) Current residence and employment. (If subject is deceased, indicate. If whereabouts of subject is unknown, so indicate and give last known whereabouts.)

(4) Describe very briefly subject's major activities. If subject is in the CP at the present time so indicate, together with the position subject holds in CP.

(5) Was subject ever in the Far East? If so, give dates and briefly state major activity in Far East.

(6) In some cases it will be noted that the subject is not a U. S. citizen and is not in the U. S. at the present time; however, he may have visited the U. S. in the past. If this is found to be the case, the dates covering subject's visit to the U. S. should be indicated.

(7) Set out date Bureau investigation instituted.

(8) Has subject ever been interviewed?

(9) Has subject ever been prosecuted, and if so, give date, charge, and results of prosecution.

194

(10) If subject has not been prosecuted, has this case been referred to the Department for a prosecutive opinion in connection with any violation, including referrals to the Department for consideration under the Internal Security Act of 1950? If so, give date of referral.

(11) What response was received from the Department? What Departmental official made this response, the nature thereof and the date?

(12) Do we have a Security Index card on subject?

(13) Indicate status of case (closed or pending).

(14) Indicate dissemination made of reports in this case. Have Department and other interested governmental agencies been furnished copies of reports? If all or part of investigation has not been disseminated and cannot for some special reason be disseminated at this time, a separate memorandum should be prepared explaining the reasons why dissemination cannot be made, in order that the nondissemination can be approved.

This memorandum should be complied with immediately. An extra yellow copy should be designated for 100-124002. A white tickler copy should be immediately routed to Supervisor R. D. Gibbons, Room 1740. (U)

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover,
F.B.I.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir,

Enclosed find copy which was given to me, which, is self-explanatory. I am informed that the author of this, article is well known. He is the individual, who, is the author of the blasphemous poem," Goodbye Christ". One almost feels humiliated to read such vulgar, if not, most ignorant thoughts, written by such a person. Do you not think, that, anyone, with such diabolical and antagonistic motives, is dangerous to the country? Who, has the effrontery to circulate such destructive influence. And, should be apprehended, in my opinion.

It is the height of ignorance, to believe that the world owes anyone a living. Or, what others have earned, by the sweat of their brow, to share with those, who are lazy. If, anyone is looking for work, in order to make a living, he can find it. There is no such thing, as a path of roses, in this world. God, never intended it this way. If the human mind, needs discipline to develpp one's character, life, will give it to him.

There is no such thing, as GOVERNMENTAL SECURITY, or, any other HUMAN SECURITY. This idea, is an illusion; and the sooner people are educated to the TRUTH, the sooner will they get the TRUE PERSPECTIVE, and UNDERSTANDING of LIFE.

IGNORANCE, GREED, and IMMORALITY has been on the war path, much too long already. And, the result has been a state of confusion amongst some of the people, and, some of the leaders, in the world today.

Our government, is partly to blame for some of the things which are happening today. Our government, has set a VERY SHAMEFUL EXAMPLE to the people, and, to the rest of the world, with it's corruption, greed, immorality, and untruthful PROPAGANDA, and, exploitation. Shameful, as it is to hear, and read about.

No wonder, righteous indignation, is being aroused all over the nation, by the thinking people today And, it is time that something constructive be done about it, to, correct this shameful condition. It is time to get serious about this.

This country has been successful, because of the CHRISTIAN PRINCIPLES, AND, SELF-INITIATIVENESS, and Thrift. And, this Anti-Christ, movement will be defeated.

GOD, IS THE ONLY POWER THERE IS. Let me repeat, God power, is the only POWER THERE IS.

To substantiate this, the true facts are in the bible.

Communism, Stahlin, or, anyone else, has no power, unless, God allows it. There, is no such thing as HUMAN POWER. Jesus told us this, when he said," I, BY MYSELF CAN DO NOTHING, IT IS THE FATHER WITHIN ME, HE DOETH THE WORK". And, Jesus, knew the Truth, spoke it, and demonstrated it.

Man must adhere to God's universal laws. The law hath dominion over man, as long as he lives. To violate these laws, one suffers the consequences.

It is time, that this government return to a state of complete INTEGRITY, and, thereby REFLECT and RADIATE a state of complete morality, and, soundness, purity, honesty, and uprightness. It is time to be serious about this, and, with it help to raise the consciousness of mankind.

God, help us to see this change soon, and, with it, a removing of all personalities, who, are guilty of contributing to the disintegrating of integrity, in our government.

God help us, to preserve the principles of this country, and, help us to sustain it's security, and our integrity.

Yours very truly,

(b)(7)(C) [redacted] Lt.

Good morning, Revolution;
You're the very best friend
I ever had
We gonna pal around together from now on.

Say listen Revolution;
You know, the boss where I used to work,
The guy that gimme the air to cut down expenses,
He wrote a long letter to the papers about you;
Said you was a trouble-maker, a alien-enemy,
In other words a son-of-a-bitch.
He called up the police,
And told 'em to watch out for a guy
Named Revolution.

You see, the boss,
The boss knows you're my friend,
He sees us hangin' out together.
He knows we're hungry, and ragged,
And ain't got a damn thing in this world--
And are gonna do something about it.

The boss's got all he needs, certainly,
Eats well,
Owns a lotta houses,
Goes vacationin',
Breaks strikes,
Runs politics, bribes, police,
Pays off congress,
And struts all over the earth--
But me, I ain't never had enuf to eat,
Me, I ain't never been warm in winter,
Me, I ain't never known security--
All my life, been livin' hand to mouth,
Hand to mouth.

Listen, Revolution,
We're buddies, see---
Together,
We can take everything;
Factories, arsenals, houses, ships,
Railroads, forests, fields, orchards,
Bus lines, telegraphs, radios,
(Jesus! Raise hell with radios!
Steel mills, coal mines, oil wells, gas
All the tools of production,
(Great day in the morning')
Everything--
And turn 'em over to the people who work.
Rule and run 'em for us people who work.

Boy! Them radios--
Broadcasting that very first morning to USSR:
"Another member of the International Soviet's done come

100-151-9-65

Greetings to the Socialist Soviet Republics
Hey you rising workers everywhere greetings"
And we'll sign it: Germany
Sign it: China
Sign it: Africa
Sign it: Poland
Sign it: Italy
Sign it: America
Sign it with my own name: Worker
On that day no one will be hungry, cold, oppressed,
Anywhere in the world again.

That's our job!

I been starvin' too long,
Ain't you?

Let's go, Revolution!

FISK UNIVERSITY

Nashville 8, Tennessee

[redacted] (b)(7)(C)

18 November 1962

[redacted] (b)(7)(C)

Nashville 3, Tennessee

Dear [redacted] (b)(7)(C)

As one who has been friendly to Fisk and entertained some confidence in its seriousness and integrity as an educational institution, I hope you have not been too greatly agitated by the quite extraordinary demonstration of the American Legion over a Negro poet, Langston Hughes, who appeared on one of our International Student Center programs.

There have come to my attention, all too often indirectly, so many disturbed inquiries about a program that had been scheduled in the routine of the Center's weekly programs, I feel that you should have a note about it. Except for the sudden and tempestuous protests of the Legion against Mr. Hughes, I doubt if there would have been more than a baker's dozen of students attending the poetry reading on November 3rd, when they were preparing for mid-term examinations. For the past twenty years or more he has been making a tour of colleges interested in Negro poetry readings, and he has been here at least a dozen times, depending on his annual itinerary.

As a poet, Langston Hughes is great, or average, or mediocre, according to one's literary and aesthetic tastes. Over the past quarter century, he has written poetry, short stories, plays, a partial autobiography and a number of children's books -- all together, about 20 books. He also writes a somewhat humorous column in one of the Negro weekly newspapers. His poetry is, in my judgment, uneven in its literary quality, and some of it has been scarcely above the level of simple narration. But that has been his living, and he has written more good than bad poetry.

The attacks on Langston Hughes that have come to my attention have centered about an ungainly attempt at irony in a poem, written some twenty or more years ago, which was, in my opinion, and that of many of his friends, irreligious. He has not thought enough of it himself to include it in any one of the several anthologies of his poetry, and, so far as I can judge, has been as ashamed of it as were his friends.

I doubt if there is a student in our entire enrollment who ever heard of this poem before it was published in the Record and given exaggerated prominence in the protests of the Legion. Certainly he has never read it or anything like it in any of his poetry reading here. He has felt deep racial hurts in the past, as have many Negroes, and this has been reflected in some of his writing. But curiously enough on this occasion he was actually saying that the reports in the North about the hard life of Negroes in the South are greatly exaggerated out of ignorance of the life and progress of the South.

We are not naive on the national concern about Communists and subversives. We have demonstrated that we have no tolerance for any such activity or philosophy, however it might be disguised. I have known Langston Hughes since he was a youth just out of high school, who won a national prize with a poem called "The Weary Blues." So far as the knowledge of any of us extends he has never been involved in any of the Communist rackets. Since the attacks I have deliberately sought to learn if there is any such unfavorable record in the files of the official agencies charged with making such identifications. I have not yet found any such.

We invited representatives of the American Legion to attend the poetry reading and three came. They were: Mr. Lee Sanders, Rev. Pickens Johnson and Commander Clarke. From their comments afterwards there was nothing that they could object to in the poems and informal commentaries about various kinds of Negroes, from folk people to frustrated Harlem slum dwellers; from wasted lives to seekers after beauty.

He read his poetry here last year and the year before, and from time to time back as far as 1932, and nobody has been especially concerned -- not even our students. We are brought suddenly to attention by public protests over one radio station, and in the columns of the newspaper, the Record. (Neither the Tennessean nor the Banner gave any such dangerous and menacing emphasis). Committees of the Legion waited on the F.B.I., the Police Chief, the Mayor, the local Trustees of the University, and many of the substantial citizens of the city.

I presume that those who knew the University, its educational program and its integrity, paid little attention. Those who did not know it were simply guided by their best lights.

A quite serious question is posed, however, that is unimportant so long as the powerful intimidations are directed at a small institution that must rely upon the basic virtues of a sturdy even though remote citizenry to defend American and Christian principles commonly accepted. But it is a danger that can grow and encompass larger and more important sectors of our citizenry.

This is not intended as a defense of a person or of a literary style. It is, frankly, a statement of a quandry. For, even though we normally exercise care in selecting our speakers for various occasions, it begins to get confusing and embarrassing when, with no real issue of national security being involved, local pressure groups intervene to determine who should not appear on our school programs.

I thought you would be interested in our situation and our thinking on this matter.

Sincerely yours,

[redacted] (b)(7)(C)

[redacted] (b)(7)(C)

A NOTE ON THE POEM "GOODBYE, CHRIST"

On the surface Langston Hughes' poem seems grossly irreverent and atheistic. Hughes says of this poem, in an article, "My Adventures as a Social Poet," in Phylon Magazine published by Atlanta University (3rd Quarter, 1947):

"This poem was one of my least successful efforts at poetic communication, in that many persons have misinterpreted it as an anti-Christian poem. I intended it to be just the opposite. Satirical, even ironic, in style, I meant it to be a poem against those whom I felt were misusing religion for worldly or profitable purposes. In the poem I mentioned Aimee Semple McPherson. This apparently made her angry. From her Angelus Temple pulpit she preached against me saying, 'There are many devils among us, but the most dangerous of all is the red devil. And now here comes among us a red devil in a black skin'."

"She gathered her followers together and sent them to swoop down upon me one afternoon at an unsuspecting and innocent literary luncheon in Pasadena's Vista del Arroyo Hotel. Robert Nathan, I believe, was one of the speakers, along with a number of other authors. I was to have five minutes on the program to read a few poems from my latest collection of folk verses, 'Shakespeare in Harlem,' hardly a radical book."

"When I arrived at the hotel by car from Los Angeles, I noticed quite a crowd in the streets where the traffic seemed to be tangled. So I got out some distance from the front of the hotel and walked through the grounds to the entrance, requesting my car to return at three o'clock. When I asked in the lobby for the location of the luncheon, I was told to wait until the desk clerk sent for the chairman, George Palmer Putnam. Mr. Putnam arrived with the manager, both visibly excited. They informed me that the followers of Aimee McPherson were vehemently picketing the hotel because of my appearance there. The manager added with an aggrieved look that he could not have such a commotion in front of his hotel. Either I would have to go or he would cancel the entire luncheon."

"Mr. Putnam put it up to me. I said that rather than inconvenience several hundred guests and a half dozen authors, I would withdraw -- except that I did not know where my car had gone, so would someone be kind enough to drive me to the station. Just then a doorman came in to inform the manager that traffic was completely blocked in frontof the hotel. Frantically the manager rushed out. About that time a group of Foursquare Gospel members poured into the lobby in uniforms and armbands and surrounded me and George Palmer Putnam, demanding to know if we were Christians. Before I could say anything, Mr. Putnam lit into them angrily, saying it was none of their business and stating that under our Constitution a man could have any religion he chose, as well as freedom to express himself."

"Just then an old gentleman about seventy-two who was one of the organizers of the literary luncheon came up, saying he had been asked to drive me to the station, and get me out of there so they could start the luncheon. Shaking hands with Mr. Putnam, I accompanied the old gentleman to the street. There Aimee's sound truck had been backed across the roadway blocking all passage so that limousines, trucks, and taxis were tangled up in all directions. The sound truck was playing 'God Bless America' while hundreds of pickets milled about with signs denouncing Langston Hughes -- atheistic Red. Rich old ladies on the arms of their chauffeurs were trying to get through the crowd to the luncheon. Reporters were dashing about."

"None of the people recognized me, but in the excitement the old gentleman could not find his car. Finally he hailed a taxi and nervously thrust a dollar into the driver's hand with the request that I be driven to the station. He asked to be excused himself in order to get back to the luncheon. Just as I reached out the door to shake hands in farewell, three large white ladies with banners rushed up to the cab. One of them screamed, 'We don't shake hands with niggers where we come from'."

"The thought came over me that the picketing might turn into a race riot, in which case I did not wish to be caught in a cab in a traffic jam alone. I did not turn loose the old gentleman's hand. Instead of shaking it in farewell, I simply pulled him into the taxi with me, saying 'I thought you were going to the station, too.'"

"As the pickets snarled outside, I slammed the door. The driver started off, but we were caught in the traffic blocked by the sound truck lustily playing 'God Bless America.' The old gentleman trembled beside me, until finally we got clear of the mob. As we backed down a side street and turned to head for the station, the sirens of approaching police cars were heard in the distance."

"Later I learned from the afternoon papers that the whole demonstration had been organized by Aimee McPherson's publicity man, and that when the police arrived he had been arrested for refusing to give up the keys to the sound truck stalled midway the street to block the traffic. This simply proved the point I had tried to make in the poem -- that the church might as well bid Christ goodbye if his gospel were left in the hands of such people."

"Four years later I was to be picketed again in Detroit by Gerald L. K. Smith's Mothers of America -- for ever since the Foursquare Gospel demonstration in California, reactionary groups have copies, used and distributed this poem. Always they have been groups like Smith's, never known to help the fight for democratic Negro rights in America, but rather to use their energies to foment riots such as that before Detroit's Sojourner Truth housing project where the Klan-minded tried to prevent colored citizens from occupying government homes built for them."

"I have had one threatening communication signed A Klansman. And many scurrilous anonymous anti-Negro letters from persons whose writing did not always indicate illiteracy. On a few occasions, reactionary elements have forced liberal sponsors to cancel their plans to present me in a reading of my poems."

"I recall that in Gary, Indiana, some years ago the colored teachers were threatened with loss of their jobs if I accepted their invitation to appear at one of the public schools. In another city a white high school principal, made apprehensive by a small group of reactionary parents, told me that he communicated with the F.B.I. at Washington to find out if I were a member of the Communist Party. Assured that I was not, with the approval of his school board, he presented me to his student body. To further fortify his respectability, that morning at assembly, he had invited all of the Negro ministers and civic leaders of the town to sit on the stage in a semi-circle behind me. To the students it must have looked like a kind of modern minstrel show as it was the first time any Negroes at all had been invited to their assembly."

"So goes the life of a social poet."

SPEAK IN NASHVILLE

Direct Copy fr[illegible] Nashville Record, November 3, [illegible]

Langston Hughes, listed by the House Un-American activities committee, the California Senate Investigation committee, and National Republic, as belonging to numerous Communist front organizations, is scheduled to speak at the Fisk University International Student Center, at 8 p.m. Monday.

Hughes wrote the following poem, on the strength of which he was refused by the people of San Antonio, Texas, the privilege of speaking in that city. The Nashville Record presents this copy. The rest is up to the city of Nashville.

"Goodbye Christ"
By Langston Hughes

"Listen Christ
You did alright in your day, I reckon
But that day is gone now.
They ghosted you up a swell story, too.
Called it the Bible-
But it's dead now.
The popes and the preachers 've
Made too much money from it
They've sold you to too many.

"Kings, generals, robbers and killers-
Even to the Czar and cossacks,
Even to the Rockefeller's Church,
Even to the Saturday Evening Post.
You ain't no good no more.
They've pawned you
Till you've done wore out.

"Goodbye
Christ Jesus, Lord God Jehova,
Beat it on away from here
Make way for a new guy with no religion at all-
A real guy named
Marx Communist Lenin Peasant Stalin
Worker me.

"I said Me!
Go ahead on now
Your getting in the way of things, Lord.
And please take Mr. Chandi with you
When you go
And St. Pope Pius
And St. Aimee McPherson
And Big, Black St. Pecton
Of the Consecrated Dime
And step on the gas Christ!
Move!
Don't be so slow about movin!
The world is mine from now on
And nobody's gonna sell ME
To a king, or a general

Here also is a poem by Langston Hughes which did not appear in the above issue of the Record.

CHRIST IN ALABAMA

Christ is a nigger
Beaten and black
O bare your back.

Mary is his mother
Mamy of the South
Silence your mouth.

God's his father
White master above
Grant us your love.

Most holy bastard of the bleeding mouth.
Nigger Christ on the cross of the South.

(RESOLUTIONS FOR YOUR CONSIDERATION)

Whereas, Langston Hughes is reportedly listed by the House un-American Activities Committee, the California Senate Investigating committee, and National Republic as belonging to numerous Communist front organizations, and

Whereas, he was scheduled to speak at the International Student Center of Fisk University on Monday evening, November 3, at eight o'clock, and

Whereas, it is reported that he has been there on numerous other occasions, and

Whereas, he is a highly controversial character, and

Whereas, his communistic position is widely-known, the enclosed poems by him being evidence of such, and

Whereas, he is regarded by many as a dangerous radical, and

Whereas, we have a genuine interest in preserving the American way of life,

Be it therefore resolved that we express our sincere regrets over the fact that Langston Hughes has been given a place on any program at Fisk University, an institution which has rendered, and may yet render, an invaluable service in educating and training Negro leadership.

Be it further resolved that we express grave concern over the dangers involved in poisoning the minds of the young people of the Negro race with un-Christian and un-American teachings.

Be it further resolved that we voice our opposition to his ever being included on any program at Fisk University, or in the City of Nashville, and

Be it further resolved that we petition the trustees of Fisk University and the Administrative staff to thoroughly investigate the character, beliefs, and teachings of Langston Hughes in order that steps may be taken to prevent his return to Fisk University and to Nashville.

TO : Director, FBI

DATE: 3/12/53

FROM : SAC, Memphis (100-0)

SUBJECT: LANGSTON HUGHES
S.M. - C.

G I R-8

During the first week in November, 1952, the subject was a guest speaker at the International Student Center at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn. In view of newspaper publicity in the Nashville Record, the weekly legal type newspaper published in Nashville, Tennessee, and also in view of publicity given to the talk in a radio program featuring Reverend FRED STROUD of the Bible Presbyterian Church, Nashville, Tenn., which publicity indicated that HUGHES was a Communist inasmuch as he had written the poem entitled, "Goodbye Christ" and another poem entitled "Christ in Alabama," considerable reaction resulted in Nashville, Tenn. As a result, several persons called upon the president of Fisk University to have him stop the talk by HUGHES and some of the people called upon the Memphis Division and also the Nashville Police Department requesting that the speech not be allowed. No action, of course, was taken by the Memphis Division. All information furnished by the people who were complaining has been made a record of in the Memphis Division.

On 3/2/53 [redacted] an attorney, Nashville, Tenn., who has a personal interest in fighting Communism, made available to an agent of the Memphis Division, the copy of a letter addressed to [redacted] Also, a copy of a document entitled "A Note on the Poem 'Goodbye Christ'" which apparently was furnished to [redacted] as an enclosure with the letter by [redacted] He also made available a copy of resolutions which were made by the Inglewood Baptist Church concerning the poem by LANGSTON HUGHES at Fisk University and a typewritten copy of an article which appeared in the Nashville Record on 11/3/52 which set forth the poems, "Goodbye Christ" and "Christ in Alabama." These copies are being made available to the Bureau as enclosures with this letter inasmuch as LANGSTON HUGHES is not a resident of the Memphis Division, no further investigation is being conducted by this division and the information is being forwarded to the Bureau for whatever action is desired by the Bureau.

Your attention is called to the statement made by [redacted] in his letter to [redacted] in which he advised that HUGHES had not thought enough of the poem to include it in any of the several anthologies of his poetry and that so far as [redacted] could judge, HUGHES has been ashamed of it as were his friends. Also, the statement made by [redacted] (b)(7)(C) (b)(7)(C) [redacted] that so far as the knowledge of any of the members of the Fisk faculty extends they have no knowledge of any Communist activity on the part of HUGHES. If these statements are true, a possibility exists that HUGHES may be considered as a potential security informant if he has ever been involved in any Communist activities which information is not available to the Memphis Division. No further action is being taken in this matter unless advised to the contrary by the Bureau.

My dear Mr. Hoover: (Y)

On June 18 our daughter graduated from 8th grade.

The children presented a wonderful program concerning "Our Heritage."

Several days ago while discussing this with a friend, the subject of the program was brought up, namely a poem:

"We have tomorrow
Bright before us
Like a flame
Yesterday, a night-gone thing
A sun-down name
And dawn today
Broad arch above the road we came,
We march" — Langston Hughes.

I was told this was written by a Negro Communist. Can you tell me if this is true?

I believe it has since been brought to the attention of our Superintendent of Schools who expressed as much amazement as I.

Please let me know as my husband and I are very much interested in the welfare of our country and the future if it depends on our children's education which is a mess.

Dear [redacted] b(7)(C)

I sincerely appreciate the interest which prompted your letter of July 8, 1954; however, it is not possible for me to answer your specific inquiry since data in FBI files are confidential and available for official use only. I know you will not infer from my inability to be of assistance either that we do or that we do not have any information concerning the individual you mentioned.

It is a pleasure to enclose some material on the subject of Communism which I hope you will find of interest.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, The Girl Scout Leader, an official publication of the Girl Scouts of the United States of America, in its issue of February, 1953, recommended a book by Langston Hughes entitled "The First Book of Negroes," for the use of officials and leaders in the Girl Scout movement, and

WHEREAS, the aforementioned publication described said Langston Hughes as a "distinguished man of letters," and

WHEREAS, Langston Hughes has been cited many times by the California Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities and the House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities as having been associated with known Communists and affiliated with numerous Communist front organizations for many years, and

WHEREAS, certain writings by Langston Hughes are openly pro-Communist, anti-religious, and highly offensive, among which are "Goodby Christ" and "Another Country", in the U. S. A., full copies of which are attached as Exhibits "A" and "B", and

WHEREAS, The recommendation of any author with the abovementioned background or of his material, to any organization having young people in its ranks or under its supervision is highly dangerous to proper training of young people for their duties in a democratic society;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Santa Ana Post No. 131, Department of California, the American Legion go on record as opposing the use of any material written by Langston Hughes or of any author having a similar background in any organization having young people in its ranks or under its supervision, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Adjutant of the Santa Ana Post No. 131, Department of California, American Legion send copies of this resolution to the proper officials of the Girl Scouts of the U. S. A.

Adopted by Santa Ana Post No. 131, Department of California, at regular meeting duly assembled this 28th day of May, 1953.

CANCELLED AUG 29 1955

TO : Director, FBI (100-15139) DATE: 8/17/55

FROM : SAC, NY (100-25776)

SUBJECT: JAMES LANGSTON HUGHES, wa.
SM-C

Reference: SAC letter 55-30, 4/12/55.

SUCCINCT RESUME OF CASE:

(6)(7)(D) On 11/27/43 [redacted] advised that the subject was among the first Negro intellectuals that joined the CP, and that he (HUGHES) had never been known generally, not even in the Party circle, as a member of the Party. The informant continued that being an outstanding Negro poet, HUGHES' name in united front movements carried prestige and weight. The Party exploited this to the utmost in the Scottsboro Case, the American League against War and Fascism, National Negro Congress and other united front movements, and according to the informant subject's name was used with considerable success, to draw other Negro intellectuals and professionals into these movements.

(6)(7)(D) [redacted] advised in 1944 that the subject had spoken for years to various CP gatherings, and was used more as a front, generally contacted through the IWO. The informant also advised that the subject was sent to Spain during the Civil War period, directly from Party Channels, and was considered one of their best emissaries.

(6)(7)(D) [redacted] American Legion, Indianapolis, Indiana, advised in 1940 that subject was a radical, although probably not a member of the Communist Party; was a contributor to "New Masses" in 1933; supported the National Committee to Aid Victims of German Fascism in 1934; that he was a member of the School Advisory Committee of the San Francisco Workers School in 1934; that he spent the summer of 1933 in the U.S.S.R.; that he was a member of the National Committee American League Against War and Fascism in 1934.

(6)(7)(D) [redacted] advised in 1940 that the subject came to Los Angeles on certain occasions and also to Carmel, California, where he associated with the so called "intellectual group" of the CP and that he has long been considered a Communist and identified with the Communist movement.

In the Daily Worker of April 2, 1934, the subject wrote a poem entitled "One More S In The U.S.A.", for the occasion of the Eighth Convention of the CP USA.

In the Daily Worker of September 1, 1943, it was reported that the subject was present and was a member of the Committee for the purpose of a nation-wide collection of books to restore the libraries of the Soviet Union, under the auspices of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship.

The Daily Worker of 2/11/47, lists HUGHES as a contributor to "Mainstream".

(6)(7)(D) [redacted] advised in 1948 that as a [redacted] (6)(7)(D) recalled that LANGSTON HUGHES was suggested as a candidate on the Party Election ticket in 1936 and again in 1938. The informant continued that on both occasions the National Committee of the CP vetoed the idea, claiming that HUGHES was more valuable to the Party interests in his capacity as a writer and lecturer. The informant added that he had no doubt as to the subjects membership in the CP.

LOUIS F. BUDENZ, formerly managing editor of the Daily Worker, and a CP functionary until 1945 advised in 1950 concerning the subject, as follows: shortly after entering the Party, in the late 1930's he was advised officially through JAMES W. FORD, (former U.S.Vice Presidential Candidate on CP ticket) and through meetings of the Politburo that LANGSTON HUGHES was a member of the CP. This, according to BUDENZ was reinforced by HUGHES being played up in the Daily Worker through references to his works and interviews and the like. BUDENZ stated that all through the 1940's when he was managing editor of the Daily Worker, repeated reports officially given to him were to the effect that HUGHES continued to be a loyal adherent of the CP up to 1945.

An article in the Daily Worker of October 26, 1950 reflects that LANGSTON HUGHES was "the second honorary Co-Chairman of the Citizens Non-Partisan Committee to Elect Dr. DU BOIS." (DU BOIS was ALP candidate in 1950 for US Senator from NY and [redacted] advised that DUBOIS was a member of the CP.) (6)(7)(D)

Letterheads of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship Inc., dated 11/10/48 and 7/6/49 reflect the subject to be a sponsor of that organization.

LANGSTON HUGHES is listed in the HCUA pamphlet entitled "Review of the Scientifiçe Cultural Conference for a World Peace" issued 4/19/49, as one of the sponsors of the conference and who has been affiliated with from 71 to 80 Communist Front organizations.

[redacted] (6)(7)(D) advised on 4/5/51 that HUGHES is a negro poet who is looked upon as a Party member and negro leader. The informant stated

he had not seen HUGHES' party card. (6)(7)(D)

On 6/14/[redacted] in a voluntary signed statement concerning his activities in the U.S., advised the following concerning the subject: "During 1936 I met LANGSTON HUGHES at a literary meeting of the Communist Party. I was told at that time that he was a sympathizer with our cause and was a member of the Literary Union but was not a Party member."

The subject appeared before the McCARTHY Committee on 3/26/53, and stated that there was a period during his life when he believed in the Soviet form of government, beginning roughly with the Scottsboro Case (circa 1930) and lasting for some ten or twelve years. HUGHES attempted to qualify his position by stating that his disillusionment commenced at the time of the Nazis-Soviet Pact but that he continued to sympathize with certain phases of Soviet Ideology for some time after that. HUGHES continued that his re-orientation was completed some four or five years prior to his appearance before instant committee and certainly by 1950. HUGHES stated that during the time of his belief in the Soviet form of government his writings reflected his feelings.

In response to Senator Mc CARTHY's statement that as of the time of the hearing, he (HUGHES) was not a CP member nor a sympathizer, HUGHES stated that was correct.

The subject was interviewed by agents of the N. Y. Office on 12/10/53 in regard to his knowledge and availability to testify concerning the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and its forerunner, the Friends of the Soviet Union. HUGHES told the interviewing agents that he was suprised that he was being approached concerning this organization, inasmuch as he knew nothing about it and could offer no information concerning it. HUGHES stated that like many other organizations of the "left wing catagory" of which he had been a member or sponsor in the past years, his relationships with these organizations were merely paper relationships and he had no knowledge of their inner workings or any connection they might have had with the CP. In response to whether or not he was a member of the CP, the subject stated he had never been a member of the CP, although he would admit having cooperated with the left wing element in this country down through the years. HUGHES also denied that he had ever been suggested as a candidate on the CP ticket in 1936 or 1938, or that he ever attended any CP meetings for any purpose and that if he had, he was unaware of the fact that they were party meetings.

[redacted] (b)(1)

RECOMMENDATION:

Delete from SI. In spite of subject's Communist activities, he does not come under criteria set out in referenced letter under section B.

DETCOM TABBING:

1. Subject is not presently tabbed for Detcom.

ONE MORE 'S' IN THE U. S. A.

EDITOR'S NOTE -- In printing the song below, written by the great American poet, Comrade Langston Hughes, who has just returned from a long stay in the Soviet Union, we at the same time issue a call to our readers such as are able, to compose the music for it. As Langston Hughes writes, "it should be set to a lively march tune, with syncopated beat, in the American manner". The Western Worker will publish the music that in the judgement of a capable group of Proletarian artists, is found most suitable. So, lets have some Socialist competition.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

BOYHOOD

"James" Langston Hughes was born February 1, 1902 in Joplin, Missou: His parents separated when Langston was a little boy. He lived with hi maternal grandmother during grade school. Her black hair was credited to a Cherokee ancestor. She graduated from Oberlin College. Her philos of freedom and equality was quickly absorbed by the growing boy.

TEEN AGE

At the age of 14, he started life anew with his Mother in Cleveland. Here he made a name for himself at Central High School. He was a schol ship student and a member of its track team. He heard Eugene Debs and celebrated the Advent of the Russian Revolution. He graduated in 1920. His poetry led to his election as Class Poet, and Editor of its Year Bo

INSECURITY

He was sensitive to his Mother's struggle to make a living. She cou not send Langston to College. This made him feel insecure. This pessim was reflected in his writings throughout later years. His attitude mad him easy prey for all agitational-propaganda along racial and economic lines. He was not sure that the Bolsheviks were too far wrong.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

His father was busy making money in Mexico and persuaded him to go there for work in return for a promise of an opportunity to go to Coll He taught English for a year in Mexico and earned his way to Columbia, the University of his choice. He entered Columbia and made such a miserable record and his results were so unsatisfactory, he soon quit.

SEAFARER

He had a break with his father and faced the reality of hard work. For a time he found odd jobs in New York, but they did not satisfy. Only the sea could synchronize with such a restless spirit. He spent a couple of sea-faring years on the Atlantic to Europe and along the African Coast. After a year in France, he wormed thru Spain and Italy.

"BLUES" WRITER

Upon his return, he worked as a bus boy in Washington hotels, but n stopped writing poetry. These poems started to appear in Negro Journal He won prizes for articles in the Opportunity Magazine and The Crisis, which is the official organ of The National Association For the Advancement of Colored People. He wrote for the March, April and July 1925 issues of The Communist Party's official "Worker's Monthly".

AWARD WINNER

His first book, "The Weary Blues" appeared in 1926. He entered Linc University on a scholarship. He won the Witter-Bynner undergraduate poetry contest. He graduated in 1929. In 1930, he won the $400 Harmon Gold Award for Literature with his novel, "Not Without Laughter". His situations make them ridiculously funny.

"RED SYMPATHIZER"

His versatility and broad experience as a writer, actor and lecture made him a most valuable asset to the dissemination of agitationn propaganda. The theme of class and racial discrimination is the most prolific source of Communist conquests. They want revolution instead of Social Evolution. He was a "natural" for their objective. He was in Russia during 1932 and 1933.

"JUST AS THE TWIG IS BENT THE TREE'S INCLINED"

SEN. HAWKES' SPEECH ON LANGSTON HUGHES IN THE SENATE

"We are failing to teach our youth and grown-ups to a large extent the things which are of great importance to our Country. The Communists are running rampant throughout our Nation, holding meetings in all our larger cities, night after night, for the purpose of undermining our form of Government and our way of life.

We are appropriating billions of dollars to stop the advance of Communism all over the world, while at the same time we are overlooking a most important right and duty to fight it in the United States, namely to instill in our youth a greater understanding of our Constitution and its guarantees.

I desire to give an illustration of the Freedom, which we in this Country allow Communists and their Fellow-Travelers, I refer to Langston Hughes. His name will be found in Congressional Reports by the Un-American Activities Committee. I shall read a few things to show you what is going on in the United States.

I want to record here the fact that I went to a Church-- not my own to be sure, but another --, in my own home town of Montclair (N.J.), I was amazed to see a Communist stand up in the Pulpit and to hear him, without ever a reference to the life of Christ or to the fact that we have a Bible, berate the United States, tear it down for 55 minutes and eulogize Russia.

I shall read two poems ('Goodbye Christ' and 'Put One More 'S' In The U.S.A.') written by the Communist of whom I speak, Langston Hughes, who is reported to have gone to Russia and taken two years training in Communism, following which he returned to this Country, where he is preaching in the Pulpits, talking to the Students in our High Schools, and speaking to College groups at high rates of pay for any speaker.

Unless he was stopped, he made a speech at a great College in California last night, March 31, (1948), undoubtedly berating the American Way and preaching the same doctrine of destruction of our System that I heard him preach when he was in Montclair." (Unquote)

COMMUNIST PARTY'S 1937 YEARBOOK; Contributor, see Article entitled, "Ohio Marches Toward Peace and Progress".

COMMUNIST PARTY'S "WORKER'S SONG"; Author, He wrote it for the Eighth Convention of the Communist Party of the United States. It was entitled, "Put One More "S" In the U.S.A.", and was published by the New York Sunday Mirror on October 8, 1944 on pg.22.

PUT ONE MORE "S" IN THE U.S.A.

Put one more "S" in the U.S.A.
To make it Soviet.
One more "S" in the U.S.A.
Oh, we'll live to see it yet
When the land belongs to the farmers
And factories belong to workingmen
The U.S.A. when we take control
Will be the U.S.S.A. then.

Now across the water in Russia
They have a big U.S.S.R.
The fatherland of the Soviets,
But that is mighty far
From New York, Texas or California, too
So listen fellow workers,
This is what we have to do,
Put one more "S" in the U.S.A.

But we cannot win just by talking
So let us take things in our han
Then down and 'way with the bosses
Hail Communist land!
So stand up in battle,
And wave our flag on high
And shout fellow workers,
Our slogan to the sky.

But we can't join hands strong tog
So long as whites are lynching B
So Black and White in one union fi
And get on the right track.
By Texas, or Georgia, or Alabama
Come together, fellow workers,
Black and White can all be red.
---- L. Hughes.

"A Sunday, Jan. 6, 1953 meeting held in New York City is typical of similar ones conducted every month across the country. (This group) presented citations to Negro Men who have fought for Democracy and Peace -- Noble Objectives in anybody's book".

"Just in case the High Purpose should fail to entice prospective victims, a galaxy of stars in Clerical Garb were prominently displayed. A Minister delivered the invocation and was Chairman of the Citation Committee.

All this, however, was only 'cover' for the Principle Objective of the meeting! To Build and Promote the Prestige and Standing of Top Communist Party Bosses. The chief address was delivered by an Editor of the Official Communist Party Publication, "Masses and Mainstream".

Paul Robeson, also spoke, and was given a citation; poems by Langston Hughes were read; one citation was presented in absentia to Henry Winston, who was convicted in the first trial of Communist Party 'Politburo' Members, but who fled after sentencing, and is now a fugitive of justice.

Apparently the Clergymen saw nothing odd in sharing honors with convicted criminals at large." From Philbricks "The Communists Are After Your Church" in the Christian Herald.

"GOODBYE CHRIST"

[illegible], Christ.
You did alright in your day, I reckon-
But that day's gone now.
They ghosted you up a swell story, too,
Called it Bible-
The Popes and the Preachers 've
Made too much money from it.
Even to the Tzar and the Cossacks.
Even to Rockefeller's church,
Even to the Saturday Evening Post,
You ain't no good no more;
They've pawned you
Till you've done wore out.
Goodbye,
Christ Jesus, Lord, God Jehovah,
Beat it on away from here now.
Make way for a new guy with no religion at all-
A real guy named
Marx communist, Lenin peasant, Stalin worker, me-
I said ME!
Go ahead on now,
You're getting in the way of things; Lord,
And please take Saint Ghandi with you when you go
Not Saint Pope Pius
Nor Saint Aimee McPherson,
Nor big black Saint Becton of the Consecrated Dime;
And step on the gas, Christ!
Move!
Don't be so slow 'bout movin'!
The world is mine from now on-
And nobody's gonna sell me
To a King, or a General,
Or a millionaire.
Goodbye Christ, good morning Revolution!

(This is the poem which is usually referred to, whenever the name of L.Hughes is mentionad in official reports.)

"BS SPITTOONS"

Clean the spittoons, boy, Detroit, Chicago, Atlantic City,
Palm Beach,
Clean the spittoons.
The steam in the kitchens,
And the smoke in hotel lobbies,
And the slime in hotel spittoons.

Part of my life.
Hey, Boy! A nickel, a dime, a dol
Two dollars a day.
Hey, Boy! A nickel, a dime, a dol
Two dollars,
Buy shoes for the Baby
House rent to pay.
Church on Sunday,
My God!

Babies and Church
And women and Sunday
All mixed up with dimes and
Dollars and clean spittoons
And house rent to pay.
Hey, Boy!

A bright bowl of brass is beautif-
To the Lord.
Bright polished brass like cymbals
Of King David's dancers,
Like the wine cups of Solomon.
Hey, Boy!

A clean spittoon on the altar of the Lord
A clean bright spittoon all newly polished-
At least I can offer that,
Com 'mere, Boy!

(This poem by Langston Hughes is from pg.593, Modern Am. Poetry, w was compiled by Louis Untermeyer.)

REPULSIVE

JAZZ BAND IN A PARISIAN CABARET

Play that thing, Jazz Band!
Play it for the Lords and Ladies,
For the Dukes and Counts,
For the whores and gigolos,
For the American Millionaires,
And the School Teachers
Out for a spree.
Play it, Jazz Band!
You know that tune
It laughs and cries the sametime
You know it, May I?
Mais oui. Mein Gott!
Parece una Rumba.

SATURDAY NIGHT

Play it once.
O, play it some more.
Charlie is a gambler
An' Sadie is a whore
A glass of whiskey
An a glass of gin.
Strut Mr. Charlie,
Till de dawn comes in.

Pawn yo' old gold watch
An' diamond ring.
Get a quart of licker,
Let's share dat thing!

Skee-de-dad! De-dad!
Doo-doo-doo
Won't be nothin' l
When de worms get
And you's a long t
When you is dead,

So beat that drum
Shout dat song;
Shake em up and s
All night long.
Hey! Hey! Ho---H

Many Americans sincerely appreciate having a man like you in the forefront of our struggle against our mortal foe, while so many are compromising.

I am enclosing the first of a series of articles, that reveal the type of authors our immature youths depend on for knowledge.

I am sure that you are fully aware of this situation, but thought it might strengthen you to know that there is an occasional citizen at the grass roots level trying to uphold your hands.

LANGSTON JAMES HUGHES - Summary
Born: February 1, 1902
Joplin, Missouri

In response to your name check request, there is enclosed one copy each of three reports reflecting investigation conducted by this Bureau concerning the above-captioned individual.

In addition to the enclosed reports, you may desire to review the testimony of Langston Hughes given in public session before the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Government Operations (McCarthy Committee) on March 26, 1953.

On December 10, 1953, Langston Hughes was interviewed by representatives of this Bureau concerning his knowledge of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and its forerunner, The Friends of the Soviet Union. Hughes stated that like many other "left wing" organizations of which he had been a member or sponsor in the past, his relationship with these organizations was merely a paper one and he had no knowledge of their inner workings or any connection they might have had with the Communist Party.

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship has been designated by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

Hughes stated he had never been a member of the Communist Party, but admitted cooperating with the "left-wing" element in this country through the years. Hughes denied that he had ever been suggested as a candidate on the Communist Party ticket in 1936 or 1938, and stated that to his knowledge he never attended any Communist Party meetings. James Langston Hughes is the subject of a closed security investigation and was formerly a Security Index subject of the New York Office. He was removed from the Security Index in 1955. He is a Negro lecturer, author, poet and pseudointellectual who over the years had a long record of association with communists and communist front organizations. He reportedly was one of the first Negro intellectuals to join the Communist Party and it was not generally known, even inside the Communist Party, that he was a member. (100-15139)

Books about Africa

"MAYIBUYE, AFRIKA!" (COME BACK, AFRICA!) AN AFRICAN TREASURY. Edited by Langston Hughes. Crown. $3.50.

THE AFRICAN by William Conton. Little, Brown. $3.50.

By MIKE NEWBERRY

BLACK AFRICAN writers were unknown, unheard, and unheralded in our country a few years ago, though they were known throughout the world.

Headlines, that are read by those who do not read history, has changed all that. Now publishers are rushing into print almost every manuscript they can get, to satiate, if not satisfy, the public's interest and curiosity. This indiscriminate seeking for best sellers has led to much not too discriminating publishing. It is well to be wary of some of the "African" books that are offered.

If we are forewarned then that not all this interest in Africa is genuine, nor is all that glitters "the black truth", as one African poet has written, we can better judge the true from the false.

It is with pleasure, therefore, that I go from this sour comment to the two books at hand. Both are truthful and genuine and exciting. Those who have no acquaintance with African literature might do well to begin here, get acquainted, and see what they've missed.

LIFE AND DEATH

Edited in his inimitable way by Langston Hughes, "The African Treasury," is one of those rare books that is much too short. To do justice to the depth and breath of its subject it ought to be twice its length. It is a rich collection, yet to portray the literature of Africa in a thin volume of 203 pages is as ambitious as attempting to squeeze America's culture into such a format. You can't!

The vibrant and varied interests of Langston Hughes come to the rescue here. For this is one time that the personal imprint of the editor accentuates and lends sensitive understanding to the subject matter. He seems to have done the impossible.

From an "Advice to the Love-lorn" column in South Africa to "What Nkrumah Told the U.S. Senate" this anthology travels the byroads and highways of African folklore, political manifesto, essay, poetry, song and story. Some 46 works, by almost as many Black African writers, are included. And they range from the subtle, sophisticated delineation of the problem facing a modern African leader in a tribal society, "The Blacks" by Peter Abrahams, to the wise proverbs of the Ewe tribe, "Until you have crossed the river, don't insult the alligator's mouth".

In such a kaleidoscopic collection it is unfair to single out one writer over another writer. Yet, I would mention the prose power of a longshoreman of Simon's Town, South Africa, Peter Kumalo. His terse, striking drama of life and death, "Death in the Sun," is all the more astounding when placed side by side with his children's poem, "Play Song." In many ways Peter Kumalo reminds one of Jack London. Then too, there are the more familiar writers: Cyprian Ekwensi of Nigeria, Abioseh Nicol of Sierra Leone, Leopold Senghor of Senegal, who will soon enough become well-known and deservedly known . . .

One could argue, as one can always argue with an anthology, that "The African Treasury" suffers some sad omissions. Where, for instance, is the intricate, forceful work of Eza Boto, or Ferdinand Oyono's gusty realism? Where is the existentialism, African style, of Camara Laye? Where are the French African poets Bernard Dadie and Paul Niger and Guinea's Keita Fodeba?

But if they have to await another day, their absence does not detract from the main theme of "The African Treasury." That is the reaffirmation of pride in self, of national pride. Of "Negritude," as the Black African writers term it.

It is voiced by Francis Ernest Kobina Parkes of Ghana:

Give me black souls,
Let them be black.
Or chocolate brown
Or make them the Color of [illegible]
Dust lit.
Browner than sand.
But if you can
Please keep them black,
Black.

It is voiced too by the Ghanian novelist, William Conton, in his vastly interesting and topical novel, "The African".

The poor boy who rises "from the bush" to become the Prime Minister of the fictional West African state of "Songhai" is depicted as a sort of Horatio Alger, but his goal is not personal wealth. It is, says Conton, national identification and national liberation. And his achievement of it comes through dedication and sacrifice.

"What a deuce, do you think I am writing a Romance? Don't you see that I am copying Nature," Richardson, one of England's earliest novelists, once wrote. So too does Conton, as a pioneer of the modern Ghanian novel, seem to say.

His fiction is often non-fictional. Realistic, point blank, and almost coldly told, his story is drawn so closely from real life that many of his people are easily recognizable. And as the early English novelists his devices sometimes appear awkward and unpolished, and like them, they are full of life and vitality.

If the lament, often heard, that the Western novel is dying has cause for concern, here, in the work of writers such as William Conton it may be reborn, on the rich soil of Africa.

For "The African" and "The African Treasury" echo the slogan of rebirth, renewal, and new life of the Accra conference: "[illegible]". "Freely translated", says Langston Hughes, "that means 'Long Live Africa'! But the literal translation comes much closer: 'Come back Africa'!"

NOTE: The Teletype Unit advised that correspondent's telegram emanated from Santa Monica, California. His addresss could not be verified in that city's telephone directory. Based on limited information available, our files contain no information identifiable with him. Bufiles reflect that James Langston Hughes was the subject of a closed security investigation and was a Security Index subject of the New York Office until 1955. He is a lecturer, author and poet who has had a long record of affiliations with communist and communist-front organizations over the years. Reportedly, he was one of the first Negro intellectuals to join the Communist Party.

SUMMARY

You are referred to reports concerning James Langston Hughes dated February 19, 1951, and previous dates, copies of which were furnished to your agency on May 7, 1954. (100-15139-57)

You may also desire to review the testimony of Langston Hughes given in public session before the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Government Operations (McCarthy Committee) on March 26, 1953.

On December 10, 1953, Langston Hughes was interviewed by Agents of this Bureau concerning his knowledge of the National Council of American - Soviet Friendship and its forerunner, the Friends of the Soviet Union. Hughes stated that like many other "left wing" organizations of which he had been a member or sponsored in the past, relationship with these organizations was merely a paper one and he had no knowledge of their inner workings or any connection that they might have had with the Communist Party.

The National Council of American - Soviet Friendship has been cited pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

Hughes stated he had never been a member of the Communist Party, but admitted cooperation with the "left wing" element in this country through the years. He denied that he had ever been suggested as a candidate on the Communist Party ticket in 1936 or 1938, and stated that to his knowledge, he never attended any Communist Party meetings. (100-15139-73)

"The Worker," for August 21, 1960, contained an article under the headline, "Langston Hughes Published in USSR." This article stated that the Foreign Literature Publishing House in Moscow had put out a new volume of

LANGSTON HUGHES

With reference to your request of October 26, 1961 concerning captioned individual there is set forth herein a summary of information in this Bureau's files concerning Mr. Hughes.

Mr. Hughes was born February 1, 1902, at Joplin, Missouri, and graduated from Lincoln University, Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, in 1929.

An investigation of Mr. Hughes was instituted in March, 1941, when information was received that he was to speak at a luncheon in Pasadena, California, which was sponsored by an organization known as the 'Book and Author.' The circular announcing the luncheon and Mr. Hughes' appearance reported that Mr. Hughes was a member of the American Section of Moscow's 'International Union of Revolutionary Writers.' The investigation developed that Mr. Hughes was a member, sponsor or otherwise affiliated with the following organizations which have been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450:

American Peace Mobilization; National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners; National Committee for People's Rights; League of American Writers; Abraham Lincoln Brigade (cited as Abraham Lincoln Brigade or Battalion); National Council of American-Soviet Friendship; and the American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born.

Additionally, the investigation developed that he was a member, sponsor or otherwise affiliated with the following organizations which have been cited by the House Committee on Un-American Activities:

League of Struggle for Negro Rights; American Friends of the Mexican People; American Writers Congress; Soviet Russia Today; and Book Union.

The investigation further revealed that in addition to his long record of association with communist front organizations, one informant, who has furnished reliable information in the past, reported that Mr. Hughes was one of the first Negro intellectuals to join the Communist Party.

Mr. Hughes, an author of several books, is also the author of a poem entitled "Goodbye Christ," which in part is as follows:

"Listen, Christ,
You did alright in your day, I reckon -
But that day's gone now
They ghosted you up a swell story, too
Called it the Bible -
But its dead now."

He is also the author of a publication entitled "A New Song," which was published by the International Workers Order, 80 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The International Workers Order has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

The investigation further revealed that an informant, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Mr. Hughes was suggested as a candidate in 1936 and 1938 on the Communist Party election ticket, but was turned down by the National Committee of the Communist Party because he was considered more valuable to the Communist Party as a writer and lecturer.

On March 26, 1953, Mr. Hughes testified in public session before the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Government Operations (McCarthy Committee). He stated that there was a period during his life when he believed in the Soviet form of government, beginning roughly with the Scottsboro case (circa 1930) and lasting for some ten or twelve years. Mr. Hughes attempted to qualify his position by stating that his disillusionment commenced at the time of the Nazi-Soviet Pact, but that he continued to sympathize with certain phases of Soviet ideology for some time after that. He continued that his reorientation was completed some four or five years prior to his appearance before instant committee and certainly before 1950. He added that during the time of his belief in the Soviet form of government, his writings reflected his feelings.

The Attorney General

On December 10, 1953, Mr. Hughes was interviewed by Agents of this Bureau concerning his knowledge of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and its forerunner the Friends of the Soviet Union. He stated that like any other "left-wing" organizations of which he had been a member or sponsored in the past, relationship with these organizations was merely a paper one and he had no knowledge of their inner workings or any connection they might have had with the Communist Party.

During the interview Hughes stated he had never been a member of the Communist Party, but admitted cooperation with the "left-wing" element in this country through the years. He denied that he had ever been suggested as a candidate on the Communist Party ticket in 1936 or 1938 and stated that to his knowledge he never attended any Communist Party meetings.

Additional information in this Bureau's files reveals that "The Worker," an east coast communist newspaper for August 21, 1960, contained an article under the headline "Langston Hughes Published in USSR." This article stated that the Foreign Literature Publishing House in Moscow had put out a new volume of verse by Langston Hughes containing 110 poems written between 1926 and the time of publication. The article indicated that Langston Hughes had written a special introduction for this Russian edition. (100-15139)

Memorandum

TO : Mr. Belmont

DATE: 10/26/61

FROM : C. A. Evans

SUBJECT: LANGSTON HUGHES

The Attorney General called and stated that in connection with the visit to this country of one of the leaders of the new African nations, a request had been made to have Langston Hughes, the Negro poet, included in the White House invitation list. The Attorney General asked for information which might be readily available concerning Hughes because an immediate White House decision had to be made relative to inviting Hughes.

The Attorney General was informed that as he undoubtedly knew, Langston Hughes was a prominent Negro lecturer, author and poet and had written prolifically on an interracial theme. Kennedy was further informed that I recalled we had conducted an extensive investigation of Hughes and would have detailed information in our files as Hughes had a long record of association with communists and communist front organizations and while it was not generally known, it was reported that he was one of the first Negro intellectuals to join the Communist Party.

I told the Attorney General we would be glad to have our files reviewed and a memorandum prepared for him. He said unless he called back this would not be necessary.

SUBJECT: LANGSTON HUGHES

Mr. Evans in a memorandum to Mr. Belmont dated October 26, 1961, advised of the Attorney General calling and requesting information regarding Langston Hughes, a Negro poet whose name was proposed to be included in a White House invitation list honoring one of the leaders of the new African nations. The Attorney General was informed of Hughes' prominence as a lecturer, author and poet. He was also informed that we had conducted an extensive investigation of Hughes which revealed long time association with numerous communist front organizations. The Director commented "Prepare summary. H."

The attached summary has been prepared for the Attorney General, which sets forth in more detail the information previously furnished him concerning Hughes. It mentions his affiliations with numerous organizations cited by either the Attorney General or the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It further mentions the report that he became one of the first Negro intellectuals to join the Communist Party and it also sets forth his denial in 1953 when interviewed by Bureau Agents that he had been a Communist Party member or a candidate on the Communist Party ticket as was allegedly reported.

ACTION

That the attached letter to the Attorney General, if approved, be forwarded to him.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

Several library books written by one Langston Hughes are in the libraries of the public schools of this District.

This week allegations were presented to the Board of Trustees that Mr. Hughes is a well-identified communist. The members of the Board and I are concerned about these statements.

We have reviewed all of the books found in our libraries, and we find nothing even controversial or un-American in the books.

A poem entitled "Goodby Christ", and words to a song entitled "One More 'S' in the U.S.A." were read by one individual at the regular meeting of the Board. A copy of a "Fact Sheet" presented by the aforesaid individual is enclosed, which contains the poem and words of the song. These were supposedly written by Langston Hughes, and, in my opinion, are not acceptable as public school material.

Is it possible to determine the standing of Mr. Hughes on the communist issue through your office, and any information you may have on his publications? We shall appreciate any help you can give us in this matter.

Also, we feel it would be very helpful if we might receive from your office a copy of the list of known communist-front organizations, if this is a proper request.

Very truly yours,

The following is a song written by Langston Hughes on the occasion of the Eighth Convention of the Communist Party, U.S.A:

ONE MORE 'S' IN THE U.S.A.

Put one more S in the U.S.A.
To make it Soviet.
One more S in the U.S.A.
Oh, we'll live to see it yet.
When the land belongs to the farmers
And the factories to the working men--
The U.S.A. when we take control
Will be U.S.S.A. then.

Now across the water in Russia
They have a big U.S.S.R.
The Fatherland of the Soviets--
But that is mighty far
From New York, or Texas, or California, too.
So listen, fellow workers,
This is what we have to do:
Put one more S in the U.S.A.
(Repeat chorus)

But we can't win out by just talking,
So let us take things in our hand.
Then down and 'way with the bosses' sway--
Hail Communistic Land.
So stand up in battle and wave our flag on high,
And shout out, fellow workers,
Our new slogan to the sky:
Put one more S in the U.S.A.
(Repeat chorus)

But we can't join hands strong together
So long as whites are lynching black,
So black and white in one union fight
And get on the right track.
By Texas, or Georgia, or Alabama led
Come together, fellow workers,
Black and white can all be red:
Put one more S in the U.S.A.
(Repeat chorus)

Oh, the bankers they all are planning
For another great big war.
To make them rich from the workers' dead,
That's all that war is for
So if you don't want to see bullets holding sway
Then come on, all you workers,
And join our fight today.
Put one more S in the U.S.A.
(Repeat chorus)

The following is a poem written by Langston Hughes which appears in the Congressional Record--Appendix June 6, 1961, page A4057:

GOODBY, CHRIST

Listen, Christ,
You did alright in your day, I reckon--
But that day's gone now.
They ghosted you up a swell story, too,
Called it the Bible--

But it's dead now.
The popes and the preachers've
Made too much money from it.
They've sold you to too many.

Kings, generals, robbers, and killers--
Even to the Tzar and the Cossacks,
Even to Rockefeller's Church,
Even to The Saturday Evening Post.
You aint' no good no more.
They've pawned you
Till you've done wore out.

Goodbye,
Christ Jesus, Lord God Jehova,
Beat it on away from here now.
Make way for a new guy with no religion at all--
A real guy named
Marx, Communist, Lenin, Peasant, Stalin, Worker, Me--

I said, ME!

Go ahead on now,
You're getting in the way of things, Lord.
And please take Saint Ghandi with you when you go,
And Saint Pope Pius,
And Saint Aimee McPherson,
And big black Saint Becton
Of the Consecrated Dime.
And step on the gas Christ!
Move!

Dont' be so slow about moving'!
The world is mine from now on--
And nobody's gonna sell ME
To a king, or a general,
Or a millionaire.

Goodby, Christ, good morning, revolution.

This letter was addressed as above in view of the fact that the letterhead carried two schools in its title and, therefore, it was deemed appropriate to omit both schools from the address.

Langston Hughes is not currently a subject of a security investigation, however, his past activities are well known to the Bureau. Hughes has been described as one of the original Negro intellectuals who joined the Communist Party. He testified before the McCarthy Committee on 3/26/53. He stated that there was a period of time during his life when he believed in the Soviet form of government (approximately 1930), He became disillusioned at the time of the Nazi-Soviet Pact but considered himself to be completely reoriented by at least 1950. He added that during the time of his belief in the Soviet form of Government his writings reflected his feelings. He was interviewed by Bureau Agents in 1953 and denied he had ever been a member of the Communist Party but admitted cooperation with the "left-wing element."

"The Worker," an east coast communist newspaper, dated 8/21/60 contained an article under the headline "Langston Hughes Published in USSR." This article stated that the Foreign Literature Publishing House in Moscow had put out a new volume of verse by Langston Hughes.

NOTE: Langston Hughes is not currently a subject of a security investigation, however, his past activities are well known to the Bureau. Hughes has been described as one of the original Negro intellectuals who joined the Communist Party. He testified before the McCarthy Committee on 3/26/53. He stated that there was a period of time during his life when he believed in the Soviet form of government (approximately 1930). He became disillusioned at the time of the Nazi-Soviet Pact but considered himself to be completely reoriented by at least 1950. He added that during the time of his belief in the Soviet form of Government his writings reflected his feelings. He was interviewed by Bureau Agents in 1953 and denied he had ever been a member of the Communist Party but admitted cooperation with the "left-wing element."

Dear Mr. Hoover:-

I have always admired you more than most any man alive, because for so many years you have fought to keep our country free. And I know your job must get harder every day. However, if it helps any, you have the love and respect of every true American patriot.

Something has disturbed me for some time now and I wondered who to write to about it and decided you'd be the logical one to tell.

I am satisfied (even though the President entertained him at a luncheon in the White House) that Langston Hughes tries to woo people into communism by giving them a false picture of its aims and doctrines and at the same time he openly advocates the overthrow of our government.

I quote one of his poems that is recommended reading of the Dept. of Racial and Cultural Relations of the National Council of Churches.

Poem follows:

One more "S" in the U. S. A
Now across the waters in Russia
They have a big U. S. S. R.,
The fatherland of the Soviets,
But that is mighty far
from New York or Texas or California, too.
So listen fellow workers,
This is what we have to do.

Chorus

Put one more S in the USA
Oh, we'll live to see it yet.
When the land belongs to the Farmers
and the factories belong to the working men,
The U. S. A when we take control,
Will be the U. S. S. A. then.
But we can't win out just talking
So let us take things in our hands,
Then down and away with the bosses' away,

Jan 13

313

Hail, Communist land.
So stand up in battle and wave our flag on high
And shout out, fellow workers,
Our new slogan to the sky.
But we can't join hands strong together
So long as white are lynching black,
So black and white in one union fight
And get on the right track.
By Texas or Georgia or Alabama led
Comes together fellow workers,
Black and white can all be Red.

Now we know people in Communist countries seldom even own their farms or factories and I am sure Langston Hughes knows that too.

Besides how long has it been in this country since you heard of a white man lynching a black? So treats just to stir up more strife.

And if his poem doesn't woo people to become communists and doesn't openly advocate the overthrow of our government, I'd like to know what does.

I have read another of his so called poems "Goodbye Christ" which not only advocates communism but is the most blasphemous thing I ever read. Its too long to copy but here are just a few lines-- and he's saying, it all to Jesus Christ.

Beat it on away from here now,
Make way for a new guy with no religion at all--
A real guy named
Marx, Communist, Lenin, Peasant, Stalin, Worker, ME-
I said ME!
Go ahead on now
You're getting in the way of things, Lord.

The rest of it is even more blasphemous but I just wanted to show you the communist part. He's one of the ones, I feel, Bobby Kennedy should make register or pay the fine he set.

My very best wishes to a great and noble man.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I [illegible] at our local School Board Meeting a protest [illegible] against the appearance of Langston Hughes, poet, at our local educational TV station. This information as to Hughes was challenged as unacceptable due to [illegible] as to veracity of this statement. The [illegible] of Hughes on Watch, Channel 2, has been cancelled.

What I would like to know is if this information concerning Langston Hughes' associations is correct. Also, is he or has he been a member of the Communist party? It is of great importance to know of the integrity of Louis Nelson (whose part the School Board Meeting said Nelson had been discredited) and the accuracy of his statements come what may.

If you do not have or cannot give this information, would you please direct me to someone who could supply committee reports, testimony, etc.

It is terribly confusing today to know who is correct and believe we should do our best to determine what is true.

Thank you for whatever information you can give. My prayers are always with you and I know God will bless you and guide you.

Dear Mr. Hoover;-

Would it be possible for you to mail me a resume of the FBI record on the negro Langston Hughes, author of the poem "Good-by Christ"?

This negro has been scheduled to speak to the school children of Nashville over our educational TV Channel 2 station and I am protesting against it.

I am amazed that their stock-pile of speaker talent has reached such a low ebb, that they would even think of putting this negro atheist in direct touch with young school children.

I will appreciate an immediate reply.

The Problem of Equality

(1 Corinthians 11:17-34)

During the past summer the air was filled with the raucous sounds of conflict in Birmingham. Chicago, New York and Danville. It was also redolent with discord within the United Nations, and within the Backward Countries demanding recognition. Accompanying these was the endless struggle of labor and capital, and the seemingly endless drain of our resources into the Give-Away-Programs at home and abroad. The air was charged with social electricity as individuals, groups and nations fought for new status under the banner of equality.

Equality has intoxicated the modern world. Men walk starry-eyed through streets and halls dreaming of new days and improved status. The whole world seems in a pep-rally mood, and the bonfires grow larger and burn more fiercely, even as the songs, chants and shouts of the participants become louder and more fervent. In a thousand tongues men scream their demands for equality, for place, for recognition, for "rights," for privileges.

As one listens he frequently hears the words, "All men are created equal, and are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness." But the words never end there, but hurry on to declare that it is the responsibility of government to make all men equal and to maintain equality amongst men. Still other words are heard, declaring that democracy has failed to establish equality, and that men therefore must now turn to socialism and communism.

In my summer setting, close to nature, I looked around for evidences of equality in nature, and found none. Trees and hills are not the same in breadth and height. Rivers and lakes are not of uniform size. Not all animals and birds are swift and beautiful. The lion does not recognize the equalness of the antelope, nor the fox the rabbit. Some fields are fertile and others sterile, and clouds and puddles are not the same, though both are water created. In nature inequality seems to prevail, and yet the inequalities of nature produce the beauty we admire.

As I thought of it the same seemed to be true of history. Nations and races do differ in size, wealth, prestige, power, creativity, and vision. Some soar like eagles. Some build like beavers. Some grow like vegetables and weeds in the garden called the earth. Between individuals, races, groups and nations there are broad differences, and equality is not a characteristic of either nature or human nature.

Having reached this point my mind asked the question, Can we have both freedom and equality? Someone has said, "Freedom without equality tends to become license. Equality without freedom tends to produce stagnation." How can these great objectives be secured without damage to the highest social system men have yet devised, democracy?

Looking back across history, I realized that the Jews preached concern for the poor, but not equality. The Greeks preached democracy, but not equality. The Romans preached justice under law, but not equality. The Middle Ages in Europe preached Christ, but not equality. In fact, not until the French Revolution did men openly affirm that "Men are born and always continue free and equal in respects to their rights," and not until our Declaration declared that "All men are created equal" did the world come alive to the possibilities of equality. These two events placed a new chemical in the cup of life, and the contents of that cup are changing men.

Here I paused to rethink the words, "All men are created equal." Are they? I could see that all men are created equally helpless, equally ignorant, equally inexperienced, equally sin-touched, but I could not see how they could be said to be created equal in any other sense. Men do not begin life with an even start for all. Their beginnings are marked by differences in pedigrees, health, educational and moral levels, economic strength, social status and personality potentials. There are broad differences in temperament, talents, drives, and desires. They do not begin life on a common line.

And what of the so-called "unalienable rights, such as life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness"? Life is the gift of God, and so are liberty and happiness—in a certain sense. But being born is never enough. Getting here alive is only a beginning. In order to really live one needs medical science, proper nutrition, adequate care, and a chance to become educated and equipped for adult responsibilities. As to liberty, it is not something that comes with birth. Liberty is man created, man achieved, and man maintained. God approves it, but man must win it. Happiness is a by-product of a way of life rather than something granted us by birth. It, too, is something we achieve by effort. It depends on many things: employment, purpose, personal development, and the right use of the opportunities and duties of life. Life God gives, but liberty and happiness we must achieve.

Having reached that state of mind, I wondered why men ever thought that government could make men equal and keep them equal. How can mere laws produce equality amongst men on a heart level? How can coerced fellowship ever become real fellowship?

That government has a role to play in the mighty, moving drama of man's progress is not to be denied. Our Constitution and our Bill of Rights stand to affirm it. It is the function of government to state the conditions of liberty, equality and responsibility, but unless it is the will of the people to give life to the law, it will not work. The Prohibition era proved that beyond our contesting.

Then why do we believe and state in our legal documents that "All men are created equal," and have "unalienable rights"?

I presume it is because we must find some means of limiting the powers of the powerful and of protecting the rights of the weak. Great power, unpoliced, tends to become destructive power. The rights of the weak tend to be lost in a land where only the strong prevail.

We all understand this, even as we all realize that the clamor for equality is always a push from below rather than a pull from above, although it has often been both in these United States. Slaves have never enjoyed being slaves. The poor have never enjoyed being poor. The exploited have never been happy with exploitation. Those who fail have never been proud of their shortcomings, and the employed have always felt that it would be better if they were the employers. It is from this level of life that the hunger for equality rises. It is here that Utopia displays its broad green fields and still waters. It is from here that the valley of Shangri-la appears as the answer to all the ills of man. It is the hopelessness of the masses that provides the soil for hope in those who will not surrender to the accidents of birth and environment, and it is well that it is so.

And yet, one must face facts. In any classroom of pupils only a few qualify under the letter A. Below these leaders of the class are the B students, and then the C's, and then the D's, and then the F's. Some by ability and effort rise to the top, while others because of lack of ability or application take their places on the descending curve of scholarship.

In every nation it is the same. Only a small percentage of people have the ability, the desire, the drive, the willingness to work and sacrifice, to foresee and

Prepare for success in any realm. The people who struggle to succeed are never interested in equality, but in superiority. Their goal is never the level of the masses, but a level above the masses. They endorse and espouse liberty because it creates for them a favorable climate in which to think, plan, create, work, and achieve according to their abilities and desires. They never pace themselves by the speed of the mediocre, but by the speed of the best. They are never satisfied by crumbs; they want half loaves and whole loaves.

It is such people who made America possible, and who have always led men in the upward climb. They are in truth the benefactors of the race. It is their ideas and creativeness that establish businesses and industries, thereby providing employment for others, and the taxes that make community and national progress possible. They furnish our best leadership, and give to the nation our best guarantee of security. It is because of them that progress is produced in all areas of life, the intellectual, the artistic, the economic, the governmental and the social. While they did not build America alone, they provided the means whereby our nation came into existence and has continued on its upward way.

Looking critically at such a line of thought, I suddenly realized that the success of the few creates the inequalities that loom large in the minds of the many. The Haves highlight the Have-nots. It is the successful who outlive the failures and all others who take their places on the curve of life as it sweeps downward.

During my summer days it seemed to me that:

It is the nature of some men to succeed, and others to fail.
It is the nature of some men to get by, and others to achieve.
It is the nature of the Have-littles to want more.
It is the nature of the successful to seek to dominate.
It is the nature of those who are unsuccessful to resent it.
It is the nature of the poor to envy.
It is the nature of the wealthy to assume unjust privileges.
It is the nature of those who inherit wealth to use it well, to misuse it, or to feel guilty because they have it.

It is the nature of the intellectuals who receive their compensation from taxes or the gifts of the economically successful to advocate a change of system in order to get one wherein the intellectuals will be as generously rewarded as business executives under Free Enterprise.

It is because men are unequal in ability and drive, in opportunities for recognition and advancement, in rewards for work done and services rendered that people become restless socially. It is the inequalities of humanity that create the crusaders for equality. In the 18th century men looked to democracy as the answer to the inequalities amongst men, and now in the 20th men look toward socialism and communism.

Democracy as we have tried to shape it in America has been heavily impregnated with the Ten Commandments of Judaism and the Spirit of Jesus.

Because of this we are suspicious of any system that advocates the Big [illegible], covetousness, greed, the stealing of property, the destruction of life, and the taking away of liberties. Democracy condemns without reservations the confiscation of private property and capital by the state and the regimenting of human beings like animals on a farm. Our democracy is not perfect. Imperfections exist, but its virtues exceed those of any other system mankind has tried.

These observations moved me then to reach certain opinions concerning American democracy:

1. Democracy was never created to be a leveller of men. It was created to be a lifter, a developer of men.
2. Democracy was created to let the gifted, the energetic and the creative rise to high heights of human achievement, and to let each man find his own level on the stairway of existence.
3. Democracy was created to help men meet responsibilities and shirk no duties. That is why our nation has been concerned about the honest needs of its citizens. We lead the world in justice, even though justice does not always move with prompt alacrity. Our nation has been noted for the size of its heart and not merely for the size of its pocketbook.
4. Democracy demands that the nation be governed by the capable, the honorable, the far seeing, the clear seeing, and not by mediocre men. In the beginning it was so! May it be so again.
5. Democracy demands more from men than any other system in the realm of self-discipline, dependability, cooperativeness, industry, thrift, and honor. Democracy will not work when party politics are not guided by basic ethical principles. For a party to foster class consciousness, class conflict, misrepresentation, covetousness, violence, theft, and an open defiance of established law is to breed anarchy.
6. Democracy must give to all its people the following rights:
   The right to equal learning.
   The right to equal employment.
   The right to equal treatment.
   The right to equal justice.
   The right to adequate housing.
   The right to vote.

The meditations of the summer convinced me that governments of themselves cannot make men equal or remake men into the beings they ought to be. That is a spiritual venture, not an economic and political one. A change from democracy to either socialism or communism, or a change from private capitalism to state capitalism, will not solve the basic problems of mankind; it merely shifts the areas of power.

I am disturbed, therefore, when church leaders and church groups seem to advocate socialistic means and objectives as the answer to the problems of democracy, and especially the problems of equality. This is especially true when certain leaders voice slogans that appear logical and Christian, but are not. Let me name four:

1. "The world owes every man a living." No, it doesn't! Christian ethics have never said so, and I have never known any man worth his salt who has claimed special rights under such a slogan. It is the cry of the lazy, the inept, and the failures. Such a slogan is a far cry from our meeting the needs of the needy, which, of course, is our duty.

2. "Production for use, and not for profit." That sounds good, but it is as phony as a Russian promise. It is profits that have produced the blessings of our nation and enabled her to be a blessing to the nations of the world. Profits are essential to the general well being of society. When the state takes over under the slogan of "use, not profits" men lose their liberties and their standard of living. Such a switch merely augments the insatiable appetite of the state.

3. "Human rights, not property rights." As I look out over the world, one thing is clear: where there are not private property rights there are no human rights. Private property rights form the seed bed in which human rights mature. As long as private property rights are clear human rights will flourish.

4. "The end justifies the means." According to Christian ethics the statement is not true. It was just such a statement that produced the crucifixion of Jesus, the torture of the martyrs, the burning of witches, and the denial of life and liberty to the inhabitants of current Communistic lands.

Churchmen, whether lay or clerical, who seek to solve the problems of our society through socialistic processes rather than democratic ones within the free enterprise system are heading down a road that leads toward darkness. Only by encouraging Christians to envy, to covet, to be class conscious, to foster class conflict, and to approve stealing and even murder, can such objectives be attained. To realize them would bring about a broad denial of law and order, and the orderly handling of social problems. Whenever we as a church, an educational system or a Supreme Court encourage people to misrepresent facts, to use force wrongfully, to flaunt law and order and to stimulate bitterness and hatred, we depart from logic, Americanism and Christianity.

I unhesitantly oppose the use of socialistic and communistic methods in the solving of the problems of our free enterprise democracy. Our problems are problems of human nature rather than of economics and sociology. The man who has two cars is not preventing another from having one. The man who earns $50,000 a year is not robbing him who receives $300 a month. The man who owns a good house does not thereby force another man to dwell in the slums. And the people who prosper under our system cannot be blamed for the problems that plague the lives of those who compose the lower twenty-five percent of the nation. The so-called Privileged are not always a credit to either church or state, but they are not in the main parasites on the body politic. We are therefore wrong when we damn the successful, the wealthy, the enlightened and the patriotic in order to gain what we call equality.

Having said that let me hasten to add that the redistribution of wealth will not solve the human problem that plagues us. Wealth is not fairly distributed in any land under the sun; it never has been and I presume never will be. Nor do we solve social predicaments when we blame the top twenty percent of our people for the inequities that seem to mark the eighty percent. Nor is it logical for our government to be forever emphasizing the neglected duties of the employer while ignoring almost totally the neglected duties of the rest of us. The wealthy have many sins to confess, but so do we all. And when we come to the advocacy of moving from private capitalism to state capitalism, and the listing of the sins of democracy while ignoring its multiple virtues, and assuming that virtue resides in the Have-nots, but not in the Haves, I can only shake my head at the presumed wisdom of such positions.

Let no one hearing my voice conclude that I am speaking as a Have or a defender of the Haves. Let no one believe that I am unconcerned about those in our midst whose rights are often ignored and whose status is questioned. I am not blind to the sins of the privileged any more than I am the sins of the underprivileged. The business leaders do not need my voice to defend their position; they are strong defenders of themselves. But I have walked the roads of life with men of all classes, and have reached one conclusion, "there is none righteous, no, not one!" We are all bearers of the telltale gray of selfishness. The Five-O'clock shadow is on all our faces.

The Lord I love and serve was not overly optimistic about humanity. He knew man as he is, and worked with him for what he could become. He ministered to the multitude, teaching, healing, feeding, encouraging, comforting, but he never assumed that equality was part of the human scene. He talked of love and neighborliness, but not equality.

Perhaps that is why the New Testament puts the emphasis on brotherhood and not equality. It emphasizes responsibilities, not privileges. It stresses love toward God and love toward neighbor. It seeks to create a church that will be brotherly within, and concerned for those without. It urges men to find the God-way to selfhood, success and happiness, and offers a heat-treated cell to all who misuse life, be they rich or poor.

Paul, in his letter to the Church of Corinth, denounced the lack of brotherhood within the church, and urged men to be concerned for one another, but he did not assume equality to be one of the "must" characteristics of Christianity. It was not a matter of love without differences, but love in spite of them.

The church, as someone has said, learned a long time ago that it is easier to create liberty than it is to establish equality. It has always known that equality can only be had by a loss of certain liberties. If men want equality above all else they may best[illegible] it in communism. If men want liberty [illegible] a fair portion of equality they must turn toward democracy.

What the world needs is a change of heart, a change of climate born of faith in God, a reaching up that there may be a reaching out, a confession that produces a new dedication. This governments and laws cannot create, for governments and laws are but the reflection of the standards of a people. Everything in social Christianity depends on the wise use of possessions, time and talents, and only when we, Christian members of a democracy, become good stewards of the things that bless life do we begin to move in the direction of righteousness and justice, peace and true prosperity.

The problem of equality may be in many ways the greatest problem of our day. We cannot solve it by government, and we shall not solve it en masse. Only when we as Christians take seriously the teachings and example of Jesus shall equality and liberty exist without detraction or subtraction. Only when we stand before God confessing our needs shall we be empowered to meet the needs of others.

If I must choose between liberty and equality, I must choose liberty and then hope and work for equality, for such seems to me to be the Christian's way.

Hon. J. Edgar Hoover

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I am writing to ask if you can give me some information concerning Langston Hughes. I am a librarian in the Columbus Public School System and we have been having some controversy concerning this author. It has been my understanding that Langston Hughes is an avowed communist. However, at a recent meeting of librarians it was stated that you had "cleared" Langston Hughes as to his communist connections. Could you please tell me whether or not this is true and give me some explanation concerning the situation.

I am also interested in knowing whether or not you consider the official reports of the House Committee on Un-American Activities to be trustworthy and reliable.

Thank you for any information you may be able to give me along these lines.

Sincerely yours,

Dear [redacted] 6(7)(C)

Your letter of November 26, 1963, has been received.

With respect to your inquiry concerning the individual you mentioned, the FBI does not issue clearances or nonclearances of any type. Therefore, the statement attributed to me that this individual had been "cleared" is erroneous.

Although I would like to be of further service, information contained in the files of the FBI must be maintained as confidential in accordance with regulations of the Department of Justice and is available for official use only.

In response to your other question, I am enclosing literature which I trust will be of assistance to you.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Congressman:

Could you please furnish me some information about a local controversy? There has been quite a bit of discussion on a local radio station W.E.E.Z., Chester since the Upper Darby School (senior) has substituted a book of inspirational quotes and poems of great MEN for the Bible. One of the authors or Poet rather included was Langston Hughes. It is about him that I am writing.

Because Langston Hughes is credited with the poem "Good-bye Christ" many people were discussing the pros & cons of him and the book. Now what I would like to know is this; one woman stated on the air that Langston Hughes was listed in INDEX #9 as a card carrying Communist, and another stated that he is now working for the U.S.I.A. for which he would need and has gotten a security clearance. Could you clear this up for us? I told the commentator, that I would write to you and get the full facts in this matter and settel the question once and for all.

I realize you are a very busy man and have little time for such trivia, but since I did not know how to obtain this information by myself I hoped you would understand and help me.

Thank you so very much for your time and trouble.

Yours very truly,

Security Matter - C

In January, 1966, the records of the Passport Office, United States Department of State, Washington, DC, reflected that on December 30, 1965, United States Passport Number F1050053 was issued to the subject at New York. At the time of the issuance, the subject indicated he intended to depart New York City via air on December 30, 1965, for a three week trip to France and Tunisia.

In 1950, Mr. Louis F. Budenz, former Managing Editor of the "Daily Worker" and a Communist Party (CP) functionary until 1945, advised that shortly after he, Budenz, entered the CP in the late 1930's he was advised through another CP official that subject was a CP member. This, according to Budenz, was re-enforced by publicity given the subject in the "Daily Worker" with regard to his literary efforts. Budenz stated that during the 1940's while he was the Managing Editor of the "Daily Worker" reports were given to him from time to time which indicated that subject was a loyal adherent of the CP until 1945.

The "Daily Worker" was an East Coast Communist daily newspaper which ceased publication in 1958.

On March 26, 1953, the subject testified before a public hearing of the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Government Operations of the United States Senate held in Room 357, Senate Office Building, Washington, DC. Subject testified that there had been a period during his life when he believed in the Soviet form of government and that he held a personal sympathy for the Soviet ideology in the early 1930's. Subject stated his belief in the Soviet form of government continued for some 10 to 12 years. Subject stated he became somewhat disillusioned with the Soviet ideology in 1939 following the signing of the Nazi - Soviet Pact, but he continued to sympathize with certain phases of Soviet ideology for some years after that. Subject stated that his orientation towards the Soviets was reversed completely by 1950. He testified that during the time of his belief in the Soviet form of government he had written material which definitely reflected his feelings at the time. He further testified that he had never joined the CP, was not a CP member as of 1953, and had no sympathy for the Communist movement.

ENCLOSURE

On December 10, 1953, subject was interviewed by Special Agent [redacted] and [redacted] (b)(7)(C) of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. During this interview, subject admitted having cooperated with the "Left Wing Element" in the United States down through the years. Subject stated that a fair statement concerning his position with regard to the CP and CP front organizations would be that he had been used by those groups to promote the CP line relative to Negro problems in the United States. Subject further stated that he had found the "Left Wing" press sympathetic and a ready outlet for his writing.

The summer 1963 issue of "Freedomways" Volume 3, Number 3,which was self-described as a "Quarterly Review of the Negro Freedom Movement" published by Freedomways Associates,Incorporated, 799 Broadway, New York City, on Page 312, contained an article entitled "My Early Days In Harlem" by Langston Hughes.

Freedomways Associates,Incorporated is characterized in the appendix attached hereto.

1. APPENDIX

FREEDOMWAYS ASSOCIATES, INC.

The records of the New York Secretary of State, Albany, New York, show that the certificate of incorporation of Freedomways Associates, Inc., was filed on March 2, 1961.

The Winter, 1965, issue of "Freedomways" is self-described as "A Quarterly Review of the Negro Freedom Movement" published by Freedomways Associates, Inc., 799 Broadway, New York City. This issue lists JOHN HENRIK CLARE as Associate Editor, ESTHER JACKSON as Managing Editor, and JOHN L. DEVINE as Art Editor of the publication.

A confidential source made available information on July 1, 1964, reflecting that JOHN HENRIK CLARKE attended the first and founding meeting of the American Institute for Marxist Studies (AIMS) which was held on December 19, 1963, and continued on January 10, 1964.

This source also made available information on August 14, 1964, reflecting that CLARKE is an "associate" of AIMS.

The Winter, 1963, issue of "Freedomways," page 44, states that ESTHER JACKSON became one of the leaders of the Southern Negro Youth Congress (SNYC) which existed from 1937 to 1949.

The SNYC has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

According to a confidential source, ESTHER JACKSON is the wife of JAMES JACKSON, whom the source identified on October 14, 1964, as being a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party, United States of America (CP,USA.)

On January 30, 1961 [redacted] advised [redacted] mentioned on December 17, 1960, that he was still in the CP and that the CP is his whole life.

2. APPENDIX

FREEDOMWAYS ASSOCIATES, INC.

On July 24, 1963, a confidential source described JOHN DEVINE as a CP member.

On May 24, 1961, a source advised that a report was given on "Freedomways" at a meeting of the National Board, CP, USA, held on May 24, 1961. It was stated that the original plan called for the publication to be openly Marxist, but that it was later decided it would not be avowedly a Marxist publication. Editorials are in the hands of a mixed group of Marxists and non-Marxists. It was stated that the central purpose of "Freedomways" is to develop a theory and positive criticism of currents in the Negro Movement, as well as to raise the level of understanding and discussion taking place in Negro life today and to project a socialist and pro-Soviet orientation.

On May 25, 1961, a source advised that "Freedomways" was set up for the CP, USA, by JAMES JACKSON.

September 14, 1966

LANGSTON HUGHES

Mr. Hughes was born on February 1, 1902, at Joplin, Missouri, and graduated from Lincoln University, Lincoln, University, Pennsylvania, in 1929.

An investigation of Mr. Hughes was instituted in March, 1941, when information was received that he was to speak at a luncheon in Pasadena, California, which was sponsored by an organization known as the "Book and Author." The circular announcing the luncheon and Mr. Hughes' appearance reported that Mr. Hughes was a member of the American Section of Moscow's "International Union of Revolutionary Writers." The investigation developed that Mr. Hughes was a member, sponsor or otherwise affiliated with the following organizations which have been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450:

American Peace Mobilization; National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners; National Committee for People's Rights; League of American Writers; Abraham Lincoln Brigade (cited as Abraham Lincoln Brigade or Battalion); National Council of American-Soviet Friendship; and the American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born.

Additionally, the investigation developed that he was a member, sponsor or otherwise affiliated with the following organizations which have been cited by the House Committee on Un-American Activities:

League of Struggle for Negro Rights; American Friends of the Mexican People; American Writers Congress; and Book Union.

NOTE: Per request of Mrs. Mildred Stegall, White House Staff.

The investigation further revealed that in addition to his long record of association with communist front organizations, one informant, who has furnished reliable information in the past, reported that Mr. Hughes was one of the first Negro intellectuals to join the Communist Party.

Mr. Hughes, an author of several books, is also the author of a poem entitled "Goodbye Christ," which in part is as follows:

"Listen, Christ,
You did alright in your day, I reckon -
But that day's gone now
They ghosted you up a swell story, too
Called it the Bible -
But its dead now."

He is also the author of a publication entitled "A New Song," which was published by the International Workers Order, 80 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The International Workers Order has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

The investigation further revealed that an informant, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Mr. Hughes was suggested as a candidate in 1936 and 1938 on the Communist Party election ticket, but was turned down by the National Committee of the Communist Party because he was considered more valuable to the Communist Party as a writer and lecturer.

On March 26, 1953, Mr. Hughes testified in public session before the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Government Operations (McCarthy Committee). He stated that there was a period during his life when he believed in the Soviet form of government, beginning roughly with the Scottsboro case (circa 1930) and lasting for some ten or twelve years. Mr. Hughes attempted to qualify his position by stating that his disillusionment commenced at the time of the Nazi-Soviet Pact, but that he continued to sympathize with certain phases of Soviet ideology for some time after that. He continued that his reorientation was completed some four or five years prior to his appearance before instant committee and certainly before 1950.

He added that during the time of his belief in the Soviet form of government, his writing reflected his feelings.

On December 10, 1953, Mr. Hughes was interviewed by Agents of this Bureau concerning his knowledge of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and its forerunner, the Friends of the Soviet Union. He stated that like any other "left-wing" organizations of which he had been a member or sponsored in the past, relationship with these organizations was merely a paper one and he had no knowledge of their inner workings or any connection they might have had with the Communist Party.

During the interview Hughes stated he had never been a member of the Communist Party, but admitted cooperation with the "left-wing" element in this country through the years. He denied that he had ever been suggested as a candidate on the Communist Party ticket in 1936 or 1938 and stated that to his knowledge he never attended any Communist Party meetings.

Additional information in this Bureau's files reveals that "The Worker," an east coast communist newspaper for August 21, 1960, contained an article under the headline "Langston Hughes Published in USSR." This article stated that the Foreign Literature Publishing House in Moscow had put out a new volume of verse by Langston Hughes containing 110 poems written between 1926 and the time of publication. The article indicated that Langston Hughes had written a special introduction for this Russian edition.

Civil fingerprints were located in the files of the FBI Identification Division which may be identical with those of Mr. Hughes. These fingerprints were searched through the criminal files of the Identification Division and no arrest record was located.

Dear Mr. Hoover;

May God bless you in your endeavors to protect our American way of life. Our country is in perilious danger and unfortunately there are none so blind as they who won't see it. There is so much to learn and those of us in America who are concerned and are trying to learn find that it is not an easy task. I speak for myself but I am sure that there are many in this nation who would agree with me.

I am wondering if the F.B.I. has done any investigation into the National Council of Churches and what if anything has been ascertained concerning this organization?

Also, I would like to know if you have investigated an individual by the name of Langston Hughes and what if anything you have learned regarding his activities?

Any information that you might be able to enlighten me with would be greatly appreciated.

Thank you.

Yours for God and Country

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I enclose:

1. Copy of a letter dated June 9, 1970 to the Vestry of The Church of St. John the Divine, 2450 River Oaks Blvd., Houston, Texas, 77019, from Mr. Philip A. Nasquelette.

2. Copy of "March '70 Annual Report General Convention Special Program".

3. Copy of "St. Mark's Vestry Committee Report on the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America".

4. Copy of "The Truth About the St. Mark's Vestry Committee Report".

At the May meeting Mr. Nasquelette refers to, I pointed out what I felt was extreme poor taste and judgment of Mr. Leon F. Modeste in the use of two poems by Langston Hughes — one on second inside sheet, the other on Page 25 -- in the preparation of his '70 Annual Report. I referred to pages xxxvii and xxxviii of the St. Mark's Vestry Committee Report and read some of the thirty-one listings on Langston Hughes.

At this meeting I expressed my very strong feelings about a Church publication using writings of an author such as Langston Hughes after such a detailed rundown on the person as recorded in the St. Mark's Report. I wondered, somewhat angrily I'm sure, why Modeste couldn't find something worthwhile that had been written by a well known theologian. Or, why hadn't he found something in the Bible or the Episcopal Prayer Book that would have been appropriate?

Inasmuch as Mr. Nasquelette forwarded his letter to some twenty people and because I'm convinced Langston Hughes was an enemy of this country, I feel I must answer this letter. I would very much like some additional information on Langston Hughes if it can be furnished by you and your good people:

and/or other hearings on other dates and occasions.

2. I shall be grateful for any and all information you might be able to forward to me pertaining to the activities, writings and connections Langston Hughes had with communists, communist fronts, subversive committees and organizations.

On page 3, par. 2 of Pasquelette's letter he refers to "raisin in the sun" as the title of a successful Broadway play. I seem to remember that this was a highly controversial production written by a Leroi Jones and that Jones is something of a professional trouble maker and rabble rouser. If you cannot furnish information pertaining to this play and its author please advise where I might obtain such details.

Please be referred to SECTION FOUR, page 15 of the St. Mark's Vestry Report in which you will find reference to the belief that the National Council of Churches has been unable to accept the results of the House Un-American Activities Committee. Pasquelette indicates in the final paragraph of page 4 of his letter that he is "not impressed by privileged statements made by unnamed third parties before the House Un-American Committee"---. I have always felt, and I'm sure most everyone I know shares my feeling, that this Congressional Committee has rendered great and valuable services to the American people. Could you furnish me with a list of some of the accomplishments of the House Un-American Activities Committee that have resulted in great benefits to our country and the free world. I understand this Committee is now known as the Internal Security Committee.

It is my prayer and hope that you will be able to continue as Director of the FBI for many, many more years.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

My cousin, Rev.Dr. E. Clayton Calhoun, has asked me to consider illustrating his book about his experiences as President of Paine College, Augusta, Georgia. His title, AT THE EPICENTER OF EXPLODING DREAMS," is taken from black poet Langston Hughes' work, "A DREAM DEFERRED."

In the book, "YOUR CHURCH, THEIR TARGET", I read this written by poet Hughes:

Good-Bye Christ.

"... Good-bye.
Christ Jesus Lord God Jehovah,
But beat it on away from here now.
Make way for a new guy with no religion at all-
A real guy named
Marx Communist Lenin Peasant Stalin [illegible], ME
I said ME! Go ahead on now,
You're getting in the way of things, Lord.
..."

My purpose in writing is to ask for documented background of Langston Hughes.

I love Jesus Christ and will not contribute knowingly to the causes of atheism whatever banner it flies under.

Will appreciate any suggestions you have to offer.
